J. V. Forrestal Appointed Navy Secretary

BANKER PICKED BY F.D.R. TO FILL KNOX VACANCY

White House Aid Since 1940.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—James V. Forrestal of New York, a Democrat, today was nominated by President Roosevelt to succeed the late Frank Knox as secretary of the navy.

J. V. Forrestal.

The nomination of the investment banker, who had been undersecretary of the navy since the summer of 1940, had been widely expected in the capital. It is certain to receive ready approval of the senate naval affairs committee and senate confirmation.

Chairman Walsh [D., Mass.] said the naval affairs committee would act on Forrestal's nomination next Monday after permitting it to lie for the required three days under committee rules. Walsh, who termed the nomination "excellent," said he expected that prompt approval would be given the nomination.

In making the announcement of the appointment the White House merely mentioned that Forrestal's name had been sent to the senate.

Is Navy Veteran.

Forrestal is a veteran of naval aviation during World War I., altho he saw no combat service. He was born in Beacon, N. Y., Feb. 15, 1892. He worked on newspapers in Beacon, Poughkeepsie, and Mount Vernon, N. Y., before attending Dartmouth college and Princeton university.

He was graduated from Princeton in 1915. After a short period with the New Jersey Zinc company and the Tobacco Products company, he became a bond salesman with William A. Read & Co., later Dillon, Read & Co.

In 1917 he enlisted in the naval reserve as a seaman second class and was subsequently assigned to aviation. He was trained with the royal flying corps at Toronto, Canada. He was commissioned ensign that November and assigned at various times to the 1st naval district, New York, the office of the chief of naval operations, Washington, and the naval air station at Hampton Roads, Va.

Named White House Aid.

At the close of the war he was discharged with the rank of lieutenant. He returned to Dillon, Read & Co., becoming president in 1937. In 1926 he married Josephine Ogden. The Forrestals have two sons.

In 1940 he came to the administration as a White House assistant in charge of Latin American problems. He was named undersecretary of the navy in July, 1940.

The nomination will give New York four seats in the cabinet. Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, and Secretary of Labor Perkins are all New Yorkers.

Doris Duke's Reno Divorce Ruled Invalid

Elizabeth, N. J., May 10 [Special].—James H. R. Cromwell, the dilettante politico whose marriage to the world's richest woman, Doris Duke, became—to hear him tell it—a casualty of the New Deal, got his wife back today by order of a New Jersey court.

Advisory Master Dougal Herr, who has been presiding at the trial of Jimmy's suit to set aside a divorce which the golden girl obtained in Reno, Nev., last December, ruled that the Nevada decree is "null, void, and of no effect in New Jersey."

Residence Challenged.

The order was regarded as New Jersey's answer to the "Doris doesn't live here any more" plea of attorneys for the $200,000,000 tobacco heiress. Doris does live here, Herr propounded, for the simple reason that the residence of a married woman is that of her husband. He challenged her right to select a residence outside the state so long as her husband remains in New Jersey.

Altho not directly affected by the current proceedings, New Jersey efforts to levy a tax on intangibles [stocks and bonds] in the vast Duke trust was regarded as an important background feature of the trial. The former [Nevada] or present [N. J.] Mrs. Cromwell went to Reno last summer for the announced dual purpose of getting a divorce and escaping New Jersey's tax laws.

Doris, who was reported to be in New York today, was in seclusion, but her attorney, W. R. Perkins, whom Cromwell blames for poisoning her against him because of his New Deal views, said there would be no statement. Doris has ignored Jimmy's New Jersey litigation and evaded New Jersey process servers.

Sad Life of a New Dealer.

Herr's ruling came after Jimmy took the witness stand to resume the sad story he began yesterday of a New Dealer's domestic life in a household controled by "good, old-fashioned, reactionary Republicans." Jimmy testified at length regarding his belief that Doris wrecked his budding political career by barring him from her Honolulu bedside while undergoing childbirth at a time when he was a candidate for the United States senate.

Learning that Doris had given premature birth to a child which died the following day, Jimmy pleaded via telephone to be permitted to rush to her side for the effect such a trip would have on New Jersey voters, he testified.

"Doesn't she realize I am about to start a campaign for the senate and if I fail to go to the bedside of my wife the women of New Jersey will think I am brutal?" he said he inquired of Marian Paschal, his

FSA DENOUNCED AS EXPERIMENT IN COMMUNISM

House Probers Call for Abolition.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Abolition of the farm security administration was recommended today by a subcommittee of the house agriculture committee appointed to investigate the federal agency.

The subcommittee issued a report which accused the FSA of controling its clients "to the extent of telling the borrower how to raise his children, how to plan his home life, and, in some cases, it is strongly suspected, how to vote."

The report said the FSA "has not been wisely administered and has been used as an experiment station of un-American ideas and economic and social theories of little or questionable value."

Tugwell Regime Assailed.

The committee, headed by Rep. Cooley [D., N. C.], said its criticism applied to the administrations of Rexford Guy Tugwell and C. B. Baldwin.

It commended Frank Hancock, recently appointed administrator, for having made "substantial and worth-while changes in both policies and personnel."

Nevertheless, it called for abolition of the FSA and Regional Agricultural Credit corporations, discontinuance of the emergency crop and feed loan offices, and liquidation of FSA's resettlement and rural rehabilitation project.

"Communist" Plan Told.

The committee said its investigation showed that, beginning with the administration of Tugwell and continuing thru the Baldwin regime, the FSA financed "communistic resettlement projects where the families could never own homes."

The FSA rural rehabilitation loan program was commended by the committee.

New Typewriter in House; It's a Bundle from Britain!

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Envious Capitol hill secretaries flocked to the house of representatives stationery room today to view a rare object—a new typewriter. Obtained thru the efforts of an unnamed congressman, there was only one defect in the machine. Instead of a key bearing the dollar sign it had one which imprints the English pound mark. The typewriter was manufactured in Great Britain and imported.

PROTEST FOOD BURNING BY U.S.

Peanut Butter Destroyed on City Dump.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, May 10 [Special].—Public incineration of 2,700 jars of peanut butter by federal court order because the jars contained 15.66 ounces of the food instead of the labeled content of 16 ounces is arousing a storm of indignation here.

Since a local newspaper exposed the food destruction by carrying a photograph of the peanut butter in flames, public schools have debated the subject, individuals have written sharply critical letters to newspapers and officials and the Lions club has adopted a resolution condemning the "stupid, unwarranted destruction of foods."

The jars of peanut butter were carted to the city dump by federal deputy marshals under a court mandate after the food and drug agency began condemnation proceedings. The government suit made no charge that there was anything wrong with the quality of the product.

Sen. Clark Introduces Bill.

National attention was drawn to the peanut butter bonfire today in Washington, D. C., where Sen. Clark [D., Idaho] introduced a bill in the senate to permit the government to turn over to charity any food fit for human consumption which has been confiscated under the food and drug act.

John A. Carver of Boise, United States district attorney for Idaho, issued a statement defending the destruction on the grounds no other course was permitted by the statutes.

Carver's position was contradicted in Washington by Dr. Paul B. Dunbar, acting food and drug administrator. Dr. Dunbar called the incident a "blunder" and said he regretted it.

Alternative Courses Described.

Instead of asking the court to order destruction of the food, he said, the United States attorney could have asked an order directing the owner to relabel the jars to conform to actual weight or to add enough peanut butter to meet the specifications on the label.

Dr. Dunbar said an order directing donation of the peanut butter to a charitable institution might have been asked under existing law, or that the court might have directed the federal marshals to relabel and sell the product.

The peanut butter was seized in the Zions Wholesale Grocery company warehouse.

M'Arthur Trick Fools Enemy; Japs Nail Prisoners to Trees

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea, May 11 [Thursday].—If ever victory could be credited to generalship, this Hollandia campaign is it.

As soldiers are settling down to build a base from which the Philippines can be bombed, it is becoming increasingly clear how completely Gen. MacArthur outwitted the Jap generals.

The Japs, of course, knew the Americans would srike up the coast from Saidor. But where? Madang? Wewak? Hansa bay?

Madang would be a jump equal to the Saidor landing. But the Japs thought MacArthur would be bold this time. They decided he would land at Wewak or Hansa bay. So heavy troop concentrations were made there. Only a week before the Hollandia strike, an entire division was withdrawn from Hollandia and shipped down the coast.

Encourages Jap Belief.

MacArthur did everything to encourage this Jap belief. The air raid pattern indicated a Wewak and Hansa bay strike.

So the Americans virtually walked into Hollandia. Today every soldier will admit that except for superior generalship, our forces would have suffered heavily.

Even yet it is difficult to supply a large combat force inland from Tanahmerah and Humboldt bays, and the troops at the air strips are relying on airborne rations and munitions. The terrain is so rough it would have been virtually impossible to bring tanks or heavy artillery to bear on the forces defending the air strips.

Wear Jap Clothing.

The variety of equipment which fell to our troops is almost unbelievable. Jap trucks haul most of the supplies inland.

Most Americans today are wearing Jap clothing. They eat Jap rice and fish. Some had a magnificent time on saki and Jap beer.

Excellent radios, weather instruments, tools, and medical instruments were abandoned as the Japs fled to the hills.

Some patrols are still working in the hills. The number one American sharpshooter is Monroe McGee, Picayune, Miss. He lies in wait at waterholes and to date has killed 16 Japs who have come to drink.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, May 11 [Thursday] (AP).—Japanese atrocities, including the nailing of Chinese to trees, were made public today. At the same time, headquarters reported the American invaders of Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, have freed 707 enemy prisoners, including Americans and Filipinos.

Gen. MacArthur's report said 462 of the 707 were Sikhs [Indians], 86 were Javanese, and the remainder included Australians, Dutch, Chinese, Poles, and Czechs.

Indians Become Ill; Slain.

The Australian information department, which issued the atrocities report, quoted some of the liberated Sikhs as saying:

"On an 18 day march from Singapore to Kuala Lumpur [Malaya] we were herded along a road like cattle. At one place we saw Chinese nailed to palm trees with iron spikes driven thru their foreheads.

"Fifteen Sikhs who had become ill were put to death at Rabaul.

"On a ship which took us to the Admiralty Islands, we were herded below decks like cattle—2,000 of us.

"The men were frequently beaten with sticks and rifle butts."

Slain for Aiding Aussies.

A Sikh who told of seeing the Chinese nailed to the trees said:

"We were told by our guards that they had been suspected of helping guerrillas, mostly Australians, who still were fighting in Malaya.

"On the way to Manus 35 Sikhs died and were thrown overboard."

One Sikh related incidents concerning the execution of 15 comrades at Rabaul. He said:

"A close friend reported the death of a man who had become ill. Apparently the Japanese decided against wasting time and medical supplies on him. He was given an injection and died almost immediately. The same thing was done to at least 14 others."

Tiny Air Taxis Pick Up Yanks Off Jap Shore

ABOARD A U. S. CARRIER OFF TRUK, May 1 [Delayed]—(AP).—One after another, two American torpedo planes, a dive bomber, and two fighter planes were shot down by Japanese anti-aircraft fire yesterday and crashed into the Pacific ocean off the eastern reef of Truk atoll. A saga of tiny planes in which 14 men were saved had reached a climax.

"Ten men splashed out and climbed aboard rubber life rafts, but their position appeared hopeless. The tide and rising wind carried them toward the beach and capture or death.

Then Lt. John Burns of Wynnewood, Pa., with Radioman Aubrey James Gill of San Francisco, Cal., in the rear seat, landed his tiny Kingfisher catapult plane alongside. A Kingfisher, so small it is the butt of standing jokes in the fleet, can carry three men, including the pilot and radioman, in a pinch. Twelve was out of the question.

Hold On, Boys!

Grab a hold, but hang onto your life rafts, Burns told the drifting airmen.

First came the six men from the torpedo planes—Lt. Robert S. Nelson, Great Falls, Mont.; Radioman James Livingstone, Los Angeles, Cal.; Machinist Robert W. Gruebel, Memphis, Tenn.; Ensign C. L. Farrell, Ada, Okla.; Machinist Owen F. Tabrum, Portland, Ore., and Radioman Joseph Hranek, Endicott, N. Y. Two men from the dive bomber and the fighter pilots followed.

They clung to the pontoons, the wings, the fuselage. Life rafts dangled from the wings and tail.

Shore guns opened up as Burns gunned the motor and the overloaded Kingfisher began bouncing over the waves. Lt. Comm. Richard Harmer of Tacoma, Wash., dived his fighter plane on the Japanese guns to silence them.

Kingfisher catapult plane.

The Kingfisher's motor smoked and the plane listed badly on the water. Burns knew a pontoon had sprung a leak. No American surface ships were in sight. The gas gauge dropped steadily lower.

But Burns kept taxiing on the water for an hour, or maybe three, until a rescue ship came along the eastern shore. Fighter planes dived on Japanese guns as the American ship took the airmen off the battered and ruined Kingfisher, then sank her.

Wilmette Flyer Saved.

Three other airmen owed their lives to the Kingfisher and Burns' skill.

That incident started the day before when Lt. Robert Kanze of Freehold, N. J., was shot down inside the lagoon. Thruout the rest of the day American fighter planes flew in a protective circle over Kanze. At nightfall he was headed toward the reef. The next morning a new wave of American fighters found him a mile outside the reef, madly waving his shirt.

Lt. Joseph Dowple, 500 Lake av., Wilmette, Ill., and Aviation Radioman Robert E. Hill, Weldon, Tex., came to the rescue in a Kingfisher. Kanze swam over, grabbed the wing, and the plane slowly turned over and sank.

Taxi Three to Ship.

Burns and Gill took over the rescue job, and one at a time taxied Hill, Dowple, and Kanze to a rescue ship.

Meanwhile Lt. C. L. Loftin, Graham, Tex., landed his fighter in the Truk lagoon, a mile from the nearest Japanese gun. The wind carried him toward the beach.

A Kingfisher, piloted by Lt. Charles Ainsworth, who picked up one pilot inside the lagoon during the February carrier strike against the Japanese stronghold, did it again.

BRITAIN LEARNS U. S. WANTS NO MORE LECTURERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—Brendan Bracken, minister of information, today in the house of commons rejected a suggestion that more lecturers be sent to the United States.

"No, sir," Bracken replied. "I won't consider lectures. We've had pretty rough experience with some lecturers in the United States and have no intention of repeating it."

U.S. DESTROYER SUNK BY NAZI TORPEDO PLANE

Son of Morgenthau Among Rescued.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—The 1,630-ton destroyer Lansdale was torpedoed and sunk by German planes in the Mediterranean at dusk April 20, the navy announced today.

Lt. Morgenthau.

Lt. Robert M. Morgenthau, son of the treasury secretary, was one of those saved.

Morgenthau, 24, executive officer on the vessel, was reported by fellow officers to have been one of the last to leave the ship and when he did so he jumped from the bridge onto the tin hatted head of another officer.

Casualties 'Moderate.'

"When most of the boys were off," said this officer, Lt. [j. g.] James E. Bever, 23, of Bellingham, Wash., "Lt. Morgenthau yelled down that he was coming down. He jumped over the side right on top of my helmet. Somebody else jumped and landed on my helmet. I took it off then and started to swim away from the ship."

Navy officials said the casualties were moderate, but gave no figures. The normal complement of the ship was about 200.

Survivors also included the skipper, Lt. Comdr. Douglas McKean Swift, 33, of Portsmouth, R. I.

Down Nazi Planes.

The weather was fair and the sea was calm when the Lansdale was attacked, according to accounts of ship's officers.

These accounts spoke of two German torpedo planes participating in the assault and reported that both were shot down by anti-aircraft crews which manned their guns until the decks were awash.

The first plane dropped a torpedo which missed, but the second caught the four year old destroyer amidship and almost tore it in two. It sank fast.

The survivors were rescued by coast guard escorts and delivered to a shore station within 12 hours.

Lt. Bever said he was on the bridge with Lt. Morgenthau, a veteran of three years in the destroyer service, when the attack came.

Every One Is Calm.

"The lights went out, I bounced against the rail, then back and my head hit the bulkhead," he said. "The lights came on again, then there was a second explosion and the lights went out. This time, for good.

"The ship started to settle. Then the skipper's voice was saying, 'Prepare to abandon ship.' He was calm and so was everybody else. There wasn't any commotion or anything.

"All this time those fellows on deck were shooting at the planes. They got the first one—the one that missed us with a torpedo. And another one, too. We had Negro mess attendants firing from one of the anti-aircraft guns and they were firing while the decks were awash."

Illinoisan Describes Attack.

Bever urged another officer, the navy's account continued, to "tell about those guys on the AA guns." And Lt. [j. g.] Frederick Gehlmann, 24, of 538 Bonnie Brae street, River Forest, Ill., took up the tale.

"Well," he said, "they just listened to the captain saying 'Abandon ship!' sort of half mumbled 'Yes, sir,' and went right on shooting.

"Porter [Marion Anthony Porter, steward's mate, 3d class, 19, of Spartanburg, S. C.], was lying on the deck hanging on to one of the gun mounts. I didn't know then that the explosion had thrown him against a bulkhead and broken his leg in two places, and as I tried to get around him, he said 'Pardon me' and then got up again to aim that 40 mm. gun.

"We had a terrific list to port so we had to clamber down the starboard side."

About 15 men went into the water together, he said. Among them was Reginald F. Staie, machinist's mate, 2d class, 22, of 1706 North 25th st., Milwaukee, Wis. Others rescued included the ship doctor, Lt. Comdr. William B. Neal Jr., 26, of 800 Columbia av., Oak Park, Ill.

U. S. MANEUVER PUTS WARD CASE BACK TO START

Union Irate as Holly Acts to Dismiss Litigation.

Judge William H. Holly in federal District court yesterday refused to rule on the issues involved in the government seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s Chicago properties because the government had turned the properties back to the company. He said he will dismiss the government's suit asking for an injunction to protect its occupation of the plant.

His action coincided with the following developments:

1. Union officials, despite their victory in a labor board election at the plant Tuesday, were disgruntled and openly resentful of what they viewed as their 11th hour abandonment by the government to the rigors of collective bargaining with Ward's.

Avery Returns to Office.

2. Sewell L. Avery, Ward's board chairman, returned to his office, from which he was ejected by soldiers two weeks ago, his stand on the war labor board's lack of authority to compel him to sign a maintenance of membership contract unchanged, and with the labor controversy back where it started—the union preparing to demand maintenance of membership and dues checkoff, and the company determined to grant neither.

3. The war labor board prepared to toss into President Roosevelt's lap—possibly today—the labor dispute in which 450 employes of the Hummer Manufacturing company of Springfield, Ill., a Ward subsidiary, have remained away from work because the company refused to accept a maintenance of membership clause the WLB ordered included in a contract with the union.

After Judge Holly announced his intention of dismissing the government's injunction suit because nothing was left before him on which to rule, company attorneys urged that he dismiss the case "with prejudice," which would prevent the government from bringing a similar action later. Judge Holly said he will rule Friday on whether the dismissal shall be with prejudice or without, as the government asked.

"Nothing for Me to Do."

Judge Holly, his countenance expressionless under his mane of white hair, strode to the bench as court opened, and said:

"The question I am asked to decide here is whether the temporary restraining order restraining Montgomery Ward & Co. from interfering with government possession and a motion for a temporary injunction are of no moment now. I do not see that I should make a decision in this case. As I understand it, the plant is back in the hands of Montgomery Ward & Co. and there is nothing for me to do. It is a well known rule that the court should not decide moot questions."

Then, picking up a newspaper clipping which he had carried into court, he went on:

"I wish to make one statement, however, concerning an item in a morning newspaper [not THE TRIBUNE], which reads as follows: 'Francis M. Shea, injunction expert of the United States department of justice, arrived by plane in Chicago yesterday and conferred last night with Woll [United States District Atty. Woll] in his office in the federal building. Judge Holly also appeared at the federal building last night, but no action to withdraw the petition was instituted by the government lawyers, and Judge Holly returned home 45 minutes later.'

Story "Absolutely False."

"I was not in this building at any time last evening after 5 p. m. The statement that I was here is absolutely false. I was visiting friends in Austin until 10:30 p. m. Then I took the elevated and returned home. The first information I had concerning the action of the government in turning back the property was the headlines in the paper I saw in the elevated station.

"I do not know how any one could have conceived the notion that I was in this building last night. There is no reason for the statement at all. I was not anywhere near the building nor on the street near the building. I hope the statement will be corrected, and I shall want to know who was responsible for this statement that I was in the building."

Harold A. Smith, Ward attorney, urging that the dismissal of the case be "with prejudice," said:

"As an officer of the court, I feel compelled to state to your honor that I think the whole proceedings on the part of the government has been an abuse of the judicial processes. It has been an imposition on the court, and I think, as an officer of the court, that the most regrettable thing was that it was perpetrated by the attorney general of the United States."

Holly Repudiates Article.

Judge Holly then observed that he wanted the record to show, in connection with his statement about the newspaper article, that at no time did he see any representative of the government in connection with the case except in the presence of counsel for the defense, except the time when the restraining order was issued, "and that is authorized by law, and I acted as any judge would act under similar circumstances, on the facts shown in the affidavit submitted."

After leaving the bench, Judge Holly ordered all copies of his decision, described by his secretary, Mrs. Betty Duggan, as a "literary gem," to be destroyed. He had prepared the decision before the government relinquished the plant.

Union officials said that they have asked the national labor relations board to certify the union as bargaining agent as a result of the election, and that negotiations for a new contract await the certification.

"We are in an awful position," said Henry B. Anderson, president of local 20 of the United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employes' union [CIO]. "The seizure of the plant has been a farce."

Mystified by F. D. R.'s Action.

"I cannot understand why the President withdrew his hold over Ward's at the 11th hour," said Francis Heisler, attorney for the union, "when his help was needed so much by the union."

"We hope that the old contract will be extended until our new contract demands are met," said Anderson. "We have a list of demands which we will present to the company. If the company refuses maintenance of membership the whole thing will be back in the war labor board's lap."

Anderson wrote Avery requesting a conference on the discharge of Adolph Loresch, secretary-treasurer of the union last Jan. 5, suggesting that in the event of disagreement, the dispute be submitted to arbitration, the arbitrator's finding to be final.

Got What We Wanted—Ward's.

An official of Ward's emphasized that after the strike the plant seizure, and the government's suit, all that has been accomplished is what the company demanded in the first place—an election to determine whether the union represented a majority of employes.

"The union has won the right to bargain for employes," he said, "but Ward's stand that it refuses to grant any form of closed shop, checkoff, seniority rights, and overall grievance procedure has not been changed. If the union insists that these provisions be included in the contract Ward's will again refused to sign a contract with the union and the contract will again be back in the hands of the WLB, where it was before."

Avery, returning to his office for the first time since his ejection by troops, asserted that the government, by surrendering the property before a court decision could be rendered on the legality of the seizure, again had denied the company its right to a court decision on the issues.

Previous Plea Recalled.

He recalled that the WLB avoided a previous court ruling on its authority by pleading that its orders were not legally binding, and, therefore, not justifiable.

Bouquets of flowers, for which company employes took up a collection, stood on Avery's desk and the desk of C. D. Ryan, Ward president.

As an aftermath of the seizure, Paul D. Sowell, assistant to the operating manager at Ward's, will appear before United States Commissioner Walker today on a charge of "taking certain property of the government with intent to commit a depredation." The charge grew out of his action in removing a government poster from a bulletin board. The poster concerned dismissals made subsequent to April 26, when the government took over the plant.

Sowell will be represented by James C. Leaton, attorney, who earlier this week predicted his client's dismissal.

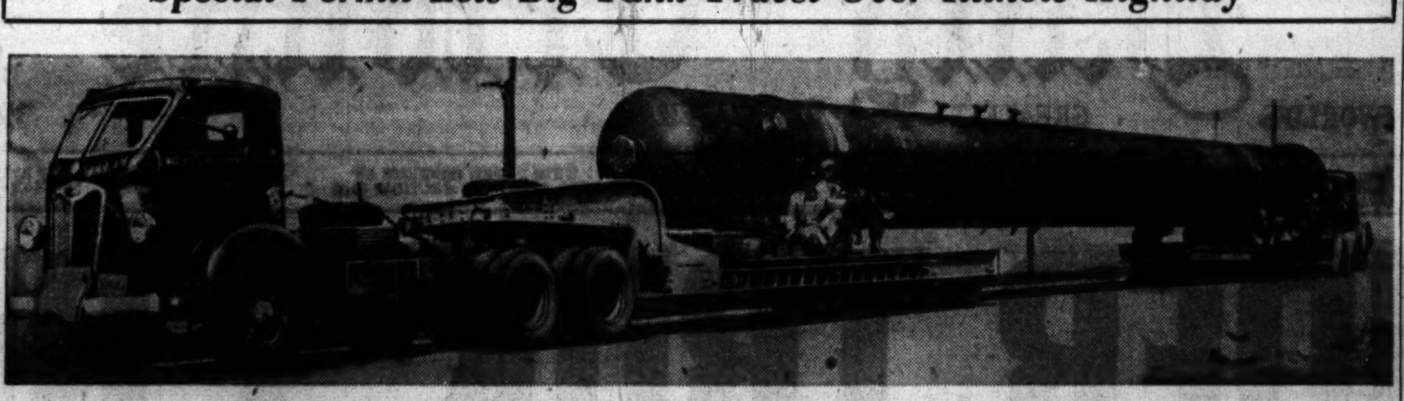
Special Permit Lets Big Tank Travel Over Illinois Highway



This 100 ton cracking tank for high octane gasoline traveled for 10 miles recently over an Illinois highway, and then two miles across fields to reach an oil company plant. After the state granted a special permit, the state highway patrol blocked out the route of travel. Two truck trailers were needed to transport the 128 foot tank, and the weight rested on 52 tires.

WLB TERMS SET FOR WARD PLANT IN MINNESOTA

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—The war labor board decided today that a standard maintenance of union membership clause shall be included in a contract involving the Montgomery Ward & Co. plant in St. Paul, Minn., and 1,000 members of the mail order, warehouse, and distribution workers union, local 215, CIO.

The clause, the board said, shall be included in a collective bargaining agreement between Ward's and the union, which is affiliated with the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union. It provides a 15 day period, ending May 19, during which employes may resign from the union if they do not wish to remain members for the duration of the contract. Employes who are not members of the union are not required to join, the board explained.

The action was the second involving the Ward mail order house disclosed during the day.

COURT UPHOLDS F. D. R. SEIZURE OF WAR PLANT

Cynthiana, Ky., May 10 [Special].—Seizure by the army on President Roosevelt's order last month of the Ken-Rad Tube and Lamp corporation of Owensboro was upheld in sweeping terms today by a decision of Federal Judge MacSwinford. The corporation is engaged in war work unlike the Montgomery Ward plant in Chicago. In the Ward case the question of whether the company was or was not engaged in war work was one of the issues in the dispute over President Roosevelt's right to seize it.

Judge MacSwinford, who was appointed to his present job by President Roosevelt in 1937, ruled that the President acted within his constitutional authority in ordering the army to take over after the company refused to comply with a war labor board order for a pay increase.

Without an act of congress, there is "sufficient authority by the terms of the Constitution itself to justify the action of the President in this case," Judge MacSwinford said.

Refuses Army Expulsion.

He refused an application by the company for an injunction compelling the army to surrender possession of the plant to its owners and turned down the corporation's plea that the war labor board's pay increase demand was illegal.

The judge's decision was the first pronouncement by a federal court regarding the legality of seizure of a war plant at the direction of the President because of interference with production by a labor dispute.

The company had questioned Mr. Roosevelt's authority for such action and also had contended the war labor board acted illegally in assuming substandard wages prevailed in its plant. The pay raises ordered by WLB would amount to three-quarters of a million dollars annually for 4,000 workers, it was said.

Emphasizes Pawns in War.

Judge MacSwinford based his ruling entirely upon his interpretation of the President's emergency powers in war time. He brushed aside as not requiring determination the company's objections to the WLB order.

"I do not think determination of this case depends on whether or not the order of the war labor board was valid or invalid," he said. "No war hysteria should prompt the adoption of basically unsound legal reasoning; neither should blind complacency or a false sense of the country's security cause the courts of the land to grant those charged with preserving the nation less than the full measure of Constitutional and legislative authority.

"There is no showing that the President acted arbitrarily in issuing the order or acted without cause," the judge asserted. "He is not bound by the findings of the war labor board. The President may have had other things on which he determined his course.

"I further conclude that without an act of congress there was sufficient authority by the terms of the Constitution itself to justify the action of the President in this case.

Charter of Authority.

"The Constitution is nothing more than a charter of right and authority from the people to their government," he said.

"We must recall that at that time the nation was very weak. Its preservation from invasion or occupation by a foreign power was uppermost in the minds of the people. Altho the government was weak, it ruled a vast and rich country which attracted the dictator and excited the avarice of the war lords of that day as it does now.

"It should be borne in mind that while modern instruments of warfare make America more vulnerable than in times past, what is now the territorial United States was then actually occupied by the armies of foreign powers.

"There never was a time in the world when such a policy was more properly applied than in the present emergency," he concluded. "It is sheer folly to say or pretend that the government should admit of the slightest delay for any cause in the production of war materials made by the plant involved in this lawsuit."

CHAPLAIN AT SEA HELPS A MARINE FIND TRUE LOVE

Advice About Women Is Sought by Many on Ship.

For 20 months, the author of this series of articles served as chaplain of the U. S. S. South Dakota, the famous "Battleship X," which won glory in two battles against the Japs.

BY CAPT. JAMES V. CLAYPOOL.
[Chaplain Corps, United States Naval Reserve.]
AS TOLD TO CARL WIEGMAN.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Sailors and marines, who are all descended from Adam, come to a battleship padre seeking advice on all kinds of problems, and Eve is involved in many of them.

When the U. S. S. Dakota was in the Southwest Pacific a worried young marine brought me a letter from his girl. It was one of the most heart stirring letters I have ever read.

"Dear Tom," she wrote. "Perhaps you will be surprised to hear that I had a baby. I have not told you before because I didn't want to worry you. But now I'm very proud and pleased and I think you'd be pleased if you saw him. His hair and eyes, I think, are just like yours. Please write to me if you have time."

Pleads: "Just a Letter."

The girl did not ask for anything except a letter. She did not complain, or say a word about the agony she must have lived thru.

I turned to the marine.

"Are you married to this girl?"

"No, sir."

"Do you love her?"

"Yes, sir, I like her quite a bit."

"Do you think this is your baby?"

"Well, sir, I think it probably is."

The marine blushed to the roots of his hair—red hair, like that of his baby son.

"Well, if you want my advice," I told him, "write to this girl and tell her you're happy about it too. If you love her, tell her about it. Don't promise to marry her until you get home and see her again, but I think you can hint very strongly that you have that in mind. Personally, I think she's a brave girl."

Marine Marries Girl.

When we got back to the United States, the marine and the girl were married, and I trust they will live happily ever after.

There was a similar case when the ship was still at the Philadelphia navy yard. The girl applied to the Red Cross, and I found the sailor whom she named. He agreed to marry her and we gave him five days' special liberty. When he was returning to the ship he missed the train and wired me he would be a day late. He should have wired his commanding officer, not the chaplain, so he had to go to mast. I went to bat for him there and he has been my firm friend ever since. He sent me a picture of his wife and baby.

Not all such affairs could be settled happily. One seaman met a girl the day before the ship sailed. He was drunk and didn't remember what happened. Two months later, he brought me a letter from the girl, demanding money and saying she was going to have a baby. I computed from the facts she gave that she was not telling the truth and that her letter was a shakedown effort, so I advised the seaman to ignore it and to quit worrying.

Shore Leave Brings Trouble.

Shore leaves always brought troubles. The most serious, of course, is venereal disease. Most of the victims were infected when they were drunk. It is sad, but true, that liquor makes men think any woman is glamorous and we begged the men, when they left the ship, to stay away from strange women if they did any drinking.

But we had our troubles at sea, too. They generally followed the mail bags. For nearly every welcome letter there is one that doesn't come and one that brings bad news. Letters like these were common:

"Dear Joe: Grandpa is not well. We need you for the plowing. Please come home for at least two weeks."

"Dear Tom: Mother needs some money badly and thinks you have plenty. Won't you send some right away?"

"Dear Jim: Why don't you come home on leave? The boy across the street has been home on furlough twice. Don't you love us any more?"

"Dear Hal: I'm sorry to tell you this, but we see men leaving your wife's apartment building late at night, and I think you ought to know."

These Letters Are Cruel.

To men on a warship, thousands of miles from home, letters like these are cruel. They can't communicate with their homes to learn the full truth, and they can't go home to remedy the troubles. A chaplain needs more than human wisdom to help them over such rough spots, most of which could be avoided if the folks at home were a little more thoughtful.

One California youngster married an Ohio girl before we sailed from the east coast, and she returned to live with her parents in Ohio. When we entered the Pacific, our address was changed to Fleet Postoffice, San Francisco, and the young wife started writing:

"Why don't you telephone me when the ship is at San Francisco? Don't you love me? I'll bet you're playing around with your old girls in California."

The boy was in the Fiji Islands when he received these letters. His wife even went to San Francisco to wait for the ship. We landed at Brooklyn and the boy rushed to Ohio, only to find that his wife was on the other side of the continent. He had only five days' leave, not enough time to get to San Francisco and back.

Some day they may laugh over that mixup, but when it happened, it was a tragedy.

Protests Talents Wasted.

A seaman who had been a successful pianist in civilian life protested that his talents were being wasted in the navy, and also that he had to have 10 hours of sleep a night.

"Before I enlisted I raised thousands of dollars for the government at war bond shows," he said. "I can't get adjusted to the job they've got me doing. Anybody could do it."

"You can't expect to make the adjustment in a few months," I replied. "In the navy we live an unnatural, abnormal life. It's like on another planet. Try it for a little while longer."

"But my God is intelligence," he shot back. "The navy isn't being intelligent about the way it is using me."

"In the first place God is more than intelligence, and in the second place the navy has got you where you belong," I replied. "On this ship the men are starved to hear you play the piano in leisure hours. You're in a God-given position to be helpful. Somebody has to shoot off the guns."

Troubled Men Helped.

There were hundreds of interviews like these and on many other subjects. To some questions, no doubt, I gave wrong or inadequate answers, but the troubled men knew that somebody aboard was interested in their problems. Many times that was all that was needed.

Some of the men were thinking seriously for the first time. Others were having new ideas thrust upon them. These brought questions of a different kind. Many came with queries on verses they had read in the Bible.

"Blessed are the meek," puzzled several. I explained it doesn't mean that Christians should be fawning, cringing persons, but it means blessed are those who submit to the discipline of God's will.

Frequently men asked: "What do you think Christ would do in this war?"

I always answered them by asking another question:

"What do you think Christ would have done if he had come upon the robbers beating up the traveler on the Jericho road before the arrival of the Good Samaritan? Do you think He would have stood idly by, watching the beating?"

Cleaning Up Jericho Road.

This always seemed to satisfy the questioners, and several turned away saying, "I guess on this ship we're helping to clean up the Jericho road."

By a coincidence, three men came to my office on the same day, all asking approximately the same question. In the morning one man brought a card bearing a printed prayer and a notice saying: "Any man who prays this prayer will never meet a violent death."

In the afternoon two men came, asking: "Where is that verse in the Bible that stops bleeding if you put your hand on it?" One of them insisted he had seen his father do it.

In answering the questions I was careful not to hurt their feelings by using ridicule, but tried to show them that if we had such a prayer, or such a Bible verse, we wouldn't need any medical department in the navy.

It would be easy for a chaplain to foster superstition. Man is always looking for miraculous intervention to save him from the consequences of sin. It is much harder to take the strong medicine which is the Christian faith.

THERESA TOWNSEND.

[Acme Photos.]

JANE WILLIAMS.

Wingdale, N. Y., May 10 [Special].—Jane Williams and Theresa Townsend, both 15, are wishing now that when they started a "pen pal" correspondence with a Missouri girl they had signed their true names instead of "Robert O'Keefe."

Since February the two have corresponded with Mary Louise Carr of Manchester, Mo., but their letters were on the romantic side and so carried the Robert O'Keefe signature. Last Friday the joke backfired, however, when Miss Carr telegraphed that she was coming east to marry Robert.

A quick confession by the two girls to the father of Mary Louise resulted, and the Missouri girl was met at Grand Central station in New York by policemen who broke the news to her.

WHAT YANKS DO WHEN A BOMBER SPILLS INTO SEA

Advice on What's Best in Bailing Out.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, May 9.—To qualify for high altitude flying—as a passenger only—I have just spent five days at a training center. There pilots and crews who have just arrived from the United States are put thru a final refresher course before assignment to active duty.

I was amazed by the quantity of information these young men must absorb before being trusted with the business end of a flying Fortress, Liberator, or other bomber in actual combat, and by the realism with which the young instructors go about their work.

'Riding for a Bump.'

Capt. Clifford Cook, Worcester, Mass., was giving instructions on how to land in an emergency at sea when I dropped in at his classroom.

"There may be a slim chance you won't have to drop into the water and can get back home," he was saying, "tho you probably are riding for a helluva bump. But the pilot will give the landing signal and also send out an SOS."

The pilot must try to land on top of a wave crosswise with the wind so the plane's nose is not buried. The crew, meanwhile, drops all equipment which might break loose from its moorings and come crashing upon personnel and also removes jutting parts against which some one might be thrown.

"But don't throw this thing overboard—ever," Cook warned as he pointed to a chalk drawing of an automatic wireless set on the blackboard. "That thing is working all the time, telling the rescue craft where you are."

Job for Bombardier.

He then told how to brace one crewman against another to absorb the shock of landing.

"But you're saying to yourself all this time, 'I want to get the hell out of here,'" Cook continued. "Just before the crash you'll think, 'I'm the only guy who is keeping his head,' so you'll release the raft lever. Don't do it. A few seconds makes a big difference and 150 feet is a hell of a long way to swim in high seas. Let the bombardier grab that handle. It's his job."

How to jump out of an airplane at 30,000 feet also is not an unthrilling subject, I learned. You had better take oxygen, for you'll pass out—and they'll let you try it—within 60 to 90 seconds. And when you jump you had better delay the opening of your parachute. This makes the descent rapid and you'll probably burst your eardrums, but that isn't serious, I was told.

More "Ifs" and "Ands."

Yet, if you do delay the opening of your chute you may pass out and not come to in time to open it. Still if you open your parachute so that it takes 16 minutes or so to descend, you'll probably freeze your hands or feet. So a delayed opening is recommended.

Among the most interesting courses at the school is that given by Lt. N. J. Hoos, who lives at 511 Lee st., Evanston, Ill., but what he says is all hush-hush now.

Other Chicagolanders there are Lt. Leslie H. Warshell, navigator, 534 Stratford pl., Chicago; Pvt. James B. Young of Kewanee, Ill.; Sgt. William A. Zimmerman, 2610 Whipple st., Chicago; Staff Sgt. Thomas R. Robb, who sent his love to his wife, Mrs. June Lee Robb of Chicago.

And Staff Sgt. Thomas P. Philbin, a tail gunner, whose mother lives at 8051 Chappel av., Chicago; Sgt. Harry Applebaum, whose parents live at 1521 S. Ridgeway av., Chicago, and Staff Sgt. Don Corrigan, gunner and radio operator, whose mother lives at 126 N. Le Claire av., Chicago.

2 U.S. NEGROES' DEATH SENTENCE STIRS COMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—The sentencing to death of two Negro soldiers convicted of rape by an American court martial here may cause bad feelings between Britain and America, John J. Lawson, a Laborite, today told Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in the house of commons. The sentence if carried out, he said, will be interpreted as racial persecution.

Eden replied the question raised an issue in which the government had no basis for representations to the United States government as the jurisdiction of the United States government over its military forces in this country rests upon the visiting forces act passed by commons in 1942. Rhys Davies, another Laborite, asked if it was not an anomaly that a person can be sentenced to death on British soil for an offense to which the same punishment did not apply under British law.

VON GONTARD'S HATRED FOR WAR TOLD TO COURT

New York, May 10 (AP).—A witness in the draft evasion trial of Gert Hans von Gontard testified in federal court today that he told her in 1941 he would "prefer to kill himself rather than fight against the German people." Von Gontard is a grandson of the late Adolphus Busch, St. Louis brewer.

The witness, Mrs. Marcus Daly, said she had gone out socially with Von Gontard.

Asked if the defendant ever had discussed army service with her, she replied: "He told me he didn't like Hitler, but he loved the German people and would prefer to kill himself rather than fight against the German people."

ITALY BASED U.S. BOMBERS BLAST NAZIS IN AUSTRIA

Medium Craft Carry On Raids from Britain.

LONDON, May 11 [Thursday] (AP).—More than 3,500 allied war planes from bases in both Britain and Italy loosed approximately 4,500 tons of bombs yesterday on European targets and the R. A. F. followed up last night with another attack on western Europe.

There was no immediate indication of the objective of the overnight raids, a preliminary British announcement saying merely that the R. A. F. was "over occupied territory," but it presumably was directed against military facilities in France.

Italy based Liberators and Fortresses yesterday hit the Messerschmitt factory and near-by air field at Wiener Neustadt, 27 miles south of Vienna for the sixth time. Another Liberator formation dealt a new blow to Knin, Yugoslav rail junction 40 miles north of the port of Split.

Hit Rails and Airdromes.

From Britain American Marauders [medium bombers] attacked railway yards at Criel, 25 miles northeast of Paris, the Tournai yards in Belgium, the Mons yards, 30 miles southwest of Brussels, the Poix air field near Amiens, France, a railway bridge at Mantes-Gassicourt, a railway yard and power plant at Valenciennes, a railway bridge near Rouen, railway yards at Douai and Yourcoing and military objectives in the Pas de Calais area.

For the second straight day the 9th United States air force sent a fleet of 800 Mustangs, Thunderbolts and Lightnings against the continent. They crossed the channel in 18 separate waves and dive bombed and strafed rail yards in France and Belgium and air fields in northern France.

Rake Invasion Coast.

Fighter and dive bombers of the British tactical air force flew many sorties against invasion coast batteries, railroads, bridges and ammunition dumps and bagged three German fighters.

The daylight raids followed overnight and pre-dawn attacks by 750 R. A. F. planes on 10 high priority targets with 2,500 tons of bombs. Seven separate aerial task forces hit the French coast, apparently concentrating on the six inch to 15 inch guns the Germans have set up there. Others raided the aircraft foundry and stamping plant at Gennevilliers, a Paris suburb, and the ball bearing factory at Annecy, France. Mosquitos attacked Berlin.

Three Austrian Natives Win Permit to Register

Three Slater brothers, natives of Austria, Joseph, 43, of 2649 North av., Michael, 41, of 1918 N. Kedzie av., and Carl Joseph, 37, of 3137 Monroe st., were given permission by the government yesterday to register under the enemy alien act of 1940. Assistant United States Atty. Nathan Cohen told United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker that the brothers had lived in Chicago since December, 1910, and had failed to register because they thought it unnecessary.

PRESIDENT ASKS 15 BILLION MORE CASH FOR ARMY

Total Cost in Year Is Put at 49 Billion.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt asked congress today for new appropriations for the army totaling $15,676,652,700, which would bring the total contemplated expenditures for military purposes up to 49 billion dollars for the next fiscal year.

"The estimates," a White House statement said, "contemplate the maintenance and operation of an army of 7,700,000 officers, men, and women on the offensive in a global war thru June 30, 1945."

33 Billion Available.

In addition to the 15 billions in new appropriations, the statement explained, there will be available in the fiscal year starting July 1 a total of $33,607,263,800 of unobligated balances from current appropriations.

The 49 billion dollar outlay for the next fiscal period compares with a preliminary budget estimate, submitted to congress last January, of 52 billion 300 millions.

The White House said the large carry-over of 1944 funds had been made possible primarily by a reduction in the projected strength of the army, a reduction in shipping losses, and a substantial reduction in unit costs of war items because of volume production.

Plea for 200,000 WACs.

The new budget figure provides for 200,000 members of the WACs, more than treble the number now on the rolls.

In general, the estimates will supply funds needed for all deliveries of munitions and equipment, except aircraft, thru Dec. 31, 1945. For aircraft, aircraft parts, and government furnished equipment, the White House said, the new budget will finance requirements to June 30, 1946.

LA GRANGE PILOT, REPORTED LOST, IS NAZI CAPTIVE

Mr. and Mrs. Glen T. Butterworth, 425 S. Stone av., La Grange, who were informed recently that their son, Lt. Glen T. Butterworth Jr., 25, bomber pilot, had been missing in action March 25, yesterday received a card written by Lt. Butterworth stating that he was a prisoner of war in Germany. The card, written in a German prison camp, was forwarded thru the war department. Lt. Butterworth, a graduate of Lyons Township High school, had been in the army several months prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor.

PLAN TO DEFER MEN OVER 30 IN ESSENTIAL WORK IS NEW POLICY

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Selective service was reported tonight to have adopted a liberalized policy of deferments for men over 30, with employment in an essential industry the only yardstick.

Draft officials, prepared to announce details of a broad new program Thursday evening, declined to discuss reports that men over 30 in preferred occupations will be eligible for deferment regardless of whether they are considered actually "necessary" men.

For the 26 thru 29 age group, it was understood the present policy of deferring necessary men in essential activities will be continued. However, Maj. Gen. Hershey recently said these men probably will not be called before early fall, when the pool of registrants under 26 is expected to be exhausted.

Liberalization along the lines reported probably would halt calls of men over 29 for the rest of this year and possibly eliminate them from consideration altogether, depending upon the course of the war.

With the army already at peak strength and the navy expected to reach that point in September, induction calls thereafter will be for replacement with quotas determined by the number of casualties.

Selective service estimates replacements at about 150,000 men a month after peak strength is attained. Of this number, approximately 60,000 a month are expected to come from the ranks of those becoming 18 years old.

Canadian Air Attache to French Regime Killed

LONDON, May 10 (AP). — Royal Canadian air force headquarters announced today that Wing Comdr. Paul Jean Desloges, 31, Canadian air attaché to the French Committee of National Liberation, was killed yesterday when a small aircraft crashed on taking off from a French Morocco air field. Desloges, a veteran of the battle of Britain, was a native of Hull, Que.

TITO SEIZES TWO TOWNS BUT NAZI UNITS CUT LINES

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—Yugoslav Partisans have recaptured Kladanj in eastern Bosnia and Zuzemberk in Slovenia, but enemy troops have broken thru the Partisan lines at several isolated points in Slavonia, Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz announced today.

A war report broadcast from his headquarters in Yugoslavia said the Partisans had inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy and captured considerable war material at Kladanj and Zuzemberk.

The bulletin also said Tito's forces had reoccupied Berane in Montenegro after slaying 170 of the enemy, including two Chetnik leaders. In other actions, Tito said his troops smashed an axis concentration northeast of Sarajevo, inflicted losses on an enemy column in Istria, and harassed supply lines in various sectors.

NAZIS RETREAT SECOND DAY ON ADRIATIC FRONT

Allies Occupy 3 Villages in Follow Up.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 10 (AP).—The Germans have retreated across the Little Aventino river in a second day of withdrawal on the British 8th army front and allied forces moving up behind them have occupied three villages and are continuing to press the pursuit, allied headquarters announced today.

In their advance the 8th army occupied Palena, Fallascoso and San Angelo, and at last report was moving directly toward the German base of Sulmona.

The German retreat has ranged from seven to 11½ miles from their line as last announced several weeks ago, altho some allied forces have been well beyond it more recently.

Military quarters said the Nazi withdrawal appeared to be without significance beyond the enemy's natural desire to straighten his line and eliminate a salient in the rugged mountains where lack of communications made large scale operations impossible.

The Germans also were digging in and strengthening their defenses on the west bank of the Rapido river just south of Cassino on the 5th army front.

An allied patrol with tank support raided a Nazi position west of Cisterna on the Anzio beachhead and scored hits on four enemy tanks before withdrawing.

British Wellington medium bombers last night renewed attacks on the Italian west coast ports of Genoa and Livorno [Leghorn].

RAT POPULATION IN CITY BELIEVED CUT TO 1,500,000

The destruction of 6,000 rats daily has reduced Chicago's rat population to one and one-half million, Michael J. Griffin, chief exterminator for the city, said yesterday. Griffin heads a crew of 25, financed by a $50,000 appropriation by the city council, whose duties are to exterminate rats with carbon monoxide gas and poison. Griffin's men are divided into crews that work in all sections of the city, and their work has aided in reducing the rat population from an estimated six million in 1934.

F. D. R. RECEIVES MESSAGE FROM CHIANG KAI-SHEK

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao-ming, recently returned from Chungking, delivered to President Roosevelt today a personal message from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The ambassador told reporters on leaving the White House that he could not reveal the nature of the message but said he found the morale of the people good when he visited the Chinese capital.

Told there has been some speculation that the Japanese offensive in China is aimed at trying to knock his country out of the war this summer, the ambassador commented that the Japanese are always thinking that way, adding that they would fail as they had done in the past. Japan, he said, is trying to build reserves on the continent and the coming months will be most difficult for China.

Stettinius Discusses Visit to London with Senators

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Undersecretary of State Stettinius spent two hours with the senate foreign relations committee today discussing his recent conferences in London on post-war problems. Committee Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] said the discussion was "frank," but declined to reveal details.

1,140 ENSIGNS GIVEN THEIR COMMISSIONS AT NAVY PIER RITES

Ensign commissions were given yesterday to 1,140 graduates of Northwestern university's naval reserve midshipmen's school by Rear Adm. Henry S. Kendall, chief of the naval air technical training command, who also made the commencement address in the Navy pier auditorium.

The new ensigns, who completed a four months' course at Abbott hall, will have brief leaves before reporting to their assignments. Capt. B. B. Wygant, commanding officer of the school, introduced Adm. Kendall. The invocation was given by Lt. Comdr. William Lumpkin, Abbott hall chaplain who landed with United States forces at Tarawa.

William C. Pendleton Jr., Stonington, Conn., won first place in the competition for general excellence. Harry Rinkema, South Holland, was the only Chicagoland man among the first 10 students. David L. Fraser, Spartanburg, S. C., and Calvin S. Robinson, Kalispell, Mont., tied for first place honors in aptitude.

ALLIES ATTACK MANY TARGETS IN GUINEA AREA

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, May 11 [Thursday] (AP).—Recently favored targets have been hit anew by allied bombers. Gen. MacArthur today reported 5th air force raids on the Schouten Islands, northwest of Hollandia, and Wewak to the southeast. The 13th air force in the Solomons pounded Rabaul, New Britain, and bases on New Ireland.

In the Hollandia perimeter, American patrols killed 62 Japs near Lake Sentani and on the slopes of the Cyclops mountains. Thirty-two were captured. These raised the totals to 977 Japs killed and 259 captured since the sector was invaded April 22.

In the bypassed Wewak-Hansa bay sector of New Guinea, headquarters said 100 tons of bombs were dropped on supply dumps, defense installations and an airdrome.

Ponape Gets 'Daily Raid.'

VOTE TO INDICT EX-POLICEMAN FOR SHOOTING

The grand jury was reported to have voted yesterday a true bill against Charles Hammond, 35, former policeman attached to the Stanton av. station, charging him with assault with intent to kill. The grand jury's reported action followed Hammond's acquittal earlier before Chief Justice Benjamin P. Epstein of the Criminal court, who ruled that the state had failed to prove intent to kill in the shooting and wounding last Dec. 11 of Columbus Pierson, a Negro, at 33d st. and Princeton av.

British Government Critic Beats Labor Party Ouster

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10. — Aneurin Bevan, caustic government critic, today defeated his enemies in the Labor party when they attempted to expel him. With 14 ministers present, the members voted 70 to 61 to refer the expulsion motion to the administrative committee and the national executive. Newspapers interpret the vote as a victory for Bevan and the trade unions, which had protested the expulsion move.

"Usquebaugh"

Strange word at the top of this column today, isn't it?—"Usquebaugh." It is derived from the Celtic; in Gaelic it would be "Uisgebetha." If you will just try to pronounce the first two syllables you will come pretty close to saying "Whiskey."

All this from a learned friend who tells us that this rather strange word means—Water of Life. It is interesting to learn that a number of other nations applied a similar term to the particular alcoholic beverages which they distilled. Way back in the early Middle Ages, the Italians made a distillation from wine and called it "Aqua Vitae." France called it "Eau de Vie," and in the Scandinavian countries it was "Acquavit." They all mean . . . Water of Life.

During the Renaissance period, pharmacists went even a bit further and termed what we know as alcohol, "Elixir Vitae," which means—Essence of Life. And the word "alcohol," too, has an interesting derivation. It comes from the Arabic "Al Kohl." The process of distillation was introduced into Europe by the returning Crusaders—they learned it from the Arabs.

Ancient indeed—the use of alcoholic beverages made from the fermentation and distillation of nature's products. And ancient, too, the "profession" of prohibitors. Way back in the dim and distant past, as today, there was use and abuse of the gifts of nature. There were the many who used these gifts with restraint and appreciation, and the few who abused them. But the many always have resented and always will resent any effort on the part of a small-pressure group to penalize them for excesses in which they do not indulge, and to which they do not subscribe.

Human nature hasn't changed much has it, since the time they called whiskey—"Usquebaugh"?

"STOPPED TAKING DAILY LAXATIVES"

"After 15 years' dosing now eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN"

Constipated? Given up hope of finding lasting, gentle relief? Then read this unsolicited letter:

"I am a rural letter carrier. For more than 15 years I used a laxative every night. About a year and a half ago a good friend suggested that I try KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. I did so—with the result that I have not taken a pill since. I eat ALL-BRAN generously every day. I find it a great help." John H. Martin, Westminster, Maryland.

How can such helpful results come about? Scientists say one common cause of constipation is lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet — and KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these important elements. They help the friendly flora to fluff up and prepare the colonic contents for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative, but a natural, gentle-acting, "regulating" FOOD.

If your constipation is this kind, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly, as a cereal or in several muffins. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't get help, too. Insist on the genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

TRIBUNE WRITER RIDES BOMBER IN ASSAULT ON JAPS

Sees Village Fortified by Foe Attacked.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A U. S. HEAVY BOMBER BASE IN INDIA, May 8 [Delayed].—The heaviest concentration of United States and British bombers yet used in this theater plowed thru stormy monsoon weather today to smash Japanese positions around Imphal in India's Manipur state.

Bomber squadrons, units of the eastern air command's strategic air force, were called upon for a rush job after British ground forces defending Imphal discovered the Japanese had heavily fortified two villages in the Imphal plain, Ningthiyhong, 19 miles south of Imphal, and Moirang, five miles further south on the road to Tiddim. The Japanese had embedded medium tanks in street dugouts as pillboxes.

I had a seat right on the 50 yard line for the raid—the waist gunner's position in a plane of a Liberator squadron which has dubbed itself the "Eager Beaver Bombing company."

Sky Full of Planes.

No football game ever equaled that hour over Imphal plain today. When we made our first dry run over Moirang for a look-see before bombing the sky was literally jammed with planes. High above, British Hurricanes and Spitfires slashed back and forth as a covering force.

Thirty minutes later when the Liberators slid over for their bombing run our pilots decided visibility was too poor to strike from 7,000 feet as planned. Instead, we chose to dodge the 6,500 foot peaks off our right wing tips in a pass, which took us over Moirang at less than 4,000 feet. From that altitude each Liberator poured 6,000 pounds of bombs into the seemingly deserted streets and compounds of this Manipur town.

The raid was planned only a few hours before the planes struck. The first word I had was when the public relations officer got me out of a bathtub to ask if I'd like to go bombing. Within an hour I was signed in as supercargo of a Liberator known as "Bloody Mary," named after the violent and internationally famous concoction of vodka and tomato juice.

Maywood Boy Is Gunner.

"Mary's" pilot was Lt. John R. Ware, Nederland, Tex., 22 year old, getting ready to fly his 53d combat mission. Col. Aubrey K. Dodson, 39, Sallisaw, Okla., group commander of the Liberators, was serving as co-pilot.

Ahead on the taxi circle, bombers "Jungle Jig," "Lady Be Good," and "Paulette," recently christened by Paulette Goddard, were moving up for the take-off. Our gunners crawled up to me and shouted their names into my ear.

The tail gunner was like a member of the family. He was Staff Sgt. James Warner, 1203 S. 15th av., Maywood, Ill., a cherub faced youngster who swore he was 19 but appears 16.

When "Lady Be Good" made her run, "Bloody Mary" wheeled into position and a few minutes later we were airborne for Moirang.

Watch Artillery Duel.

Passing over the British lines south of Imphal, we saw the gun flashes of an artillery duel. Half a mile beyond, a crashed plane was burning. Then immense geysers, dirt, smoke, and wreckage streamed skyward from Ningthiyhong as the medium bombers patterned it.

In our dry run over Moirang we caught the flash of a few guns, but if they were firing at us we did not know it. Along the road a convoy of Jap trucks halted abruptly as the drivers scrambled. We marked them for later reference.

Thirty minutes later we made our real run, bomb bays open, the wind howling thru the ship, and the waist gunners hanging far out as they searched the skies for the enemy. Dropping 1,000 feet a minute, we smashed thru the clouds and rain squalls until one tin roofed building in Moirang was in the cross hairs of Bloody Mary's bomb sight.

The ship bucked again as the load left her belly.

As we swung out of our run in a rendezvousing circle two Spitfire squadrons flashed overhead, waggling their wings to us in commendation. Ten minutes later we formed on the leader of the Liberators and swung dead into the setting sun. Food boxes were brought out, and the men in Bloody Mary dined on sardines, cheese, stale bread, and fruit juice.

Burma war developments.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, May 10 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Stilwell's land invasion forces and air borne Commandos, or "Chindits," are closing a trap in northern Burma on the Japanese 18th division, it was disclosed today.

Fanning out from their original landing points behind the enemy's lines, the "Chindits" now hold sway over a vast territory south of Mogaung and Myitkyina and have disrupted Japanese supply lines both to Mandalay and Bhamo, 80 miles south of Myitkyina.

Today's Mountbatten bulletin reported the "Chindits" had inflected heavy casualties on the enemy both south and southwest of Mogaung, in the vicinity of Mawlu.

From the north Stilwell's two mixed columns of Chinese, Americans, and Burmese levies pressed steadily down the Mogaung and Fort Hertz valleys.

The "Chindits" are concentrating on blocking supplies and reënforcements to the Japanese and avoiding a large scale fight until Stilwell completes his part of the squeeze from the north.

JAPANESE CROSS YELLOW RIVER IN PUSH ON LOYANG

CHUNGKING, China, May 11 [Thursday]—(AP).—A Japanese force from Shansi province forced a crossing to the south bank of the Yellow river Tuesday night and is attacking heavily northwest of Loyang, in an apparent attempt to put a pincers on that strategic rail city in Honan province, the Chinese command disclosed today.

Another Jap force already was attacking southeast of Loyang in the three weeks old Honan campaign, but latest Chinese dispatches said that army had been checked east of the Yi river after having approached within six miles of Loyang.

[A Tokyo broadcast said Jap forces squeezing thru Hulao pass on the road to Loyang captured two towns.]

The new force coming down from the north forced the river crossing in the vicinity of Yuanchu, Shansi province town 45 miles northwest of Loyang, and severe fighting is in progress, a Chinese war bulletin said.

Chinese field reports said the Japs threatening Loyang from the southeast, also had gained ground in a thrust from Tengfeng, 30 miles distant, and had attacked Lushan, 75 miles southeast of Loyang.

[The German radio, quoting Tokyo reports, said the Peiping-Hankow line was "completely in Japanese hands."]

KANKAKEE BOYS WIN MEDALS FOR ANZIO HEROISM

Two Kankakee paratroopers, who never had known each other until they met for the landing at Anzio, have been awarded Presidential citations and decorated by Lt. Gen. Mark Clark for their bravery in the beachhead landing in Italy, relatives learned yesterday.

The men, Privates James Kilcullen and Stanley Carpenter, formed a team and were able to keep telephones operating from an Italian farmhouse which the Germans were shooting away room by room.

Pvt. Kilcullen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kilcullen, 738 N. 8th av., Kankakee. Pvt. Carpenter has two brothers, Harold and George, residing in Kankakee.

SEDITION TRIAL LAWYER FINED; CASE RESUMED

9 Prospective Jurors Are Seated in Day.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Nine prospective jurors were seated today in a reopening of the war's biggest sedition trial in Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher's federal District court. Completion tomorrow of the task of choosing a jury and the start of actual trial Monday was foreseen if tomorrow's session proceeds with the same speed as today's.

Today's session probably was the most businesslike of the four weeks of proceedings since the case was called for trial. Defense attorneys and the 29 defendants were noticeably subdued by the $150 contempt of court fine levied early this morning against James J. Laughlin of Washington, counsel for Defendants Robert Noble and Edward James Smythe.

Laughlin Plans Appeal.

Justice Jennings Bailey of the federal District court, in holding Laughlin in contempt, said the lawyer had filed motions to summon persons prominent in public life as witnesses in the sedition trial mostly for their "publicity value" and "to embarrass the trial judge."

Laughlin announced after the ruling that he expected to appeal the decision by Justice Bailey, a Nashville, Tenn., Democrat appointed to the court in 1918 by President Wilson.

Meanwhile, the District of Columbia Bar association, in one of the most tumultuous sessions in its history, voted to meet May 15 "to take cognizance" of the conditions surrounding the sedition trial. Twenty-six prominent Washington lawyers, none connected with the case, signed a petition calling for the investigation. Open rebellion flared when the association's board of directors attempted to sidetrack the petition.

Lawyers' Guild Takes Hand.

Another subject likely to be brought to the attention of the Bar association, it was said, is a news release of the National Lawyers' guild handed to reporters as they emerged from Justice Bailey's courtroom after hearing his ruling on the contempt charges against Laughlin.

Asserting the decision "proves that democracy can defend itself," the news release sharply attacked defense attorneys for "systematic obstruction and confusion in order to prevent or delay the determination of the issues."

The defense attorneys were incensed that such charges should be made against court appointed counsel.

The nine jurors seated today included two women. Two of the nine were on the government pay roll. Thirteen veniremen were excused as admittedly prejudiced.

As soon as 12 have been seated, exercising of peremptory challenges will begin. The defense may excuse 10 veniremen from service without giving any cause for their action, and the same number of peremptory challenges is accorded the government.

Government Clerk Called.

The nine seated included:

1. Coenraad Aalberding, 54, a restaurant owner who was born in Amsterdam, Holland.
2. Mrs. Enid Kelley Anthony, 55, internal revenue bureau clerk.
3. Henry Aschenbach, 42, chain drug store branch manager.
4. Cleo Preston Bageant, 42, owner of a radio repair shop.
5. John H. Bahlman, 31, exchange teller for a Washington bank.
6. Thomas B. Bailey, 42, a serviceman for the Washington Gas Light company.
7. Ernest C. Bohannon, 41, clerk for the government accounting office, who was challenged for cause by the defense after he testified he had worked closely with the justice department in reproducing photostatic copies of documents. The challenge was denied.
8. Mrs. Julia Tenny Butt, 57, wife of a waste paper dealer, who has a son serving in Africa.
9. Mrs. Ethel Lee Dixon, 35, whose husband is a bank auditor.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

"APPEAL BY LAW?"

In Monday's column the following question and answer appeared: F. S. E. writes: "I am 27 years old, married, and have a child 3 years old. Under date of Nov. 20, 1943, I was classified 2-B by my Indianapolis draft board. Today I received notice of reclassification to 1-A by the board of appeals and the notation on the card in red ink was 'appealed by law.' The vote was 4 to 0. Does this appeal board action preclude me appealing now on the grounds of hardship? This case was apparently adjudged on my occupational necessity."

ANSWER: Presumably all data of any significance in your case was in your file and considered by the board of appeals. If it was not, it should have been, and if it wasn't, it is your fault because the registrant's file is supposed to be kept up to date by the registrant. Selective service says you have no further right of appeal. However, if you have an unusual dependency hardship situation, you can present any new evidence about your situation to your local board and request the reopening of your case.

Since the appearance of this item we have been contacted, by telephone and mail, by a score of selective service personnel who have all indicated their disagreement and dissatisfaction with the answer given even tho it was clearly indicated the answer did not reflect the writer's opinion. A member of a selective service state headquarters legal staff, for instance, used this argument: "To begin with, when a board of appeals considers a case such as this, they are concerned only with the registrant's occupational status and not with his dependency situation and the board of appeals is, in reality, not a board of appeals but merely a review committee, nor is it a classifying body. Unless the board of appeals acting in a case of this kind exceeds its authority and rightful functions it can consider only evidence of occupational necessity. If there is a dependency or hardship situation involved, this properly is a matter for the attention of the registrant's local board and the board of appeals having jurisdiction over the area wherein the registrant is registered. When this registrant or any other registrant has a change of classification, he has the usual 10 days in which to either request a hearing before his local board or to file an appeal or both."

This statement appears to most clearly reflect the divergence of opinion and is presented here merely in the hope that, if there is a difference of opinion, administrative action will be taken to clarify the point at issue.

Last week we had a case where a registrant, after receiving a 3-D classification as a result of a hearing before his local board, was reclassified to 1-A by appeal board action when an appeal agent appealed the classification without the registrant's knowledge. Selective service indicated that in this case the registrant had no further recourse unless the local board wished to reconsider the case. It was admitted by selective service that the situation was "paradoxical" and "if, at the time a registrant's local board sent his file to a board of appeal, the local board retained some written evidence in the file instead of sending it along to the board of appeal, then the local board procedure was incorrect. Correction of this defect would not involve an appeal by the registrant but, rather, an administrative action by the state director." How is the registrant to know that all the evidence was submitted, including a transcript of all oral testimony?

REPORT BRITISH PREMIERS STUDY TERMS FOR NAZIS

LONDON, May 11 [Wednesday]—(AP).—British commonwealth prime ministers—at the halfway mark of their conference—are holding secret sessions, but sideline opinion is quite well agreed that they are doing two things:

1. Devoting considerable time to details of armistice terms to be submitted to Germany.
2. Building a framework for a new league of nations.

The armistice terms are believed to include—aside from unconditional surrender—personal surrender of the chief of the German army, complete disarmament, de-industrialization of the reich insofar as the possibility of secret rearmament is concerned, and possibly a ban on civilian aircraft.

Modeled After Old League.

The league of nations plan is understood to be modeled along the old league, with the allied nations as a core, but with smaller nations and eventually enemy countries to have a full voice.

Talks between representatives of Britain, the United States, and Russia on machinery for maintaining peace are a probable aftermath of the foreign policy discussions.

Will Be British Plan.

An official British spokesman confirmed that the British government wished to compare its views with those of the dominions. As a result of the premiers' conference Britain may modify her proposals to take account of the dominions viewpoints, but the views will be presented as British proposals and not as joint empire drafts.

ASLEEP; SAVED IN FIRE.

A Negro porter, found sleeping in the smoke filled second story of a building at 810 Roosevelt rd., was carried to safety yesterday by firemen who extinguished the blaze on the first floor.

BRITISH POISED TO AID CIVILIANS IN D-DAY PORTS

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—Emergency units are poised and ready to go into action on D day to evacuate and care for noncombatants in British coastal towns, it was disclosed today.

Details about the units were kept secret, but all have been assigned to their posts at coastal invasion bases.

Nazi propaganda broadcasts speculated as to the hour and place of the attack, and talked of "new units" and new weapons and anti-invasion defenses. DNB, German news agency, declared "the decisive hour will come and it looks to us as if it will come soon."

[A Blue network correspondent reported from London that Pierre Laval, chief of the French government, asked the Germans to transfer the French government seat to near Paris, fearing that when the invasion comes French parachute troops may strike to isolate Vichy.]

Cameramen Ready.

New York, May 10 (AP).—J. L. Beddington, director of the British ministry of information's film division, said today that a small "army" of allied film cameramen now is standing by in England as an integrated unit ready to record the invasion.

2,627 AMERICAN PLANES GIVEN TO REDS BY BRITISH

Churchill Asks Facts Be Published.

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill said today that, without attempting to detract credit from the United States and Russia, he felt the facts should be published that Great Britain had sent huge quantities of arms and supplies to the soviets.

He told a cheering house of commons that Britain had sent to Russia 5,031 tanks and 6,778 planes, 2,627 of them of American make—plus $320,000,000 of materials and machinery between October, 1941, and March, 1944.

"I'm not in the slightest degree boasting individually about our efforts as compared with those of our ally, the United States," he said, "nor making out any counter-claims against the heroism and glorious military exploits of the soviet armies. I'm merely responding to the wish that the facts should be published."

Swapped by Lend-Lease.

The American-made planes, Churchill said, were sent "on United States lend-lease to the soviet union as part of a British commitment in exchange for the supply of British aircraft to United States forces in the European theater."

Paying tribute to the British navy's sacrifices in delivering materials, he said it bore nearly all the warship losses in "rushing the goods thru" to Russia, but that the United States had suffered most heavily in merchant ship losses on the Murmansk route.

98 Per Cent Gets Thru.

An admiralty bulletin announced that allied ships had delivered nearly 1 billion 250 million tons of war supplies to Russia over the Arctic route in the last 16 months with a loss of less than 16 tons of every 1,000.

"Despite all that the enemy could do by sea and air to prevent our supplies reaching our ally, more than 98 per cent of the supply ships delivered their cargoes safely during the past six months," the bulletin said.

It added that equipment landed in Russia aircraft, tanks, railway locomotives and cars, guns, cranes, marine craft, many thousand vehicles and considerable quantities of ammunition, food, explosives and fuel.

IRISH DENOUNCE DE VALERA CALL FOR AN ELECTION

DUBLIN, Eire, May 10 (AP). — A first class political fight was developing in Eire today as Prime Minister De Valera's opponents accused him of using dictatorial and dangerous tactics in ordering a rush national election for May 30 — the country's second within a year—as a result of the defeat of his domestic transport bill in the house yesterday. Neither the war nor neutrality is an issue in the fight.

The Irish Free Press, the organ of De Valera's Fianna Fail party, said his opponents "must have decided to show that they are completely devoid of any sense of responsibility" by beating the bill.

At present the government has only a minority in the lower chamber, the Dail Eireann, and the Independents hold the balance of power.

Two other Dublin newspapers denounced the government's move.

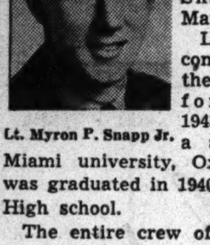
CHICAGO PILOT OF FLYING FORT DIES IN ACTION



Lt. Myron P. Snapp Jr.

Lt. Myron P. Snapp Jr., 22, pilot of a Flying Fortress, was killed in action over Switzerland on April 24, the war department has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Myron P. Snapp, 1516 E. Marquette rd.

Lt. Snapp was commissioned in the army air forces Oct. 1, 1943. He had been a student at Miami university, Oxford, O. He was graduated in 1940 from Parker High school.

The entire crew of the Fortress and the crew of a second bomber hit at the same time were buried with full military honors at Munsingen, Switzerland, in a cemetery reserved for American flyers by the American government, the Snapp family learned from an article published in the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes. The article was sent by a soldier friend stationed in England. The two planes had been struck by anti-aircraft fire, it stated.

PRIEST RETURNS FROM MYSTERY VISIT TO STALIN

Seattle, Wash., May 10 [Special].—The Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, Polish-American priest from Springfield, Mass., arrived by plane tonight from a conference in Moscow with Dictator Stalin and told newsmen "things are not finished. I cannot make a statement now. At the proper time and place we will make a statement."

He refused to elaborate on what he meant by "we" in his carefully dictated statement and he would not discuss his trip or future plans.

The visit to Russia by Fr. Orlemanski caused a furor in Polish-American circles and a delegation of directors of Polish-American societies visited the state department in Washington on May 5 and filed a formal protest.

Father Orlemanski, who left here tonight by plane for Chicago, described his Russian trip as "very successful." His trip from Russia to Seattle by air took four days.

REDS SINK NAZI TROOPS TRYING TO FLEE CRIMEA

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—In a final chapter of the fall of Sevastopol, planes of the Black sea fleet sank two 4,000 ton German transports, a patrol launch, and several swift landing craft in which the Germans and Romanians were trying to flee, Russia announced tonight.

On the land fronts there were no important changes, said the soviet midnight war report, broadcast from Moscow.

The Germans contended they still were fighting on the Sevastopol beaches on the extreme western tip of the Crimean peninsula.

A supplement to the soviet war bulletin said 600 Germans had been killed and 100 captured in the daily "enemy attack" and soviet "counter-blow" southeast of Stanislawow, in the southeast corner of old Poland.

In the Lwow region, soviet guerrillas wiped out a German garrison, the bulletin added.

Soviet planes sank three German motor launches in the Barents sea.

The German war report told of unsuccessful Russian attacks "in the Iasi area, east of the Siret [river], and on the western bank of the Moldavia" on the southern front.

ELEVATOR UNION WILL RECOUNT PRESIDENT VOTE

The executive board of the AFL Elevator Operators and Starters union local 66 voted last night for a recount of votes cast for two candidates for president May 2. James C. Sebastian, elevator starter in the Chicago Temple building, petitioned for the recount because he trailed Martin J. [Matt] Dwyer by only two votes. The recount will be made by the election committee tomorrow in the Brinks Express company, 715 Monroe st., where the ballots have been guarded since the election.

Crash Victims Identified.

Boston, May 10 (AP).—First naval district headquarters has identified the flyers involved in the crash of a navy plane in Cape Cod bay, off Provincetown, Monday.

Among the dead was Lt. [j. g.] Norwood H. Dobson, U. S. N. R., 27, whose widow, Mrs. Alpha E. Dobson, lives in Ellensboro, N. C. Missing was John Werner Dohlstrom, U. S. N., 19, whose mother, Mrs. Genevive Kronberg, lives at Ypsilanti, Mich.

Germans Train 1,400,000 Civilians to Shoot Rifles

LONDON, May 10.—About 1,400,000 German civilians have been trained to use rifles and revolvers in defense of the reich, according to an announcement on the German radio today. Thus, almost exactly four years after the formation of the British home guard in the face of a threat of German invasion, the enemy is instructing its civilians to meet a similar onslaught from Britain.

STEWART WINS G. O. P. NOD FOR OHIO GOVERNOR

Rush Holt Is Defeated in West Virginia Vote.

Columbus, O., May 10 (AP).—Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati apparently won the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio in one of the closest major races in the state's history, complete unofficial returns from yesterday's primary showed late today.

Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland won the Democratic nomination.

Tabulation of the state's 9,180 polling places gave the 63 year old attorney a margin of 2,262 votes—one of the narrowest in the state's history—over Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert, his nearest rival in a four-man race. The complete count showed: Stewart, 162,010; Tom Herbert, 159,748; Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, 137,663, and Albert E. Payne, Springfield industrialist, 15,655.

Taft Is Renominated.

Voters gave William G. Pickrel of Dayton nearly a two-to-one lead for the Democratic United States senatorial nomination. Sen. Taft, Cincinnati Republican, won renomination without opposition.

There was no contest for convention delegates. Gov. Bricker was given the state's 50 Republican votes, while the Democrats' 52 went to President Roosevelt—if he wants them.

In West Virginia Rush D. Holt, former "boy senator," conceded tonight that Judge Clarence W. Meadows had spiked his political comeback attempt for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination while Republicans installed as their nominee Mayor D. Boone Dawson of Charleston.

Delegates Prefer Dewey.

With Holt into defeat went another colorful campaigner of West Virginia's bitterest primary of two decades, Raymond J. Funkhouser, millionaire industrialist, of Charles Town.

While the returns for delegates to national conventions were far from complete, all 18 of the leading Republican candidates were supporters of Gov. Dewey of New York for the Presidential nomination—11 announced and seven unpledged, but favoring Dewey. On the Democratic side, all 18 favored a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

F. D. R. Gets 8 Delegates.

Fargo, N. D., May 10 (AP).—North Dakota's eight delegate votes at the national Democratic convention were instructed for President Roosevelt for nomination for a fourth term at the North Dakota Democratic convention here today.

BRICKER MEETS WITH GREEN ON SWING TO WEST

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, only avowed aspirant for the Republican Presidential nomination, conferred with Gov. Green last night in the Union League club. Gov. Bricker stopped in Chicago on a swing thru the west, which will take him to Des Moines, Ia., today for a luncheon with Republican leaders and a dinner speech before a large Republican gathering.

Gov. Bricker said he talked with Gov. Green about a governors' conference to be held in Hershey, Pa., May 28, but he left no doubt that politics also was discussed.

Gov. Bricker appeared to believe that the break in Dewey strength expected by some has appeared, but he said only that he is continuing his own vigorous campaign with stops slated for Lincoln and Omaha, Neb., and Milwaukee Saturday, followed by talks in New England and selected cities in the south and east.

OPA WAR ENDED WITH APOLOGY FROM WALTERS

With a "few misunderstandings" left to be "reconciled," Rae E. Walters, regional office of price administration chief, yesterday went to his home in Harlan, Ia., "for a few days' rest," after a whitewash of his office by investigators sent here by Chester Bowles, OPA administrator.

Before he left, Walters made a public apology to Nate Grossblat, one of his enforcement attorneys, whom he attacked April 30 in the 14th floor OPA offices at 226 Jackson blvd. The apology included Miss Verna Shapiro, an attorney in the OPA Washington office, who was with Grossblat when Walters found the latter in the OPA offices here on that day, a Sunday.

James C. Derieux, OPA deputy administrator and one of the investigators, issued a statement saying he had found no reasons to make "drastic changes" in personnel here. He said Walters "has the support of the regional and national offices," and that Grossblat had accepted Walters' apology.

YOUTH PITCHES A HORSE SHOE; UNEARTHS GEM

34 Carat Diamond Kept 12 Years.

Richmond, Va., May 10 [Special].—The story of how a youth pitched a horseshoe and turned up the largest alluvial diamond ever found in the United States was told here today.

It was told by R. J. Holden, professor of geology at Virginia Polytechnic institute, at the annual meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science.

Holden said William [Punch] Jones of Peterstown, W. Va., was pitching horseshoes with his father, Grover C. Jones, 12 years ago. On one pitch a shoe uncovered a bright object.

Stone Kept as Curio.

"Gee, I found a diamond," Holden quoted young Jones as saying.

Jones kept the stone until recently as a curio, being reluctant to submit it to experts for examination because he feared he would be ridiculed if it proved to be valueless.

When finally examined, however, the stone was found to be a diamond weighing 34.46 carats.

Holden said the diamond, now lent by the father and son to the National museum in Washington, D. C., is the second largest found in North America. He said it is larger than the Dewey diamond of 23.75 carats, found near Richmond in 1855, which for many years was the largest found in the United States. The 3,106 carat Cullinan diamond, found in South Africa in 1905, is said to be the largest diamond ever found in the world.

Value Is Undetermined.

Jones' diamond is white with a slight greenish tinge and has one visible impurity, a black spot, Holden said. Its value has not been determined, Holden explained, saying the value depends on the quality of the stone.

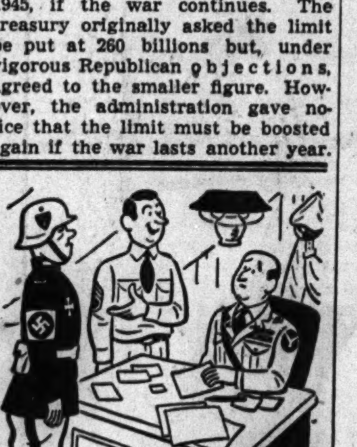
"If it is of gem grade [for use in rings and other forms of jewelry], it will be of great value," Holden said. "If not of gem grade, its museum value would be about $75 a carat, or $2,500."

NEW DEBT LIMIT OF 240 BILLIONS VOTED BY HOUSE

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—The house today passed without a dissenting voice and sent to the senate a bill raising the nation's public debt limit from 210 to 240 billion dollars.

Approval followed a bitter floor duel in which Republicans accused Democrats of needless spending and "boondoggling," and the Democrats fired back that the minority was playing politics.

The public debt now is 185 billion dollars and the treasury estimates it will reach 258 billions by July 1, 1945, if the war continues. The treasury originally asked the limit be put at 260 billions but, under vigorous Republican objections, agreed to the smaller figure. However, the administration gave notice that the limit must be boosted again if the war lasts another year.



"One thing he will admit—Marlin Blades are better than theirs!"

A. C. SCHWEITZER NAMED SCHOOLS' BUSINESS HEAD

Arthur C. Schweitzer, assistant business manager of the board of education, yesterday was named acting business manager in place of Howard P. Savage, who died Sunday, to serve until the board fills the vacancy.

Services for Mr. Savage were held in St. Margaret Mary church, 7300 N. Claremont av., yesterday morning, with American Legion, school board, and city officials attending.

Chicago Elevated post 184 of the Legion, which Mr. Savage organized, and the Sullivan High school R. O. T. C. furnished honor guards. Pallbearers were six former Illinois state Legion commanders.

G. O. P. HARMONY TO MAKE FISHER COUNTY LEADER

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Maintenance of harmony was uppermost in minds of leaders last night on the eve of the Republican Cook county convention, to be held in the La Salle hotel today, which is scheduled to elect George M. Fisher chairman and George A. Williston secretary of the G. O. P. county organization.

Gov. Green was supporting Chairman John T. Dempsey's choice of Fisher as his successor. This was the deciding factor that quelled incipient opposition which was rising when the governor returned from Arizona on Monday.

"We've got to have harmony to win in November," one leader of the anti-Fisher forces said. "That must be our only thought, and it will prevail."

Fisher to Run Patronage.

Fisher, now secretary of the county central committee and a judge on the state court of claims, will be in charge of patronage for the county. Dempsey had handled this function as chairman of the state patronage committee, which he is resigning to devote his complete efforts to his candidacy for state's attorney.

Alfred F. Schupp, a member of the state patronage committee who has been handling most of the downstate problems under Dempsey, is accorded a good chance for the state patronage chairmanship.

Fisher Has Green Backing.

Cook county suburban G. O. P. leaders met again yesterday to solidify their ranks against Fisher, but this was before they received word that Gov. Green stood behind him. Opposition in other sections also was counted upon to vanish when the governor's name was used.

Fisher is 18th ward committeeman on the south side. Williston has been active in the Republican party for more than 30 years, all of this time on the north side. He is 49th ward committeeman and is serving his fifth term in the Illinois house. He also has been an alderman, a deputy coroner, and deputy Municipal court clerk.

Governor Will Be Keynoter.

After a caucus of the 80 ward and township committeemen in the morning, the program will be submitted to the convention at 3 p. m. today. The assemblage may adopt a platform recognizing Dempsey's role as head of the county ticket by its emphasis upon crime and corruption in the metropolitan area.

Gov. Green will be the keynote speaker, outlining the main issues for the fall campaign.

Other business will include naming of about 600 Cook county delegates to the state convention in Springfield, May 18.

Rowe to Succeed Berve.

The governor will remain in Chicago for the state central committee meeting tomorrow. Everything is set for the election of Richard Yates Rowe of Jacksonville as chairman to succeed Ben L. Berve of Rochelle, who failed of reëlection to the committee April 11.

A dinner honoring Berve will be given tonight in the La Salle hotel. Illinois state officials and Republican chairmen from eight midwest states are expected to attend. Berve will have an active role in the fall campaign, it is said.

PURGERS BATTLE NYE IN A BITTER PRIMARY FIGHT

Smear Tactics Backfire, Supporters Say.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bismarck, N. D., May 10.—Sen. Nye [R., N. D.], foe of the New Deal, is in the thick of a battle for renomination in which his supporters call him "No. 1 on the New Deal's 1944 purge list." Four candidates are in the field for the Republican nomination for senator. North Dakota, noted for devious and complex politics, has not only a fight between rival groups inside the state, but as a background, a smear campaign by seaboard internationalists and one worlders which has been operating against Nye for months past.

Indications here are that the smear is beginning to boomerang. Some state house neutrals here declare an impression is growing among the rank and file that Nye is getting a raw deal. Before Pearl Harbor, Nye's noninterventionist attitude, they declare, was the same as that of 90 per cent of the voters out here, the same as that reflected in the campaign pledges of Wendell Willkie and President Roosevelt, in the latter's "I say, again, again, and again," etc., utterance.

Sovereignty His Creed.

Ney indorsed the Mackinac G. O. P. charter in respect to coöperation with other nations to preserve peace, but without any impairment of American sovereignty and essential self-interest. Nye's friends descibe the smear campaign as an attack on nationalism versus internationalism.

At the statehouse today it was said that one scout who has been in some 30 county seats recently reports sentiment for Nye is increasing as the issue is being developed, but asserts Nye still has a tough fight.

The Republican candidates for senator in the June 27 primaries are Nye, Rep. Usher L. Burdick, Lynn U. Stambaugh, and A. C. Townley. In the Republican party, two groups, as has been the custom for many years, held conventions in March to nominate slates for primaries.

Nye "Regular" Candidate.

Burdick was slated for senator by the Nonpartisan league convention; Nye was picked by the regular Republicans, sometimes called the Progressive Republicans. Stambaugh, former national commander of the Legion, has entered independently. So has Townley, who more than a quarter century ago was father of the Nonpartisan league and who in his heydey was ruler of a whole state but now cuts small weight politically. Stambaugh is rated third man in vote pulling strength.

On the Democratic primary slate Gov. John Moses is candidate for senator. He has been governor three times, elected by Republican votes.

How far Democrats, who have no real primary contests of their own, may crash into the Republican primaries is one of the current puzzles. There are not many Democrats in the state, but enough in a close contest to affect a Republican nomination.

New Deal for Burdick.

It is believed by some politicians in both groups that the bulk of New Deal Democratic votes cast in the G. O. P. primaries would be for Burdick, one theory being that Moses could more easily defeat him in the November election.

It is easy to jump party fences in primaries here. Both Republican and Democratic party tickets are printed on one consolidated primary election ballot. Voters vote for either ticket they choose without any declaration of party affiliation.

Efforts of the New Deal to purge Nye have been under way for a long time, the senator's managers declare. Ever since his early attack on NRA, Nye has been a thorn in the flesh for the New Deal. He is pictured as having been the first to speak on the radio against the plan to pack the Supreme court, and has been the arch enemy of the old brain trust, the palace guard, and burocrats.

CHURCHILL ON JOB 4 YEARS.

LONDON, May 10 [AP].—For Britons this was a memorable anniversary. It was on May 10 four years ago that Winston Churchill replaced the late Neville Chamberlain as prime minister.

New Commander

Capt. Charles L. Lee, commanding officer of the training aircraft carrier Wolverine for 11 months, yesterday surrendered command in a colorful ceremony to Comdr. Robert R. De Wolfe, former commanding officer of the naval auxiliary air station at Barin field, near Pensacola, Fla.

After an early morning inspection of the carrier, accompanied by five senior officers aboard, Capt. Lee and Comdr. De Wolfe addressed the ship's complement in turn, each closing with the reading of his orders.

Comdr. De Wolfe, 1926 Annapolis graduate, served as a naval aviator aboard the carriers Yorktown and Langley, performed patrol duty along the Pacific coast and served with the British air force in the Pacific and Indian ocean areas. Subsequently he was appointed naval attache in Chungking, served on the staff of Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault with the American volunteer group and also on the staff of Maj. Gen. L. H. Brereton, commanding general of the 10th air force in China. Comdr. De Wolfe is believed to be the only naval flyer entitled to wear the wings of the army, navy, and British air forces.

COL. R. H. MORSE DEPRIVED OF GAS BY RATION BOARD

Col. R. H. Morse.

Col. Robert H. Morse, president of Fairbanks, Morse & Co., 600 S. Michigan av., yesterday was ordered deprived of all gasoline allotments for the duration of gas rationing by the gasoline panel of the West Palm Beach [Fla.] county ration board.

After a public hearing, the board ruled that Morse, who has a winter home in Palm Beach, violated regulations by using coupons issued to his company in connection with its war work for pleasure driving. Morse's attorney, J. Kenneth Williamson, contended that Mrs. Morse's illness in Palm Beach made it essential for Col. Morse to conduct his business from there. Their Chicago home is at 1242 Lake Shore.

Spokesmen at the company's Chicago office said Col. Morse had been conducting all of his business from Palm Beach, and frequently had to make trips in connection with the organization's navy work. They blamed the incident on the "vindictive mouthings of a disgruntled chauffeur."

MARION ISBELL NAMED HEAD OF DIVISION IN OPA

Marion Isbell, head of a Chicago restaurant chain bearing his name, yesterday was named head of the office of price administration restaurant and institutional users rationing division, Walter F. Straub, director, said. Isbell replaces Chris Bemis, who was promoted to economic adviser. Isbell came to Chicago from Tennessee at 16 and took a job as a bus boy. He is chairman of the 47th ward ration board and president of the Chicago Restaurant association.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Sigmund Moch, 57, a salesman, died of a heart attack yesterday in his apartment at 2950 Jackson blvd., despite efforts of a fire department rescue squad to revive him.

FLYER, ON RAFT IN SEA 11 DAYS, RETURNS HOME

Virgil Case.

Virgil Case, 19, formerly of 6032 Nickerson av., a navy aviation ordnance man who was reported missing Nov. 17, 1943, when his bomber crashed near Rabaul, New Britain, after torpedoing a Japanese cruiser, returned to Chicago yesterday.

Case, who was the turret gunner, and Lt. William Krantz of Minneapolis, the pilot, and Orville Miller of Port Huron, Mich., radio man-gunner, were on a raft at sea for 11 days. One night they were so close to a surfaced Japanese submarine that they could see the markings on the bow.

They reached an island and existed on coconuts and the inside of a palm tree, which Case said tasted like cabbage, until they were rescued. Case's father was notified in March that his son was safe.

Veteran of Guadalcanal Is Held for Questioning

Sgt. Maj. Roy Bailey, a medal bedecked marine veteran of Guadalcanal and other Pacific battles, yesterday was taken into custody by the navy shore patrol at the Washington st. service men's center. Let's give this man a helping hand!

Another fellow who really knows there's a war on is your druggist. He's short of help ... supplies ... delivery facilities. Only one thing's plentiful ... the increased demand for his services and products.

You can give your druggist a helping hand by not asking for some of the many services he so gladly performed in peacetime.

Remember, as a professional man, the first obligation of your druggist is to fill prescriptions. With so many doctors now in service, this responsibility is, more than ever, a public trust.

Here are some specific suggestions on how to give this man your helping hand:

1 Shop in the morning. With fewer people in the stores, morning service is faster. Don't wait until near closing time.

2 Be patient. If service isn't what you'd like, think of the problems the druggist has before complaining. Then don't.

3 Accept substitutes. If your druggist is out of your favorite brand, accept his recommendation of another brand.

4 Be fair. Ask yourself "Is this necessary?" before requesting special services ... such as postage stamps or immediate delivery.

Help your druggist. Then, treat yourself to a delicious sundae or soda made with Swift's Ice Cream or Swift's Milk Sherbet ... that extra-smooth sherbet, so delightfully different. And treat the family with a carry-home package.

This message in the interest of America's druggists, who today are doing such a grand war job, is published by

CIO'S MILLIONS TO DEFEAT FOES STIR CAPITAL IRE

Scatter $100 Bills in Political Fight.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Indignation has been aroused on Capitol hill over disclosure of the apparent pattern to be followed by the Communits dominated CIO political action committee in the use of a 2 million dollar slush fund to defeat congressional foes of Communists.

The group hung up its first scalp recently when its tactics brought about the defeat in the Democratic primary of Rep. Starnes [D., Ala.], who ranged second to Chairman Dies [D., Tex.] on the house committee investigating un-American activities.

It has launched a strikingly similar campaign against Rep Rankin [D., Miss.], one of the most vociferous declaimers against radicalism in either house. And it is reported to be preparing a blitzkrieg aimed at Rep. Dies himself.

Scatter $100 Bills.

Hundred dollar bills were scattered like confetti about the 5th congressional district of Alabama on primary day, according to reports reaching here. The CIO group recently voted to spend $700,000 as a starter and announced that 2 million dollars would be available in the campaign to beat anti-New Dealers.

The existence of the slush fund was called to Atty. Gen. Biddle's attention by Rep. Smith [D., Va.] as a clear violation of the corrupt parctices act and worthy of presentation to a grand jury. Biddle replied that an inquiry disclosed no violation of the law, in his opinion, but promised "further investigation."

In the cases of Starnes and Rankin, the CIO political group waited until the last minute before the expiration of the filing period to present its candidates, apparently in the hope of catching the incumbent congressman unprepared for opposition.

Literature by Bale.

Immediately a full fledged campaign was launched with evidences that large amounts of money were available. Paid speakers toured the district and political literature was distributed by the bale.

Albert Rains of Gadsden, Ala., a well known attorney and orator, who was counsel for the CIO in the area, was selected as Starnes' opponent. He made his chief appeal to the thousands of war workers imported into the district, most of them organized CIO members. Starnes was defeated, polling 12,587 votes to 14,187 for Rains.

To oppose Rep. Rankin the group borrowed a government pay roller, Drexel Knight, who resigned as chief of the materials section of the war production board's government requirements office to make the race. WPB rumors have it that Knight was promised his position back if he loses to Rankin, or will be rewarded with another high paying place on the pay roll.

Dies Faces Same Tactics.

The same last minute filing tactics are expected to be employed against Rep. Dies. The deadline is May 15 and the probable candidate is reported to be former Judge J. M. Combs of Beaumont, Tex., Dies' home town, who, it is conceded, would make a strong race.

CIO spokesmen have said privately that they would consider half the 2 million dollar slush fund well spent if they could defeat Dies, chairman of the committee which exposed the Communist domination of the labor organization.

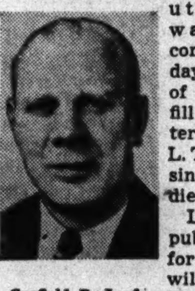
NOMINEE LEAF NAMED CORONER IN LAKE COUNTY

Garfield R. Leaf, 41, of 425 S. Jackson st., Waukegan, Lake county deputy treasurer, was appointed coroner yesterday by the board of supervisors to fill the unexpired term of Dr. John L. Taylor, coroner since 1900, who died May 5.



Garfield R. Leaf.

Leaf is the Republican nominee for coroner and will oppose Dr. Peter J. Stanul, the Democratic nominee, in the November election. The interim term will run to the first Monday in December.

Leaf has been associated with the Lake county treasurer's office since 1928, and served as treasurer from 1938 to 1942.

2 BANDITS SLUG POLICEMAN WHO BLOCKS HOLDUP

Policeman Arthur G. Connelly of the detective bureau was slugged last night in attempting to arrest two Negro bandits in the Columbia liquor store at 354 E. 71st st. Connelly, off duty, had stopped in the store on his way home. When the bandits, one carrying a gun, entered and ordered the store owner, George Lieberman, to put up his hands the detective reached for his own gun. The bandits pounced upon him and took the weapon. One gun was discharged during the struggle. Then one of the robbers knocked Connelly unconscious with a blow on the head with a gun and the pair fled. Connelly was taken to Jackson Park hospital.

An exciting hobby horse race to determine the queen of the Derby day dance at the University of Chicago Saturday night was climaxed yesterday on the campus with the crowning of Marillyn Fletcher of 4600 Franklin av., Western Springs.

Riding Wrangler Fletch, Miss Fletcher beat out Margaret Fogarty of St. Petersburg, Fla., aboard Marge Sigma Enigma; Marian Golden of La Grange, riding Golden Maroon Maid, and six other co-eds.

'COCKEYED RULE OVER HIGHWOOD' ENDED BY MAYOR

Mayor Charles Portilia of Highwood started yesterday to undo what he called "the many cockeyed actions" that took place during the 10 days he was absent from the city, visiting the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn.

His first act was to close the North Shore Recreation Rooms at 317 Waukegan av., Highwood, which has been enjoying a booming gambling business under the city administration of Ald. Fidel Ghini, who called himself mayor pro tem. Ghini explained that his plan was to let the place operate, but to fine it $200 a day and use the profits to buy a new fire engine, street sweeper, and recreation hall for soldiers.

New Chief Taking Day Off.

Mayor Portilia returned from Rochester Tuesday night and announced that the fur would soon be flying. Yesterday he went to the police station and found that Ted Benvenuti, who was named chief of police by the Ghini administration, was taking a day off. The mayor left instructions with Policeman Eugene Bellei, the acting chief, that the gambling house must be closed, and that the order meant all forms of gambling.

Bellei took the news to the operators and about 40 patrons of the place as the afternoon races began. The patrons said they'd adjourn to a handbook in Waukegan, and departed in good spirits.

During the day the mayor conferred with City Atty. Bernard J. Juron, who gave an opinion that Ghini's election as mayor pro tem was illegal because only five aldermen were present at the meeting, and Ghini neglected to vote.

Seek to Revoke License.

Mayor Portilia and the city attorney also conferred on procedure to revoke a tavern license issued to Harold Snavely, Ghini's brother-in-law, for a building near the Highwood Methodist church.

Ghini contends the tavern is 110 feet from the church, but the Rev. Lloyd C. Lafier, pastor of the church, says the distance is only 86 feet. Liquor laws forbid taverns within 100 feet of a church. Ghini said the license fee was paid before Mayor Portilia departed for Rochester, and that the mayor approved granting of the license.

"This," said the mayor, "is a damnable lie. A bunch of nincompoops have been in charge in my absence and somebody is going to get a spanking."

The mayor announced that John De Smidt, who was dismissed or forced to resign during the Ghini regime, would be reinstated if he wanted the job, and that Policeman Frank Belmonti, who also was discharged, would go back to work.

John J. Flanagan Named a Master in Chancery

Atty. John J. Flanagan, 911 Garfield blvd., was appointed a master in chancery by Superior court judges yesterday to succeed Francis T. Moran, who resigned May 10 when inducted into the navy.

AIRPORT IN LAKE HELD POSSIBLE BY COL. MANDEL

Lt. Col. Leon Mandel of the army air transport command asserted yesterday that the lake front airport proposed by the Chicago aero commission and supported by Mayor Kelly, tho momentarily a dream, is "not an impossibility." He advocated continued study of the project.

Col. Mandel, who will be placed on the army's inactive list May 16 to return as general manager of Mandel Brothers department store, told a press conference that "unless steps are taken to enlarge our facilities for handling aviation we will not be equipped to handle it even five years from now."

Col. Mandel said he did not believe it wise to depend on the government or the army "or any one else except ourselves, if we expect to make Chicago the leading city in the air future."

with BALDNESS!"

You cannot afford to. Once your hair is gone, there's no second chance because baldness is permanent. Ask a bald headed man what he'd give to regain his natural head of hair, then figure out for yourself if it wouldn't pay you many times over to preserve the hair you now have.

A free scalp examination and consultation with John E. Warner will quickly help you to determine your chances of keeping your hair. NO CASE IS EVER ACCEPTED FOR TREATMENT UNLESS BENEFICIAL RESULTS ARE REASONABLY CERTAIN.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.

No. 63 THRIF-T-LID

YOUR SURPLUSES OF FRESH FOODS SHOULD NOT BE WASTED

Lee Marshall, Director of Food Distribution, War Food Administration says: "In quantity and nutritive value, the food provided for civilian consumers in the United States in 1944 will not be unlike what was available in 1943. This means that people will do well to start planning their Victory Gardens now, and be ready to take advantage of opportunities to can fruits and vegetables for home use."

Here's how you can use Hills Bros. Coffee jars for home canning. Save empty coffee jars and metal caps. Then ask your grocer for No. 63 Thrif-T-Lids — a one-piece sealing lid which gives airtight protection for all approved methods of canning. 10¢ for a packet of 12. HUTCHINS WARNS COLLEGES' '4F'S' CURB EDUCATION

Oust Liberal Programs, U. of C. Head Says.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The collegiate 4-Fs—friendship, "frats," football, and fun—have replaced liberal education in America, to the extent that neither "war can ruin it nor peace revive it," is the view of Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago. He spoke last night before the opening session of a convention of the American Alumni council in the Medinah club.

Hutchins declared that the financing of higher education will not be endangered until the next depression—which he forecast as certain. He pleaded with the promotional leaders of the various colleges and universities who form the active membership of the council that education in this country find itself and its purpose before it is too late.

Sees Another Depression.

At present, Hutchins said, the American campus is composed of two activities—"vocational rituals and college life." And this system, it was explained, is due to remain for some time because of federal and state supported research and instruction. But when the depression comes people will ask reasons, Hutchins said, for the vast educational outlay of money.

By vocational rituals, Mr. Hutchins said he meant the training of youth in making day to day decisions and choices such as "adjusting the young to their environment."

"But where do you stop?" the University of Chicago president asked. "Environment beats on the students at every turn. Questions like where will you live, in a house or apartment, city or country? What do you think of Russia now? What did you think about it two years ago, and what will you think two years hence?

"What is the difference between tax avoidance and tax evasion? What do you think of Mr. Roosevelt, of prohibition? American education has responded to the call with courses to answer these questions and hundreds like them. We have been selling an inferior product by over-selling it."

Defines Liberal Education.

The three marks of a true liberal education in Hutchins' belief are: [1] "Education appropriate to man," as distinguished from "slavery to ignorance." [2] "Education which holds before the student the habitual vision of greatness," as contrasted with, for example, mere "textbook teaching" which neglects great books of timeless value. [3] Education that deals with permanent values and not with shifting conditions in which the effort is merely to "adjust the young to their environment."

Education in Nazi Germany and in Japan, Hutchins said, is training for "health, wealth, and recreation," adding that we will have to reëducate those peoples after the war, but it must be above "the earthworm's standards."

2 IOWANS BALK AT OPA POLITICS ON BOARD; FIRED

Iowa City, Iowa, May 19 [Special].—Ouster of the chairman of the Johnson county local ration board and one of its members, followed by the protest resignation of two other members, was revealed today as charges of "dirty politics" were made by resentful citizens.

Groups of both Republicans and Democrats have circulated petitions which 3,000 citizens have signed, protesting the sudden removal of R. J. Phelps, Iowa City businessman who has been chairman of the local board for more than a year, and C. R. McCann, a member. Both are Republicans who, it is said, do not fit in with alleged attempts to build the OPA in a New Deal vote-getting machine for the November election.

An "investigation" of the local board, whose activites affect the lives of 40,000 residents of the county, reached a climax last Thursday when Walter D. Kline, acting area administrator of the OPA at Des Moines, after a short conference here with McCann told him he was fired because he did not take "OPA policies to heart."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Clyde W. Ehrhardt, 810 N. Church st., Murfreesboro, Tenn.]

THE QUESTION.

What question do you most hate to ask your wife or husband?

WHERE ASKED.

La Salle-Wacker building, 221 N. La Salle st.

THE ANSWERS.

Michael M. Pontecore, attorney, 221 N. La Salle st.—When I ask a certain question I know I'm leading with my chin. I get curious once in a while, tho, and ask her how much of her allowance she has left. The answer is always the same—nothing—even the day after she gets it. Then it costs me.

Bernard Glickman, construction, 5057 Kenmore av.—I'm strictly a home body, but once in a while I like to spend an evening with the boys. Altho my wife always says it's perfectly all right when I call to ask her permission, I know she doesn't like it because she hates to stay home alone. I guess I brought her up wrong.

Allen Shultz, lawyer, 105 E. Delaware pl.—Sometimes when I'm planning a quiet evening at home my wife tells me we're going out. When she's all dressed up I hate to ask, "Do we have to go there tonight?" because I know her answer will be "Yes." Then I have to get out of my easy chair and into my shoes.

Elmer Gertz, lawyer, 821 Sunnyside av.—Quite often, around 10 minutes to six, I'll call my wife and say, "Is it all right if I don't come home for dinner tonight?" She usually answers, "Of course, it's all right—it's fine; nothing like telling me not to get your dinner right after I've finished preparing it!" It's always thus.

Mrs. Sam Schneewind, housewife, 6646 Stony Island av.—It's been a long time since I've been to a movie. I don't want to go alone, and I don't like to ask my husband to go with me. He detests double features, and wants to leave after he's seen one picture. I like to see the whole show. It's easier to stay home.

RENO DIVORCE OF DORIS DUKE RULED INVALID

Jersey Court Holds She's Still Wed.

wife's companion at her Shangri-la estate in Hawaii.

Jimmy said Miss Paschal told him firmly that Doris didn't want to see him and that the doors of her home would be closed in his face if he showed up. He was then in Chicago as chairman of the New Jersey delegation to the Democratic national convention, he said, and "I felt that I should at least have some exchange of cables that I could show to Mayor Hague in explanation of why I did not go to Honolulu."

"I am coming anyhow for the sake of public appearances," he said he told Miss Paschal, but he eventually decided against the trip.

The Herr ruling was particularly interesting from a legal standpoint because of a contention in his opinion that Nevada had forfeited its right to the "full faith and credit" protection of the United States Constitution by sealing the records of the Cromwell divorce in Reno against the New Jersey proceedings.

[Section 1 of Article IV. of the Constitution provides that "full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other state."]

Herr's decision was regarded as being based on the word "public" in the Constitution. Because Doris was treated to the Nevada privilege of a trial in a judge's chambers, and because the Duke attorneys thereafter obtained an order sealing the records against all persons not represented in the proceedings, the judge held that the decree as not "a public act, record, or judicial proceeding" of the state.

Transcript Refused.

Cromwell, who has consistently sniffed at the jurisdiction of Nevada over his marital status, was not represented in the Reno trial, and therefore was barred by the order from getting a transcript of the record to aid him in his New Jersey effort to have it set aside, it was recalled.

"This court not only has a right but a duty to see the record," Herr commented as he decreed the nullification. He said an element of fraud was conspicuous in Doris' claim to Reno residence and demanded to know if the action of the Reno judge was "due process of law."

Jimmy, who yesterday said his domestic difficulties began after he had incurred the hatred of Doris' financial advisors by persuading her to donate $50,000 to the 1936 Roosevelt campaign, testified today that "the Duke power gang" had knifed him in his 1940 campaign for the senate.

"People thought Frank Hague and the Duke gang were behind me, which was bad enough," he complained, "but actually both were trying to destroy me."

Jimmy again exhibited reluctance to talk about his wife's affairs with other men, but said primly that he told Doris gentlemen did not divorce their wives when she informed him he had "sufficient grounds" for a divorce.

"Did you mean gentlemen didn't divorce their wives for adultery?" asked Meyer Ruback, one of his attorneys.

"Yes," was Jimmy's sad reply.

Next step in the litigation is expected to be an effort by Jimmy to procure an early trial of his New Jersey suit for a limited divorce which would not permit either party to remarry and would preserve his "courtesy" rights in his wife's estate.

STRATEGIC RETREAT AT WARD'S.

In returning the control of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s Chicago properties to their owners Mr. Roosevelt has employed a dodge that he has used again and again. It might be called the high-water mark or cat-and-mouse trick. Perhaps he didn't invent it, but for all practical purposes he holds the copyright.

In this instance Mr. Roosevelt sent soldiers to seize the plant. They threw Mr. Avery out bodily. Mr. Roosevelt no doubt expected a good deal of adverse comment, tho it is unlikely that he foresaw either the extent or the intensity of the indignation that swept the country when the American people saw the picture of Mr. Avery getting the bum's rush. At any rate that was only a detail which necessitated no important alteration in his strategy.

Mr. Roosevelt's trick is to accustom the people to the loss of their rights and liberties by a series of invasions and strategic retreats. The Ward plant wasn't the first property he had seized. The people were getting used to his taking possession of factories and mines and, tho at first there was considerable alarm over these violations of constitutional rights, the fact that the properties were generally returned to the owners after a few weeks tended to quiet criticism.

The Montgomery Ward seizure went a little bit farther in that the plant was not engaged in producing war goods [or any other kind of goods] and because the head of the business saw fit to stand on his rights. Mr. Roosevelt was prepared for that. If, as happened, public opinion was strongly against the administration a strategic retreat could be ordered.

And that is what happened. Mr. Roosevelt, however, now has his precedent. He has seized a business not connected with the war and he has employed soldiers with naked bayonets to dispossess the management. The next time he wants to prove his devotion to the CIO in return for its financing of the fourth term campaign the use of the bayonet will be less startling. He has his high-water mark to point to. He can say with a disarming smile that nobody was drowned when the flood rose that high, so why get excited? He is looking ahead to the time when the people will be so used to his usurpations that they will no longer regard them as menacing.

This is his favorite method. He has used it many times for many purposes. The measures he employed to press the country toward war were exactly of this sort. A bellicose speech would be followed by a statement that he, above all men, was determined to keep the peace. Your sons will never be sent to fight in a foreign war. He violated the spirit of the neutrality act by shipping arms to a belligerent and, when the people were used to that, the day came when he could demand the repeal of the neutrality act. In time he could go on to the destroyer deal and lend-lease. Always he was ready to call a strategic retreat and always he was ready to advance a little nearer to war.

Eventually our destroyers were shooting at submarines and the Reuben James was torpedoed. Congress continued to withhold a declaration of war and in doing so had the support of the vast majority of the people. What steps Mr. Roosevelt might have taken to force the issue may never be known because the Japanese at Pearl Harbor solved his problem for him, but there can be no doubt that thruout the period he was working toward a predetermined goal and employing a predetermined strategy.

He uses the same technique in politics. He lets his Tugwells and his Wallaces accustom the people to a revolutionary vocabulary and then, a few months before election, pulls these spokesmen from the stage. At such times he talks of "breathing spells," proclaims a truce in his war on private business, invites industrial leaders to Washington to advise him, and announces his deathless devotion to the Constitution. Only after the election does he open his attack on the Supreme court.

That is the Roosevelt method. He has withdrawn from Ward's in time—or so he hopes—to avoid a judicial decision of the issue and thus he can renew the offensive somewhere else at some future time. The goal he has in mind can be found in his own words. He told the American people and American business men in particular that he was going to master them and that is still his goal. If he gets his fourth term he's going to call it the people's verdict on the seizure of private property.

TAXES AND PRICES.

The rise in prices during a war depends largely upon the extent to which taxes are collected to cover expenditures. In our Civil war, taxes covered only 25 per cent of the outgo and prices rose 150 per cent. In the other World war, revenues totaled 28 per cent of what was paid out of the treasury. Prices rose 118 per cent.

From the beginning of rearmament in 1940 down to the present time, revenues have amounted to 41 per cent of our government's expenditures, and in the first 9 months of the present year that percentage has risen to nearly 50. Thus we are now paying in taxes nearly a dollar for every 2 that is being spent. Prices have risen only 34 per cent since June, 1940, and less than 1 per cent in the last year.

Despite the vastly expanded rate of outgo over anything before experienced we are paying half the cost of the war as it is being incurred. In the 8 year period before rearmament got under way, sometimes called the period of Roosevelt's reflationary folly, income covered 59 per cent of outgo, and in the fiscal year which ended in the middle of 1936, more than 2 dollars was spent for every dollar taken in.

Great Britain's experience with war deficits and prices in the last war was similar to our own. Covering war costs preponderantly out of borrowings resulted in a price rise of 125 per cent during the period of hostilities. This time, the revenues cover a little more than half of the expenses and prices have risen 67 per cent and in the last year practically none at all. Having about stabilized the price level with their present rate of collections, the government at London has decided that the right war time balance between income and outgo has been reached. The chancellor of the exchequer announced recently that there would be no advance in the tax rate for the new fiscal year.

WAITING, WAITING, WAITING.

The area of continental Europe which Germany must defend is receiving the air attack which air power men had said would be irresistible. For nearly a month now the day and night bombing by flights of as many as two thousand planes has been persistent. The allied air force has sought to destroy factories, communications, harbors, fortifications, and centers of administration. Mr. Churchill said the experiment was worth trying. Exponents of victory by air action have seen their theories tested in the strength required.

The results will not be known until the invasion troops make the test. Photographs show destruction. That would be taken for granted. Cassino was demolished but the Germans held it. There is no indication that the German withdrawal in Russia was made necessary by lack of supplies or by difficulties in bringing up material. Conservative estimates rate the German armed forces as well equipped, with no lack of essential articles of war and with no frustrating incapacity of transport. The invasion troops are not encouraged to think that they will encounter an enemy demoralized by the preliminary bombardment.

War probably never had a more dramatic moment than the present. Even before Pearl Harbor American construction forces were at work in the north of Ireland preparing bases. Since then England has become a training ground for American expeditionary troops whose military schooling has been intended to teach them to meet every requirement of invasion by sea and air. Hundreds of thousands of these men are now pronounced ready. This time has been used by the Germans to create a system of defenses incorporating every device military science could conceive. The lines in Russia have been drawn in to gird the endangered home land of Germany with the protection of forces disposed to meet the final test.

Behind these defenses are the pre-condemned leaders of the Nazi party and of the government of the land. Their lives are at stake—a personal consideration which does not often confront the chiefs of a nation and all their agents. In the occupied countries people with hope long deferred are waiting for the moment when they learn that the deliverers have landed and the great battle is on. All these peoples have their injuries to animate them, their persecutors in their memory, and their lists of the proscribed. A tenser period was never known. The breaking of the tension may come any day with the decision that the time is here and the issue must be met.

The greatest battle of all war waits the signal of release.

THE CHAPLIN MYSTERY.

The government has indicated that it intends to drop its case against Charlie Chaplin for conspiring to deprive Joan Berry of her civil rights by driving her out of town. The justice department brought Chaplin to trial in March on a Mann act charge involving Miss Berry. He was acquitted.

The Mann act was intended to stamp out the white slave trade. Chaplin is no Galahad, but he's no white slaver and the jury refused to punish him as such.

It is a mystery why the government ever brought Chaplin to trial on a Mann act charge. The public has a right to know why the justice department indicted him. The Los Angeles newspapers, which are well acquainted with the strange personalities and odd motives that make life interesting in that part of the world, are in a fine position to dig out the truth and it can be hoped that they will have the initiative to do so.

AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

It was announced in San Salvador the other day that President Maximiliano Hernandez Martinez had resigned. Early last month there was a rising against his regime. In suppressing the revolution 53 citizens were killed and, after order was restored, about 25 more were disposed of by firing squads. A general strike ensued, presumably in protest against the government's action, and the resignation followed.

Not very much is known about the matter because of censorship and interrupted communications. We mention it only because the events suggest the extraordinary meaning that has been attached these days to the term "American republics." To hear the one worlders tell it, the peoples of the United States and of El Salvador have something more in common than an outlook on the Pacific ocean. We wonder what it can be.

We expect to see some derned expensive catalogs come out of Chicago now that the government has gone into the mail order business.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Well, Gen. MacArthur has decided that running in an American political campaign for the Presidential nomination is one kind of jungle fighting too tough even for him.—New Haven Register.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Which one of these is called an improper fraction?
   3/2 2/5 20/25 100/100.
2. When customers organize an anti-buying campaign against a merchant, this action is termed a Walkout Embargo Boycott Lockout.
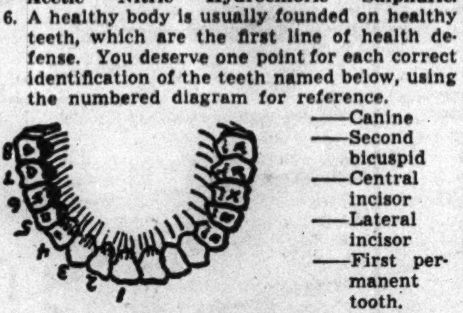
3. A southpaw usually brings to mind which one of these sports?
   Football Baseball Horseshoes Golf.
4. Which one of these groups would probably have the smallest number of people?
   Cult Clan Clique Club.
5. Which one of these is called an organic acid?
   Acetic Nitric Hydrochloric Sulphuric.
6. A healthy body is usually founded on healthy teeth, which are the first line of health defense. You deserve one point for each correct identification of the teeth named below, using the numbered diagram for reference.



Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

We're submitting a new word for the elusive murderer in mystery stories: Mystreant.

MAY'S MY MONTH, MAYBE.

Of all our months, I know today,
The best, the loveliest, is May.
For now a happy avalanche
Of beauty bursts upon the branch
Where riotous young blossoms wave
A million hands—pink, white, and brave.
Beguiling May, when blithely skip
The daffodils; and shy cowslip
Keeps gaze upon the greening ground,
A-tryst with spring's poetic hound;
When swarm those cocky little fellows,
The dandelions in their yellows,
And decks of dogwood hang their bloom
About the earth's vast drawing room.
And yet, why does my joy abate?
What causes me to hesitate?
Why, in this Eden, am I numb?
Perhaps the lawnmower's distant hum?

Dow Richardson.

The Dandelion Talks Back.

Warren Estey says [May 2] only an apartment house dweller like me could think of dandelions as "sunlight and moonbeams," and that the dandelion is a "villainous killer of hopes for a lawn that is a rare beauty spot."

Things really worth while are those which can not be downed, and the dandelion is one of them. If a lawn is such a delicate object that it must be cajoled with rollers, special fertilizers, rakes, mowers, and sprinklers in order to survive, then it is not worth it.

You are not even supposed to walk on lawns, the panty waists. What earthly good are they? Is one supposed to sit and look at them, and are they supposed to look at one? What could be more boring, but you have a nice yellow dandelion roaring at you and you've got something, if you can take it. It's no wonder lawns are green with envy of the hardy dandelions, which need no special cultivation.

Imagine a lawn without dandelions. They add that touch of color so essential to nature. What could be worse than a plain green lawn of creeping bent grass with its bare face hanging out all around the house.

When I was small we had lawns, too, but they were tough. They survived even dandelions. They could take it, and if they could not, instead of having dandelions in the lawn we had lawn in the dandelions. We did not fuss too much about it.

And think of the luscious dandelion greens and dandelion wine. They are highly rated for medicinal purposes and for libations of levity. You get many good things from the dandelion, while all you get from a lawn is work.

The right thing to have would be dandelion lawns instead of grass. They would be much more colorful and easier on one's back.

A real lumbago twister.

And if you talk tomato plants,
Quite proud of this spring chore—
It seems the bum has what you have,
And almost twenty more.

His spinach, carrots, chard, and peas
Are sooner, greener, higher—
Yes, he is with us once again,
The blink blank garden liar!

He tops you every single time;
You might as well quit trying—
And figure how to hold your own

Evan S. Tonian.

Marcia Winn recently reported that the Linemaster had been offered a position as a 98 cent a year man because of his remarkable feat of compressing four lines of blank poetry into five lines, "run in as prose." Now I always thought it would be nice to work for the government, so am hereby applying for a position at 49 cents per year, because my poem consists of only half as many, or two lines. Of course, I am using many more lines to explain, so maybe I should apply for a $25,000 job. This poem of mine was inspired by the check in a restaurant of French atmosphere, and without further ado here it is:

THE NEW BABY AND HIS CARE.

THE birth rate is on the jump. Nineteen forty three witnessed the advent of a large number of new babies. It is unfortunate, perhaps, that many a young mother cannot be near her childhood home. In the absence of friends and relatives she is on her own and there may be no one to answer the multitude of questions that arise.

Digestive disturbances among infants are responsible for much concern. In this connection, we must not forget the ill effects of too much excitement, and too little rest. The alimentary canal may respond quickly to overstimulation, exhibiting diarrhea or vomiting. Even the fact that the room is too hot, or that too many clothes are worn, may be causative.

It is perfectly natural for the tike to spit up part of his food, if too much has been taken. Another factor is a huge bubble of air which may accumulate in the rather small stomach. Mothers with experience realize that the little one should be encouraged to "burp" occasionally. Thereafter, nursing may be resumed with comfort.

On the other hand, if vomiting has become a habit, more rest and quiet and less handling must be insisted upon. It is wise to make certain that the formula is correct and that it is prepared under strict sanitary precautions. Any acute episode should be managed by stopping all edibles and giving only boiled water and orange juice in small amounts.

Diarrhea probably causes more alarm than any other symptom, and well it may. But many a healthy baby will have six or eight stools daily, perhaps not all of uniform color. The great bugaboo is the appearance of greenish material on the diaper. While demanding investigation, it may not be at all significant. But should one of these bouts be accompanied by fever, we have a right to assume that the intestinal tract is harboring an infection. This may be serious and demands skilled help. At such a time, milk is not permitted. On the other hand, scraped apple pulp may be administered to a 6 month old tot with excellent results.

Colic usually signifies an upset nervous system. It is far more likely to come on after the youngster has been displayed to friends and relatives, tossed about, poked, even manhandled. True enough, we must think of distention of the gastric pouch. Most important of all are the rest periods, when the child should not be disturbed under any circumstances. Placing the infant on his stomach, allowing him to get the habit of sleeping in that position, will assist in the expulsion of gas. For the immediate attack, emptying the rectum is the best procedure. This may be accomplished with a glycerin or soap suppository.

Constipation is a matter of habit and much damage has been done by the improper use of cathartics. It is essential that the diet contains sufficient sugar. Prune juice or prune pulp may be added. As the lad grows older, laziness or indifference may be to blame. Discipline and regularity constitute the cure.

There is real need for more understanding of child behavior in health and disease and every household must be constantly on the alert against the enemies of life. By and large, the simpler the plan of correction, the better.

A WONDER GADGET.

H. S. writes: My wife has just been to a doctor who has a machine that indicates what ails a person. He said she had aluminum poisoning and that she should go home and get a hammer and break all her aluminum utensils and throw them out. I would like to know if this could be true?

REPLY.

Altho a great many laboratory examinations are of value in arriving at a diagnosis, no machine can replace good training, experience, intelligence, and honesty. No danger whatsoever from aluminum cooking utensils. This myth has long been exploded.

WHISTLING MOTHER.

Mrs. M. A. writes: I am 67 years old and have reared three fine sons. I enjoy doing my own chores and am considered an intelligent person. This is my problem: I whistle, sing, and hum as I go about my housework. Some woman gave me an article from a magazine that said this is a sign of feeble mindedness. Could this be?

REPLY.

Perish the thought. We encounter spreaders of gloom everywhere. Far better to imitate a canary than an oyster. Indulge to your heart's content.

DEBRIS.

T. A. B. writes: What causes a cheesy substance to lodge in the crypts of the tonsils? My throat is not sore, but I have an offensive breath.

REPLY.

These are known as "Dittrich's plugs." They are whitish to brownish masses of cells, bacteria, fatty material, etc. The source may be the bronchi. Infection, plus poor drainage, is responsible for their formation.

NOT FOREVER.

A. B. writes: After the removal of bunions, must a person wear one type of shoe the rest of his life?

REPLY.

No, altho corrective footgear is advised for a time.

REFILLS.

The Very Young.

The 8 year old boy kept shaking his head in disgust during the movie showing of Deanna Durbin in "His Butler's Sister." On the way out he turned in the aisle, faced the screen, issued a long Bronx cheer, and applied his thumb to his face. When his mother reprimanded him, he explained that he didn't like that "romantical stuff." "What pictures do you like?" he was asked. He gave this proper consideration and said, "Water Canal Diary was my favorite."

The Earth Awakens.

[From Lavada Vilmure.]

Now is the time when we turn our cows into the back pasture to graze. It is the one beyond the hog pasture, and to get to it one must open and close two big gates. In the morning, as soon as the milking is done, Lady and Daisy wait patiently at the first gate.

I open the gate and as it swings wide, they walk thru and start down the small path, Lady always in the lead, disdaining the grass along this path where hogs graze, walking sedately and with solid intent toward the second gate. Here they stop and wait.

If I am a bit slow [perhaps I stopped to pick a four leafed clover] Daisy turns her big brown eyes reproachfully toward me. Again a big gate swings open, and they enter a paradise of grass, green and fresh and dewy, with lovely shade trees just bursting into leaf and a small stream angling across the far corner of the pasture.

As I close the gate, I am reluctant to leave. "Twitch, twitch, twitch" go the cows as they tear off huge bites of the tender grass. I pause to search along the little stream for wild violets. It gives a cool little gurgle as it hurries along in one spot or tarries behind a weed or stone in another, the sound of two small stones being rubbed together, the hoarse croak of little frogs near the water. As I near their sanctuary, they instantly become quiet.

I stumble upon a tiny strawberry patch, now in bloom but soon to be covered with sweet red morsels. I sit upon the green velvet carpet and look up thru the trees to the blue above. A flash of red, followed by a flash of brown, races thru the leaves. A robin and a thrush are building their nests.

And beside me the little stream rushes on, intent upon its mission, reaching out for the big river and then, on and on, for the oblivion of the great ocean. I think that each little spot along the stream could be likened to the days of our lives. We touch here and are gone, we touch there and are gone, never again to go back to the same spot or day. But each has had its effect upon us, tarnishing or purifying.

SAYS CAPITAL PUNISHMENT WAS MERITED.

Richland Center, Wis., May 5.—With regret I read in your paper last night that this sadistic child murdering moron, John W. Shaffer, got off with a jail term. This man was adjudged sane. He committed one of the most shocking crimes I have ever heard of, prolonged torture of a little child, and, with great deliberation, finally murdered her. This man no doubt is a menace to society and no doubt will be out of jail in a few years. If capital punishment was ever deserved, this human beast should have had it. I cannot follow the reasoning of Chief Justice Benjamin J. Epstein, who found mitigating circumstance in the fact that the child was unruly. A READER.

CONTRASTS IN ADMINISTRATIVE LAW.

Downers Grove, Ill., May 8.—During the World war the Wilson administration did some things that perhaps were not strictly legal, but were intended to help speed victory. The public accepted these things with little complaint. I have read that the Lincoln administration during the Civil war sometimes exceeded the law, with the same end in view. So, too, the Roosevelt administration, and likewise with little complaint from the general public.

The Montgomery Ward & Co. case seems different. The government told the company to recognize the union and the company refused. The union went on strike, disrupting the flow of trade, and if the government's contention is true, hindering the prosecution of the war. Nevertheless, the government seized the company, not the union. Later, the government filed affidavits claiming the company had war contracts, but apparently the contracts were with subsidiary corporations outside Chicago and were affected little if at all by the seizure of the main office and store.

Atty. Gen. Biddle says the President can seize a mercantile establishment because it is not expressly forbidden, yet the Constitution states that all powers not delegated to the United States nor prohibited to the states are reserved to the states or to the people. Why? If you can read and think you know the answer. JAMES B. VOGEL.

THEY ALWAYS SEIZE THE PLANT.

Galesburg, Ill., May 6.—In reply to Bernard Kroczka's question, can management do no wrong, it seems to me he has the buggy in front of the horse. The President has taken over several businesses, but I never heard of him taking over a union—not even when the dispute has been between unions. And why cry because the NLRB only gives one week to hold an election? Ward's gave the union five months. If the union had held this election, there would have been no trouble at Ward's. People who only use the slogan, "war effort," when it helps their cause make me sick.

A UNION MEMBER.

"ALMOST WORD FOR WORD."

Chicago, May 8.—I notice that the letters signed by Louis Vaccaro, Arthur Nelson, Walter Novak, Carl Geraci, and Stanley Novak regarding the Montgomery Ward controversy are almost word for word the same. It would be interesting to know by whom these form letters were put out.

A WARD BOOSTER.

ANSWER TO FIVE LETTERS.

Chicago, May 6.—Herewith is an answer to the Nelson, Vaccaro, Novak, Geraci and Novak of Chicago who wrote the same letter in Monday's Voice of the People. The fact remains that if the employes don't like to work for Montgomery Ward & Co., they have the opportunity, especially at this time, to work somewhere else. Montgomery Ward & Co. give employment to about 75,000 people who, no matter how they feel, are apparently unable to provide their own employment. That's why they are working for some one else.

It's very true that any one working for a living hates the man on top who has done more good with his life. Back in the days when things were not so good, the management of Ward's was tickled to death to have Mr. Avery step in and put the company on a paying basis. Any one of the above people had the opportunity of stepping in and doing the same as Mr. Avery, but apparently they would rather have a union regiment their lives for them.

If Mr. Roosevelt's cause had been just, he would have got an injunction, not at midnight, or later, but during the day, not by a judge that he put in office, and would not have excluded the press, and would not have called in the army until the American way of doing things had been tried. But back in 1936 he said over the radio that big business had met its master and not to believe any story other than that he planned it that way. The act of bringing in the soldiers was dictatorship pure and simple.

Families' Need for Clothing Is Told by Sally

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Mrs. C., a case worker in a west side district, sends the following request:

"My dear Miss Brown:

"We are writing to ask if you could print an appeal in your column for clothing for a family that is much in need of it.

"It is composed of six children, the mother, and the father, who is ill with tuberculosis. The family has always been self-maintaining until his illness. Recently there was a fire in the building in which they lived, and they lost almost all of their clothing, except shoes. Underwear is needed for all the children, dresses for the girls, and shirts and pants for the boys. The sizes are as follows: Two girls, size 16; boy, size 14; boy, size 10; girl, size 6 or 7, and girl, size 3."

Clothing is badly needed for the K. family on the south side. Mrs. K. is caring for her husband, who has undergone four operations and is being prepared for another soon. He must have special feedings every two hours. They have twins 11 years old, a boy and a girl. The K.'s are in their fifties. Mrs. K. tends the boiler and does janitor work in payment for rent and depends upon an agency for assistance. The sizes are as follows: Women's clothing, size 36; boy's clothing, size 11, and shoes, size 4; girls' clothing, size 11, and shoes, size 3.

A Pinch Hitter in Film, Yank Proves a Star

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10. — Sgt. John Sweet of the United States army became a movie star last night, according to the unanimous opinion of a British and American audience, which previewed the film, "A Canterbury Tale," in the Odeon theater at Leicester sq. Sgt. Sweet, 28, is a former school teacher from Granville, O., whose previous dramatic experience was purely amateur and who was given leave from his clerical job last September to take the role in the British film, which Capt. Burgess Meredith was unable to accept.

Despite the enthusiastic reaction to his performance, Sweet was genuinely modest about his work in the film. He was amazingly unconcerned over the possibility of Hollywood's interest in his post-war career.

Regarding the first he said: "I was able to achieve a certain naturalness, which is half the battle, but it shouldn't be confused with acting ability." About the second he said: "I'd rather be a good school teacher than a mediocre actor."

But his interpretation of the character of a quiet American sergeant did not suffer by comparison, spectators said, with the performance in the same film of such a competent actor as Eric Portman, one of England's best.

Sweet, tho unknown, was offered the role when Michael Powell, famed English director, saw him appearing in an army stage production. He hopes to get his master's degree in social science after the war and resume his teaching, which, actually, he had only begun. But, he admitted, he would combine teaching with acting if he could be assured of making worthwhile films.

He was kidded today by other GI's about his being a sudden celebrity, but not much, because "I don't have much trouble not acting like the film personality. I'm no charm boy. I don't care to be one of those pleasantly amiable young men Hollywood seems to like. I have an aim in life, but it isn't that."

Sweet, whose late father was a Baptist minister, was graduated from Ohio State university in 1940 after working his way thru. Married a year later, he has a daughter he has never seen. His mother runs a hotel in Granville. He is of medium height and build, definitely not glamorous, and has plenty of poise and intelligence both on and off the screen.

He was fed and housed by the studio while making the film, and also paid $2,000 for his services. It is against army regulations to accept such salaries, however, so he has donated the whole sum to the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People—an American organization in whose work he is interested.

At Golden Wedding Party

Judge and Mrs. George A. Carpenter at their 50th wedding anniversary party yesterday at the Casino.

To the gay tunes of a string orchestra and surrounded by dozens of bouquets of yellow flowers, friends of Judge and Mrs. George A. Carpenter thronged the Casino club late yesterday to congratulate them on their golden wedding anniversary. Judge and Mrs. Carpenter received in the cool green Fountain room, backed by flowering fruit tree branches, with their daughter, Mrs. Edward J. Bermingham, and Mr. Bermingham, and son, George B. Carpenter, and Mrs. Carpenter, as hosts on this occasion.

Three generations of Chicagoans were present, some of whom had signed the wedding book at the marriage of the son of the George B. Carpenters and the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Isham 50 years ago yesterday. All were asked to put their signatures in another book that the Carpenters will treasure, a little leather bound guest book that lay on a table in the foyer with a pen handy.

"Don't they look well" and "Isn't this a happy day," guests said over and over again to the hostesses as they took their departure. Mrs. Carpenter looked especially lovely in a long gown of black printed in pink orchids. Mrs. Bermingham was in a two piece frock that combined a jade green silk skirt with a green and gold matelasse jacket. Her daughter, Miss Harriet Bermingham, was in a smart short gold colored frock and wore a cunning little feathered skull cap with a wing sweeping down one side of her face. Many of the young friends of Miss Bermingham and her brother, George, were present as well as granddaughters and grandsons of Judge and Mrs. Carpenter's old friends.

Cornell Coming, But Where?

I wish the booking office would hurry up and unsnarl the housing problem that has Katharine Cornell lurking on the edge of our fair city with no theater to call her own. May 29 was the original Chicago date for "Lovers and Friends," but if so, where? This insistent inquiry is not merely to placate my own curiosity but to appease clamorous inquiry. For example, that of the four girls from Peru, Ind., who will be here a few days as a graduation present. They want to know where Miss Cornell will be and how they can order tickets, as they must leave for home May 30. "We all hope," they write, "that this request isn't too impossible, because we want to see Katharine Cornell once before we die." If the booking office can resist that plea, thwarted producers have not exaggerated the ossified state of its collective heart.

Excerpt from a letter written by an annoyed woman in Evanston about my review of "Tropical Revue": "I disagree with this article from my own personal opinions, not having seen the performance, but believe it would take quite a bit more than colored entertainers to cause 'undulating' on my part." We can't settle that argument until she goes to the Blackstone. If she can resist "Bahiana" and Gaucho Vanderhans' drums, she wins.

Up on the Alaskan highway the "Frosty Follies of 1944" is touring army and civilian installations with repercussions said to have "hit the north country with a wallop that would make an Aleutian williwaw look like a Caribbean zephyr." This is a variety show with about six men and four U. S. O. girls in the cast, a GI band and a pianist. The night of the opening the pianist was ill and it looked like no show. But Sgt. Anthony J. Feltych, a Chicagoan who lives at 2709 N. St. Louis av., rushed to the rescue. Sgt. Feltych used to be pianist for Fibber McGee and Molly.

Job Prospects Bright, Honor Students Learn

June's high school graduate need be no lady in the dark this year as to what to do, once her diploma is firmly in hand. Jobs are so plentiful she may use her first job as a test, either dropping it for another or making it the foundation for a career.

The current golden age of jobs for girls was the topic of a Youth week luncheon given for eight high school honor girls yesterday in the Merchandise Mart by the women's executive committee of the office of public instruction. Mrs. Anne V. Zinser was moderator of the jobfest, at which 18 business and professional women described opportunities in their career fields, emphasized man and woman power shortages within them, and urged a "look-in" by June graduates.

One warning note was sounded, that by Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen, physician, to the girl who prefers medicine.

"Wait till the war is over," Dr. Van Hoosen advised. "Wait until medical education problems are adjusted. At present the situation works an injustice upon women. Every male student is enlisted in the services, has all expenses paid to graduation. That is not a good, healthy way to study for you girls. The necessarily rushed program has professors worried about its effect on teaching."

Rather, she suggested, enter nurse's training or take a regular college course with "all the premedicine you can get."

Summer jobs await the graduates in loop stores, mail order houses, and social service agencies, the students were told. "Social agencies," said Miss Leah Taylor, head resident of Chicago Commons, "hope young people will come in for the summer to test their abilities at day and summer camps and playground work."

Accountants will be in demand, reported Mrs. Pearl Gilmour of the Chicago Association of Credit Men. "The tax situation requires accountants," she said. Small firms compelled to engage outside accountants find the men "billed up" with their older and larger customers. "Stenography is the backdoor entrance to many business careers," suggested Miss Mary Gildea, past president of the American Society of Women Accountants.

A knowledge of Spanish for export and import companies, law, credit work, nursing, teaching, jobs with air lines, securities, journalism, military services, and art were other fields described. The enthusiasm of a beginner for her new career need not be chilled by thoughts it will disappear when former employes return, all agreed. Great changes wrought by the war—rehabilitation, reconstruction, openings abroad—will solidify job steps taken now by young people.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Markowitz of N. Sawyer av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Selma, to Lawrence Meltzer of Chicago. The wedding is planned for the evening of June 18 in the Logan Square Masonic temple.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Chicago will begin its participation today in a special week of WAC recruiting in the nation's movie theaters. Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly both have indorsed the drive, which will open with a short address by Mr. Kelly at noon in Victory plaza at the La Salle st. side of the city hall.

Maj. Doris E. Epperson, 6th service command WAC director; Col. C. J. Otjen, commanding officer of district 3, and Lt. Nell Breeden, WAC recruiting officer for Illinois, will represent the WAC on the program. A military band from Camp Skokie will play, movie stars appearing in loop theaters will be present, and Jack Brickhouse, W-G-N announcer, will be master of ceremonies.

Twenty-five movie houses thruout the Chicago area will assist in recruiting during the campaign, which will continue thru May 17. Each manager will be credited with the number of recruits signed up in the lobby of his theater. Information and enlistment blanks will be available in all lobby booths.

Lt. Breeden described the week's campaign as a great advantage for WAC recruiting.

"The women's army corps must be doubled in strength," she said. "Requests for WACs have come in from commanders of army posts all over the world, and the WAC has been authorized to fill almost all of the requests.

"Women are required in all branches of the army—the service, ground, and air forces. They are needed to work at the army's embarkation points, checking out soldiers to the fighting fronts of the world. They are needed in both foreign and domestic installations of the air transport command. They are needed to serve here at home, in places such as the new Vaughan General hospital at Hines. They are needed in thousands of jobs, and they are needed now."

It is not necessary for a prospective WAC to pay admission to the theater in order to obtain enlistment information, Lt. Breeden stressed. Any doorman will admit her to the booth.

Theaters coöperating in the drive are the Palace, Monroe, Chicago, Tivoli, Regal, Michigan, Avalon, Stratford, Capitol, Century, Uptown, Granada, Norshore, Marbro, Harding, Sheridan, Ken, Tiffin, Piccadilly, and Atlantic. Additional booths are situated in the La Grange, in La Grange; the Lake, Oak Park; the Lido, Maywood; the Olympic, Cicero, and the Ritz, Berwyn.

Green Indorses Hospital Fight on U. S. Control

Gov. Green declared his opposition to "the New Deal tendency to socialize medicine and similar services" in a speech last night before the Tri-State Hospital assembly in the Palmer House.

"We will fight side by side with you to prevent any such meddling in the professions which are so vital," the governor asserted.

He urged support of the current campaign to recruit more Red Cross nurse's aides and a larger number of cadet nurses.

"Just as in the case of blood plasma, none of us knows how much or how many will be required to provide full protection and care if there should be a larger number of casualties in the next phase of the war or a great emergency at home," he said.

The objectives claimed for a government program of compulsory health insurance can be achieved voluntarily without the risk of increased burocratic controls and expenses, E. A. Van Steenwyck of Philadelphia told the assembly.

"The federal government should not undertake what the people can do for themselves," said Van Steenwyck, who is executive director of the Associated Hospital Service of Philadelphia and chairman of the American Hospital association's hospital service plan commission.

He urged the expansion, with federal encouragement, of voluntary and nonprofit programs such as have already given 15 million persons insurance against hospital bills under the Blue Cross plan.

"Member hospitals in the 77 approved plans have 85 per cent of all nongovernment beds enrolled," Van Steenwyck continued. "Plans are now operating in areas having more than 100 million persons. In areas with low cost plans, enrollment of 40 to 75 per cent of the population has resulted. Several states have enrolled more than 15 per cent, while three states have enrolled nearly a quarter of their population. What can be done in one place can be done in another."

The question of government domination of physicians and hospitals, as proposed by the national resources planning board and other New Deal agencies, was a major topic at the Tri-State assembly, which hasn't changed its name since Michigan joined the original membership of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin hospital associations. One speaker was Lt. Col. Basil C. Maclean of the surgeon general's office, who predicted that after the war "advocates of group practice of medicine will have a much greater following."

Van Steenwyck urged careful planning and defined the American Hospital association's position as the belief that "the gains which our nation might obtain thru a federal plan for distributing the costs of care may not be worth the loss of local control and the many tangible and intangible benefits that result from voluntary action."

"Fulfillment of a new and dynamic system of health services free from governmental domination, offering a high level of service, economical and efficient because based upon local effort, is within the grasp of America," he said. "I submit that it is more reasonable for the federal government to encourage local nonprofit plans than to do the job that needs to be done."

Enrollment of an additional 14,000 high school and college girls before July 1 is necessary if the United States cadet nurse corps, organized last July, is to maintain its training program, Lucile Petry, director of the corps, said.

Lecturer to Tell of Adventures of Louvre's Art Masterpieces

BY JUDITH CASS.

MEMBERS of the Art institute and of France Forever are looking forward to a lecture at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in Fullerton hall of the institute at which the speaker will be Charles Sterling, with "War Time Adventures of the Louvre Masterpieces" as his subject. Despite his Scotch name, Mr. Sterling is a Frenchman and formerly was associate curator of painting at the Louvre.

Mr. Sterling was in charge of the evacuation of the Louvre masterpieces to safe keeping as the Germans approached Paris. He made his way to this country after France was occupied and now is senior research fellow at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. His lecture is being given under the auspices of the institute Scammon fund and will be free.

Mr. Sterling's talk in Chicago, and two others in St. Louis and Minneapolis were arranged by France Forever, whose president is Mrs. Walter S. Brewster. The Brewsters and Mr. Sterling are old friends, but whether he will be able to accept their hospitality during his brief visit here is doubtful as the Brewsters moved yesterday to their Lake Forest home for the summer.

Mrs. Brewster expects to give up some of her activities this summer as she will have her daughter, Mrs. Duncan Hodges, and her little girl, and the Brewsters' daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward L. Brewster, and her baby, as guests. Lt. Brewster is in the Pacific with the navy, and Lt. Col. Hodges is in Washington, D. C., with the army.

Future Events.

Mrs. Brewster will come into town Saturday, May 20, to attend a luncheon that will mark the 50th anniversary of the Chicago Public School Art society. It will be held at 12:30 o'clock in the clubrooms of the Art institute, with Daniel Catton Rich, director of fine arts of the institute, as speaker. Mrs. Brewster, a niece of one of the society's founders, Mrs. Noble B. Judah, for many years has directed the society in its collection of funds to provide copies of masterpieces to hang in Chicago's public schools.

The dream of St. Luke's hospital for a new medical library will come true next Wednesday when friends of the hospital drop in between 4 and 6 p. m. for their first view of the modern suite, just completed, on the third floor. Planned as a tribute to Dr. Arthur R. Elliott, a member of St. Luke's staff, the new addition includes the Elliott reading room, a long stack room listing 18,000 volumes, a lounge, and conference rooms to be used by the internes and staff.

The reading room has been designed by the same trio which was responsible for the hospital's striking Schweppe Memorial home for nurses—Carl Erikson as architect and Mrs. I. Newton Perry and Miss Cornelia Conger as the furnishing committee. For the new room they chose walls paneled in black walnut in a severe modern style, deep crimson curtains, and crimson leather chairs. Here members of the woman's board will preside at the tea tables at next Wednesday's opening.

On Today's Calendar.

The Woman's society of the Winnetka Congregational church will hold its annual rummage sale from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. today at the Winnetka Community house. Under the general chairmanship of Mrs. James L. Palmer, the sale has been planned with an eye for customers' comforts, which range from the service of coffee and doughnuts thruout the day to a booth where shoppers may check bundles.

Mrs. Hamilton Daughaday and Mrs. Ernst von Ammon will man the collector's corner and white elephant booth, where pewter ware, a bottle collection, silver trays, and Spanish shawls will be among the treasures offered. Choice articles of clothing will go into the French room, where Mrs. J. Horton Fall III. will be in charge. Other departments will handle all types of clothing and accessories, toys, hardware, furniture, books, china and glassware, and lamps and pictures.

Mrs. Franklin Miller will open her apartment at 1500 Lake Shore dr. at 2:30 p. m. today for a meeting of the Literary Tea group. Mrs. Clarence Hough will discuss "What Became of Anna Bolton," by Louis Bromfield, and "These Are the Times," by Clara Jaynes.

Kindergarten and lower primary students at the Faulkner school have invited their mothers and younger brothers and sisters to a "Little Top Circus" today at the school.

Here and There.

The annual meeting of the Chicago Drama league yesterday at the Blackstone hotel turned out to be a gala occasion, with entertainment provided by Mr. and Mrs. Carveth Wells' unusual talking mynah bird, Raffles, whose apt remarks amused the audience. Mrs. Alvin W. Jenkisson took over the office of president. Other officers elected were Mrs. Francis P. Horan, Mrs. George B. Wendt, Mrs. James R. Bremner, Mrs. Carl W. Defebaugh, Mrs. Francis M. Gunn, Mrs. Herman T. Spitzer, and Mrs. Victor L. Schrager.

To welcome home their son, Coram T. Davis Jr., a corporal in the army, Col. and Mrs. Davis Sr. of Evanston entertained Sunday at the Georgian hotel. Corp. Davis just has returned from three and a half years of overseas duty, spent mostly in the Hawaiian Islands. Also at home with Col. and Mrs. Davis is their daughter, Mrs. Max Troxell, whose husband is a corporal in the marines.

8 Mothers, All with Triplets, Organize Club

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Life may be full of surprises, but after you have prepared for one new baby—bought one layette, one bassinette, and saved up one expense fee—and then come home from the hospital with three new babies, not much else can shock you.

That was the opinion yesterday of eight smiling, youthful women who met at a luncheon in the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. tearoom to organize a Mothers of Triplets club. They all measured up to the only membership requirement: They had triplets at home—the reason, several explained, that they were a little late, while the others nodded understandingly.

Mrs. Bern Owano, 864 Newport av., called the mothers together from a list given her by a condensed milk company which supplies milk free for triplets. Each guest was the mother of more than three children. Mrs. Owano had three sons and a daughter, ages 4 to 15, when her triplets were born five months ago. She lost the boy triplet, but has her two girls, Diana and Deanna.

Mrs. Arnold Krause, 1000 1st av., Des Plaines, herself a twin, doubled her family when Tom, Dick, and Harry arrived in July, 1941. Mrs. Arnt Quist, 10107 Calumet av., already had two children when Carol, Diane, and Elizabeth were born three years ago. Mrs. Ladd Kubovy, 1508 Cuyler av., Berwyn, has a daughter, 10, besides her triplets, June, Joan, and Jean, 7.

Only 26 and looking like a high school girl, Mrs. Joseph Bleers, 4840 Polk st., has a baby daughter, as well as 3 year old Frank, Gregory, and Paul. There were three daughters in the E. J. McKune family, 5430 Magnolia av., when Jo Anne, Jane Anne, and Emmet Jr. were born 19 months ago. Mrs. Christopher Agorichas, 4807 Wegg av., East Chicago, Ind., has a daughter, 3½, in addition to John, Jim, and Joan, 2.

The biggest family, however, was reported by the tiniest mother, Mrs. Mario Manzella, 2224 Clybourn av., who has five youngsters, ages 5 months to 12 years, besides 3 year old triplets, Jean, Joan, and Judith.

Having triplets is triple expense, but the mothers reported lots of welcome assistance from godparents. The Krause boys are lucky in having for godfathers the entire Kiwanis club of Des Plaines.

The Mothers of Triplets club membership is open, and mothers who qualify should get in touch with Mrs. Owano. Plans, which are subject to sudden change because mothers of triplets aren't always free, include a picnic, with all of the triplets present, in the summer and another luncheon about a year from now.

The get togethers will be story swapping sessions, such as Mrs. Krause's description of getting Harry and Dick out of the jelly and picking Tom off the dining table, where he was in the sugar bowl, all on her way to answer the phone so as not to disturb her husband, who was—trying to sleep.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Unmasked.

Consider the girl who is full of efficiency;
Competent lady, a secret'ry, isn't she?
She'll handle a customer, angry, who hollers;
A contract won't phase her for ten thousand dollars;
She masters the technique of travel and taxing;
"Withholding" she figures while merely relaxing;
She'll challenge a lawyer and win every point—
BUT—take her away from that typewriter joint—
A baby will start her to lisping and cooing;
A bridge score to add up will be her undoing;
Her finances, Sir, are completely a muddle.
Debate with you? Silly—she'd much rather cuddle!

BETTY CLARKE.

Dude Ranchers.

An unusual white collar girl came thru town recently. She is Nancy Newton of Cortland, N. Y. She and her sister, India, run a dude ranch in Arizona.

Nancy is a graduate of Cornell, where she majored in home economics. India went to Bryn Mawr, took post-graduate work at Columbia, tried teaching and secretarial work, then, still not having found her career niche, took over a dude ranch last summer.

These two girls are doing it the hard way—preparing the meals when the cook leaves, waiting on table, making beds, repairing the electric light plant, getting stuck on prices they paid for horses, yet showing plenty of pluck and spirit, and plenty of hard work in a 12 hour day. It's heartening to meet career girls who, when they found themselves in jobs they didn't like, had nerve enough to do something about it—and are willing to undertake any kind of task to make a success of their undertaking.

Sleek Clothes Call for Best in Accessories

BY REA SEEGER.

The new summer accessories are out, each piece a tempting and telling accent for sleek town clothes. Whether your smartest costume is of filmy sheer, colorful print, smooth patrician linen, crisp cotton, or precious silk crepe or shantung, there are correct accessories to make it distinctively yours and yours alone. For by your accessories is your understanding of proper dress judged. Hats, bags and gloves, belts, scarves, handkerchiefs, blouses, vestees, cuffs and collars—all of these are important.

Many summer straw hats and matching bags have arrived to dramatize cotton clothes, suits of cool seersucker, for example, or dresses of chambray, gingham, and other airy, washable materials. Most of the brimmed straw hats are wide, cut with a down curved front brim, a shallow—or sometimes high—crown, extremely simple, yet the most effective of sun protectors. You'll find grass green, sunburnt brown, navy, white, black, and many soft bland browns, beige, and natural tones.

Unquestionably the most feminine hats to come from the fingers of America's best known milliners are the soft filmy hats of sheer materials such as net in layers, ruched horse hair braid, chiffons, marquisette and fragile looking organdy. Everything feminine in the way of detail also is emphasized such as tucks, ruffling, decorative edgings of rickrack, lace, fagoting, and insertion. They are the last word in chic and airy summer grace, to be worn only with dress parade clothes.

Carveth Wellses to Attend Midland Authors' Meeting

Women's Role in Public Affairs Is Growing, Club Speakers Say

BY KATHRYN LORING.

WOMEN'S ever increasing importance in public affairs—their present significant role in politics, in community and war service activities, and in molding public opinion—was brought into sharp focus by guest speakers and committee chairmen addressing yesterday's session of the 49th convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Approximately 1,500 women, representing more than 1,000 member clubs thruout the state, are registered for the assembly, which opened Tuesday in the Hotel Sherman.

Robert L. Hunter, president of the Illinois civil service commission, speaking at the morning sessions, praised the organization for its intelligent approach to and assistance with problems now confronting civil service; Spencer J. Drayton, special agent with the federal bureau of investigation, described the aid given the bureau thru tips of private citizens, and of women in particular, resulting in arrests of saboteurs and draft evaders, and Mrs. William T. Bruckner, member of the Red Cross speakers' bureau and former president of the federation, told of women's remarkable record in the varied Red Cross services both in this country and abroad.

"We feel that you are one of the public organizations in the state making some effort to understand our problems," Mr. Hunter said, adding that it is up to the people to make recommendations and to voice opinions as to civil service personnel appointees and to insist upon a proper merit system whereby government jobs are obtained and held.

"There is a definite menace from fifth columnists and saboteurs," Mr. Drayton warned in discussing women's aid to the FBI. "Americans as a people are a garrulous lot. How we love to spill information if we find a listener!" He urged the women to continue giving tips concerning suspected draft evaders.

"Our first efforts should be in war service," was the message sent to the afternoon gathering by Mrs. LaFell Dickinson, newly elected president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

A reflection of this sentiment was revealed in reports given by Mrs. Wyllys W. Hagen, who told of instruction in citizenry her American citizenship committee is giving foreign born mothers; Mrs. Paul A. Swaim, who touched on the efforts of her education committee to prevent juvenile delinquency thru enforcement of child labor laws; Mrs. Joseph R. Chesser, motion picture chairman, who spoke of her committee's intensive study of strides being made in military instruction thru visual education, and Mrs. George W. Stray, law observance chairman, who also urged women to note and report violations of child labor laws.

At a war service forum in the afternoon Mrs. H. W. Hartough, chairman on youth activities, gave the spotlight to constructive plans youngsters themselves are making to prevent juvenile delinquency. She invited six boys and girls of the Julia Lathrop Junior City, of the Boys Brotherhood Republic, and of the Ida Wells Junior City to tell of their work in their respective communities. The junior "governments" are completely self-organized, and are supported and directed by adults.

Junior clubwomen took the convention spotlight last night with their annual dinner and processional, presided over by Miss Dorothy Dohrman. G. L. Bergen, personnel manager of Marshall Field & Co., addressing the junior night assembly, cited the increase in his company's employment of women from 11 per cent in 1877 to its present 75 per cent, as indicative of the trend in American business and industry.

Surveys conducted by the war man power commission, he said, show that 71 per cent of the women now in war work expect to continue at post-war jobs. He advised all women to prepare for careers in industry or the professions.

"Whether married or not," Mr. Bergen said, "women will work, either because it gives them a fuller life, or because business needs them, or because they must work."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 10.—"Under Cover" was banned as a picture by our Hollywood producers. You wouldn't believe for what reason. . . . John Carradine kept the cast and extras waiting three hours on the set of "Alaska," then was annoyed next day because they did his closeups last. He's lucky the guild didn't make him pay for the extras' extra pay. . . . Sarcasm never did anybody any good. A wife won't tolerate it from her husband, so why should Hedy Lamarr be asked to take it from her director? . . . Joe Pasternak seems to be following Washington in frenzied finance. Joe did "A Hundred Men and a Girl," also "Thousands Cheer," and his next will be "Music for Millions."

We Hear Facts and Foam.

Pope's "Essay on Criticism" runs thus: "A little learning is a dangerous thing. Drink deep or taste not the Pierian spring." I was reminded of this while listening to Helen Gahagan speak, in what was supposed to be a debate with Mrs. Eugene Prince of San Francisco. Helen, who's running for congress, had agreed to speak first with Mrs. Prince answering her. Helen was an hour late, and Mrs. Prince was already speaking when she arrived. The latter had facts and figures, and mighty clearly defined ones, too, about duties of congress. Helen proved herself a fine actress and had no facts, but she absorbed the communistic method of seeking to drown out the issue in a torrent of meaningless words—which is not only dangerous but frightening.

All Over But the Shouting.

Phil Baker's wedding didn't come off until 4:30. The bride insisted the hands of the clock have to be on the upswing if a wedding is to be successful. She confided to me she'd never heard of Phil until last Christmas. I asked if she'd never heard "Take It or Leave It." She said, "Huh-uh, but seems I did hear once about a Baker who played an accordion. That's as much as I knew about him." At the reception I discovered the Walter Slezaks were having a baby. I asked Mrs. Reggie Gardiner if she was expecting. She said, "No," but told me she'd bought part of her trousseau at the Anticipation shop. She's Russian, doesn't quite understand our language, liked a dress in their window, went in to buy it. As she was looking at it, the clerk said, "What are you going to name your baby?" Then she was told what "anticipation" meant. . . . Lucille Fletcher Hermann credits me with the idea of her dancing caterpillar named "Curly." Seems I wrote a piece about "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet," stating the germ on the colored slide looked like "Curly," a caterpillar, and the idea grew.

The Complexities of War.

Robert Riskin of the OWI's overseas film division told us what our movies are doing over there. The type of films they like include "The Human Comedy," Deanna Durbin pictures, "Sgt. York." They can't understand how a conscientious objector could be taken into the army and come out a hero. "The Dictator" was requested because it had a burlesque of Mussolini, and after 20 years of taking their public officials seriously, they wanted to be able to laugh at them. The most popular radio program heard in Italy burlesques Mussolini. Our pictures are made in 22 languages. Pictures follow invasion. In North Africa many cities had never seen a movie, so before showing one OWI explained what it was. Their mobile units can show a picture to 1,200 people at once. OWI picked up a popular Nazi film with clips of our news reels showing the worst elements of America—gangsters shooting it out, riots, strikes, White House being picketed. It's title—"This Is America." That film was confiscated immediately—but it was well done.

The Old Story.

Blanche Ring, who had a former generation singing "I've Got Rings on My Fingers, Bells on My Toes," sat out a year's contract at Metro. I'm told she'll be a hit in "Having Wonderful Crime" with Pat O'Brien. Metro has under contract a fine comedian named Fred Brady, but it has so many people I'm wondering if it's forgotten him. Given the opportunity, Fred, in my opinion, could go ahead of Red Skelton. . . . Joe Sullivan, of the beautiful tenor voice, who sang on "Showcase," does the lead in "La Boheme" in Pasadena this week. . . . Myrna Loy jitterbugs in "Thin Man Comes Home" with Arthur Walsh. He was doing his stuff at the Cocoanut Grove the other night and sold over $13,000 worth of war bonds. . . . Andy Devine, playing a priest in "Bowery to Broadway," is being called "Father Devine," so in turn he's made Frank McHugh and Director Charles Lamont archangels. . . . The Orsattis have a good film bet in 28 year old Anthony Drake, executive in a local aircraft plant. Drake bears a close resemblance to Rudolph Valentino, and Edward Small is interested. . . . Ole Olsen, making "See My Lawyer," took time out to name new kind of perfume which he presents each lady visitor. "It's called "It Is Me." . . .

Film Portrays Women's Fate at Nazi Hands

"WOMEN IN BONDAGE."

A Monogram picture, directed by Steve Sekely, featuring Gail Patrick, Nancy Kelly, Gertrude Michael, Bill Henry, and Alan Baxter, and presented at the Garrick.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This is a drama of the Nazi regime. The "Women in Bondage" are Germany's women—slaves to a cruel system. Their lives are all hell and hell—and that is the story.

Spotlighted are the lovely young wife of an officer in service, strongly and sensitively portrayed by beautiful Gail Patrick, and a maid in the household of her husband's people, played with feeling and understanding by Nancy Kelly. . . . Gertrude Michael, as a district commander of women, represents a female of the species inoculated with the Nazi poison. Alan Baxter and Bill Henry do good work as Hitler disciples.

The picture is atmospheric and alertly directed.

See you tomorrow.

Thru the Looking Glass

We know of no one gift that would be all things to all mothers, but we do know that in the wide and beguiling range of beauty offerings you'll find at least one gift that will be THE gift for your mother.

Vanity and fastidiousness have nothing to do with years. Grandmothers we've known have blushed with pleasure over a bottle of cologne, a dram of perfume, or some satin sachet cases which breathe a beautiful fragrance. Young mothers will like a lipstick wardrobe—four little sticks, let's say, in four different shades—or frivolous and luxurious bath fripperies. Middle aged mothers have their special weaknesses too, such as creams, or hair preparations or fine, bland soaps.

A Mother's day gift requires some thought, some knowledge of the recipient's tastes. The best kind of a choice for Mother's day, we've always thought, is the selection of something fairly frivolous and definitely flattering, preferably of some pretty or prettifying gift for which mother herself wouldn't dream of spending the household money.

One matron told us last week that her idea of a perfect gift would be hand preparations. The way her hands are aging depresses her, but it's a secret sorrow. What she'd really like would be hand creams, for daily use and for nightly massage, plus some polishes in pale shades. She's the kind of mother who denies herself manicures of the professional sort, but she has a vanity about her hands that her children don't suspect.

Perfume is flattery, so are colognes and bath oils. They suggest, when they're selected as gifts, that mother isn't too antique, too careworn for tribute to her personal charm. Any beauty gift, as a matter of fact, is a good one.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Rector
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

QUEEN FOR A DAY

Whether she resembles Whistler's Mother or is a gay young thing in victory garden overalls, the American mother has surely shown that she has what it takes. Let's honor her Sunday for the job she is doing for the war effort—in factory, store, office, school room or home. Let's give her a party dinner!

Pork Supreme In Corn Bread Ring

1½ lb. cubed pork shoulder
2 tbsp. fat
½ cup onion, sliced
2½ cups celery, sliced
3 cups water
¾ tsp. salt
3 tsp. Wilson's B-V
½ cup flour
½ cup cold water

Brown pork in hot fat, adding onion last few minutes. Add celery, water and salt, cover and simmer 40 min. Dissolve B-V in small amount of the hot liquid and add. About 5 min. before serving, put flour and the ½ cup water in a pint jar, cover tightly and shake hard until very smooth. Stir into meat mixture gradually and let cook until thickened. Serve in center of corn bread baked in a ring mold. Serves 6.

Clip Recipe Here

KEEP MOTHER OUT

On "her" day of the year, why not keep Mother out of the kitchen and surprise her with a humdinger of a Sunday dinner? Dad and the children can easily prepare today's good main dish by simply following the directions, step by step (Dad willing). Hint to Mom: Pin this column up somewhere so the family can't miss it!

The Pork Supreme in Corn Bread Ring is an economical, low-point dish but it looks good enough to give the table a party air. As for how it tastes—you'll be showing Mom that you know a thing or two about cooking! (If she hasn't been using Wilson's B-V for good, rich, extra meat flavor, she'll thank you for showing her how.)

SIMPLE YET DELICIOUS

You can keep the dinner simple and yet have it delicious. Complete the menu by serving baked potatoes, canned or fresh peas, and carrot sticks, celery and radishes. For dessert, ice cream.

Allow the potatoes plenty of time to bake...at least an hour in a 425° F. oven, longer if they're very large. To serve, cut a criss-cross gash in the top of each potato, put in a clean towel and pinch carefully between palms of hands to spread the opening. Place a square of Wilson's Certified Margarine in each potato and sprinkle with paprika. Luscious!

Use Mom's favorite corn bread recipe. If you don't have a ring mold, bake it in a shallow pan and cut in squares. It will taste just as good. The corn bread can be made early all except adding the liquid to the dry ingredients. Do that just before putting in the oven.

Everybody helps but Mom

Dad and the older children can make the main dish, shell the peas and wash the vegetables for the relish tray while a smaller tot sets the table.

So that there won't be a mountain of cooking utensils to confront Mother after she's enjoyed your toothsome party meal, clean up in the kitchen as you go along. Better yet if Dad and the children clear everything up in the kitchen after dinner, too!

Yours for helping Mom every day,
George Rector

Real Fresh Strawberry Treat

Summertime's best dessert!

FRESH STRAWBERRY SPONGE
(Serves 6; uses ¼ pkg.)

1 env. Knox Gelatine
¼ cup cold water
½ cup hot water
1 cup sugar
½ cup cream or evap. milk (whipped)
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup strawberry juice and pulp
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 egg whites

Crush berries, add sugar; allow to stand ½ hour. Soften gelatine in cold water. Add salt and hot water; stir until dissolved. Add berry mixture, lemon juice. Cool. When it begins to thicken, fold in whipped cream or whipped evaporated milk, and stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into sherbet glasses. Chill. Garnish with berries, and wartime whipped cream if desired.

IMPORTANT! Be sure to use Knox Gelatine. It is pure, plain gelatine . . . contains no artificial flavoring. Use Knox with all your favorite fresh fruits and berries . . . not only for finer flavor, but also for the precious vitamins not in the ready prepared artificial mixtures.

FREE. . . write to Mrs. Charles B. Knox, Box US5, Johnstown, New York, for a copy of her new 40-page recipe book, just off the press.

Easy Does It — Clean-up Hints

1 Did you know that dangerous germs may breed in your bathroom? Yes, toilet seat, basin, tub, tiling, floor may harbor germs. Odors and stubborn stains are troublesome, too.

2 So make the bathroom hygienically clean this way: Put Lysol disinfectant in your cleaning pail. (2½ tablespoons of Lysol to 1 gallon of water.) Wash up with mop or brush or cloth wrung out in this powerful germ-killing Lysol solution.

3 Many hospitals disinfect with Lysol as a health measure. No trouble—makes cleaning more effective. Lysol is soapy in nature, helps remove stains. Deodorizes, too.

Lysol costs little because it's so concentrated—you dilute it for use. Get Lysol today, at any drug counter.

My department has heard more than one wail from women who have electric ranges and suddenly realize that they can't use a pressure canner or hot water bath canner on the burners. That's the one disadvantage of an electric range—you can use it for canning, yes, but only at the expense of the range surface, which will crack and discolor. In cooking electrically it is important that the pans used fit the burners. They shouldn't extend beyond the heating surface or the good looks of the range will be impaired permanently.

"What shall we do?" chorus the women who don't want to spoil the looks of their handsome ranges, yet want to do some canning. I suggest that these women look into the possibilities of community canning centers to see if it may be possible to take fruits and vegetables somewhere in the vicinity for canning. Possibly a neighbor or relative with another kind of range will permit her kitchen to be taken over for certain days during the canning season. Other than that, it would be better not to try to can, but to grow only enough war garden crops to eat, dehydrate, freeze, or brine, depending upon what facilities are available.

If you plan to can, save metal coffee and mayonnaise jar caps, for there will be canning lids to fit them and the coffee and salad dressing jars themselves. As all of these jars aren't made of highly tempered glass, it will be better if they are not used in the pressure cooker, where they might break under extremely high temperatures. These jars and lids are perfect for pickles and relishes, and usable for fruits canned in the hot water bath, too.

My department's new, revised war time booklet on canning is almost ready, and will be announced within a week or two. It's a smart woman who has all of her canning equipment and reference books ready before canning season really gets under way. There are many new tricks and precautions to be understood in canning with war time equipment which isn't quite as good or efficient as pre-war materials.

It is not economical to can vegetables which the family doesn't care much about. Greens lose a great deal in the processing, both in color and in texture. Canning them may or may not be advisable. Vegetables, like broccoli, brussels sprouts, and cauliflower, grow strong in flavor when they're canned. I can't think of many circumstances in which I'd advise home canning of such vegetables, which are much better in the fresh-cooked state.

'Danger List'

By Christianna Brand

(Copyright: 1944: By Mary Christianna Lewis.)

SYNOPSIS—Joseph Higgins, the postman, delivers seven letters accepting service in Heron's Park Military hospital. Dr. Gervase Eden, homely but charming, hopes to escape from a fashionable practice. Jane Woods, middle aged successful dress designer, gives up her career to become a nurse's aid. Esther Sanson, against the wishes of a neurotic mother, offers her services. Dr. Moon, whose only son was accidentally killed in childhood, hopes to escape loneliness. Dr. Barnes, exonerated for the loss of a life under the anesthetic, welcomes a change of scene. Frederica Linley, whose wealthy father remarries, prefers nursing to home. Nurse Marion Bates, man-crazy, is in search of romance. The postman does not know that within a year one of the writers of these letters will die, a self-confessed murderer. Dr. Eden tires of his flirtation with Sister Bates, who tries desperately to impress him. With Dr. Barnes, it's love at first sight when he sees Frederica. During an air raid, Esther stays on to give a hand to Frederica. An elderly man with a fractured femur is brought in. Six months ago Esther's mother was an air raid victim. It was then Frederica and Woods had become her friends. Dr. Eden visits the ward to arrange for an operation. Esther looks after his patient. Another victim of the air raid is brought in. During a lull, Dr. Barnes comes to the booth to see Frederica and is followed by Dr. Eden, who impulsively kisses her, and is sorry. Sister Bates, finding him in the booth, creates a jealous scene, threatening to expose him. To protect Freddi, Woods lures Gervase into a flirtation. Esther shows an interest in the younger air raid victim. Higgins is prepared for an operation and Esther is assigned to take him to the operating theater. Higgins wonders where he has heard Woods' voice before. One operation is completed successfully, and preparations are made for the next—Higgins'.

INSTALMENT X.

THE UNEXPECTED.

Esther went out to the anesthetic room and wheeled Higgins into the theater; they lifted him on to the table and slid away the metal poles of the stretcher, leaving the canvas under him, ready for lifting him off again. He stared about him with frightened and clouded eyes.

Barney came over to him and took his hand, speaking to him gently and soothingly. "You're going to be quite O. K., old man, I'll just put a mask over your nose and you'll breathe in and out quietly and you'll soon be fast asleep and when you wake up you'll be in your bed and it will all be over . . ."

Higgins turned his head on the pillow. "Nurse! Nurse!"

"Yes," said Esther. "I'm here. I'm with you."

"I'm going to be all right, nurse, aren't I?"

"Yes, you'll be fine, Higgins, honestly. It's only a little operation, hardly anything at all."

"What are they going to do to me?" he said, piteously.

Barney had a fad about using the induction room; he preferred to start the anesthetic with the patient already on the table; but he acknowledged the extra fear and distress involved and he now said, kindly and gently: "It's really only a very small thing, Higgins; hardly an operation at all. You've broken your femur, that's the thigh bone; and we're going to put a little thin, steel pin thru, above the knee, to pull the bone into place."

"There isn't any danger, nurse? I'm going to wake up all right?"

"O, Higgins, of course you are. There's nothing to be frightened of."

"Promise me, nurse?" he insisted. "Promise me?"

"Yes, Higgins, of course; there's no danger—I promise you."

He relaxed on the pillow, comforted. "Thank you, my dear." Barney put the rubber mask down, gently over his mouth and nose.

The water bubbled gaily in the little glass jar at the top of the trolley bracket, thru which the gas and oxygen pass. "Breathe quite normally, old boy. Don't worry. Relax and breathe gently. No hurry . . ." Barney's voice was quiet and soothing, but the mask was pressing down more heavily on Higgins face. "Just quite quiet, old man; nothing to worry about . . ." Woods stood beside the table, ready to hang on to kicking legs or flailing arms. Maj. Moon and Eden came back again from the washrooms, pulling on fresh rubber gloves.

Something was going wrong. Higgins' face was turning from blue to a dark plum color, showing on the cheekbones and at the edges of the mask. He breathed noisily and under the blankets his limbs jerked convulsively. The line of bubbles in the jar altered as Barnes cut down the gas and increased the oxygen; he looked rather troubled.

Two minutes later, the man was still a bad color, and the red rubber bag in its black net heaved in and out with the heavy, stertorous breathing. Only the oxygen showed bubbling now, in the jar. Maj. Moon said anxiously: "He's an awful color."

"I can't make it out," said Barney, his eyes flickering over the apparatus for signs of anything wrong. "He's having nothing but oxygen now."

"There doesn't seem to be any obstruction," said Eden, watching the heaving bag.

"I'll just slip an airway in, to make sure." After another half minute, the breathing changed. The respirations became light and shallow and irregular. The jerkings gave way to little twitchings. Barney said, staring down at him: "He's collapsed!"

Maj. Moon flung back the blankets and started artificial respiration, pressing down upon the ribs and relaxing them with a slow rhythmic movement, that yet was pregnant with urgency. Barnes said briefly to Woods: "Give some coramine; intramuscularly."

Even the shallow respirations had now ceased. Maj. Moon worked on, slowly pressing and relaxing. Barnes stood by helplessly. He said, after a minute: "Shall I try more oxygen?"

Eden shrugged his shoulders. "I should shove in some more coramine, intravenously," said Moon, not pausing in his work. He added gravely: "As a last resort."

Barnes found a vein and thrust the needle in. "It's no use, I'm afraid . . ."

Moon took no notice. It was horrible to see him working so rhythmically, working with that air of panic-stricken calm, on a body now beyond help. After five whole minutes more of it, he straightened himself and stood erect; his hand on his aching back. "It's no use. . . . We can't do any more . . ."

Esther stood frozen with horror at the foot of the table. "There isn't any danger, nurse? I'm going to be all right?" and she had promised him: "Of course you are, Higgins; there's nothing to be frightened of." Joseph Higgins was dead.

They stood round in stricken silence, gazing helplessly at the quiet form. Eden's thin, gray face looked more gray than ever, Barney was white and miserable, Sister Bates' blue eyes were round with horror over the green mask; there was a small black speck on the bosom of Woody's gown, and she picked at it with nervous fingers. Two big tears gathered in Esther's eyes and rolled down her cheeks.

Maj. Moon pulled himself together. "Eden, perhaps you and Barnes would get him on to the trolley for the girls, would you? Will you be all right, nurse, after that?"

"I'll take him," said Woods, glancing at Esther's face. She added perfunctorily: "If that's all right with you, sister?"

Bates pulled the mask up over her face and head; she looked very pretty with her ruffled fair hair. "Yes, very well. Sanson can stay and clear up in here."

"We'll close the theater for today," said Moon, abruptly. "If there's anything else urgent we can take it to emergency. I—I hope there won't be." He looked very old and shaken.

It is no worse to make a bad bid that results in a large penalty than to lose the chance for a good bid simply thru lack of enterprise. Consider this deal:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	4 spades	Pass
5 diamonds	Double	5 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the diamond king, and declarer easily took 12 tricks, without a finesse. The slam bonus, however, had been lost forever.

North and South had not been using any slam convention, hence South's five diamond bid was merely an exploratory effort—a slam try that could be accepted or declined by North, and which might have the virtue of forestalling the opening lead that South liked least of all. When West promptly doubled five diamonds, however, and North just as promptly went to five spades, there was nothing more that South could do with any degree of safety.

The real point of the bidding was that North should not have gone to five spades—he should have jumped at the chance to redouble five diamonds! This is a semi-conventional and entirely logical means of announcing a control, first or second round, in the redoubled suit, which conveys very important information indeed to the partner if his reason for making the bid was to locate that control. If North had redoubled, South undoubtedly would have bid six spades.

Should Girl, 13, Go to Movies with a Boy?

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Every once in a while I receive a letter from a mother, or sometimes even from a young person saying, "Your article in today's paper sounded as if it was written just for me. It describes me and my family as perfectly as if you knew us."

The letter I am quoting today may sound to you or your young son or daughter as if you had written it, but I want to assure you that it is really a sort of composite letter and breaks no confidence. Several understanding and really intelligent and loving mothers write in this vein:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: There is a group of boys and girls in our neighborhood, ranging from 13 to 15, who all play together in various sports and activities and who join in little parties or evenings of dancing at my various neighbors' houses. Several of the boys walk home from school with my daughter, taking turns every afternoon, but one of them is particularly devoted and has asked permission to take her to a movie some afternoon, getting home before six o'clock. What do you think? This boy and my daughter are really very fond of each other and I must add that all the young people are wholesome and well managed and well brought up.

"My daughter and I are very close and I have talked to her very frankly, and she is really informed with regard to the so-called sex problems and is very trustworthy. She certainly has taken the knowledge that I have given to her gradually very sensibly and very understandingly. Yet I feel she is young for this enthusiasm and for even afternoon dates."

In my opinion the whole setup here, to use a rather worn out expression, is ideal for a wholesome, jolly, happy life for a group of boys and girls. I would be inclined, if I were one of these mothers, to do everything possible to further their sort of fun and activity. I would even make no objection to this intense new friendship that has sprung up—tho the boy and girl are so young.

It's always best, I think, not to set up restrictions unnecessarily, or to see seriousness which one imagines is going to be permanent, especially as the group life continues. After all, this sort of thing comes to some boys and girls earlier than others; and if we try too hard to discourage it sometimes we drive it underground, and end by giving it more importance rather than less. With a fine boy and a girl who have sensible, natural acceptance of all the more important things, the answer seems to be to continue to give her the amount of freedom and trust which she now has.

BRITISH APPROVE AMERICA'S CIVIL AIR '4 FREEDOMS'

'Reluctantly' Adopts Our Post-War Proposals.

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—Britain "reluctantly" had abandoned a Canada backed plan for central international control of post-war civil aviation and has turned toward the American sponsored idea of a 'four freedoms of the air," Lord Privy Seal Beaverbrook announced in the house of lords today.

Beaverbrook, chosen by Prime Minister Churchill to form a post-war aviation program for the British empire, said Britain at first favored the Canadian plan, with allocated quotas, but had turned to the American plan following United States opposition to the Canadian proposal.

The American plan to curtail competition by fixing standards and rates, Beaverbrook said, was based more along the right to fly, to land, to set down passengers, mail and cargo, and to pick them up anywhere.

Canadian Plan "Too Rigid."

Beaverbrook said the British delegation went into the conference here recently with Adolf Berle Jr., United States assistant secretary of state, favoring the Canadian plan for an international regulating authority of frequencies of air service and national quotas for international quotas for internationl air traffic."

"This program," he continued, "was considered by the Americans as too rigid as a basis for talks at the proposed international conference [later this year, probably at Washington, D. C.] and we had to abandon it."

Beaverbrook said Berle and Dr. Edward Warner, vice chairman of the civil aeronautics board, preferred a standard fixing authority on a "nonexecutive basis, with no power or means of enforcing its regulations, at least during the interim period."

Enforcement to Be Discussed.

"The broad purpose," Beaverbrook explained, "will be to draw up an international convention on air navigation to be supplemented by an international transport organization which would evolve standards, seek to eliminate economic competition, work out for each nation a network of participation in world transport, and maintain a broad equalibrium between air transport capacity and transport offerings.

"On these general principles, the United States and Great Britain are in agreement. The powers of enforcement will be open to further discussion."

U. S. to Provide Planes.

To cheers, Beaverbrook said the United States was prepared to make long range aircraft available to Britain for civil aviation during the post-war adjustment of British plane production.

He said he was able to give such assurance on the authority of Berle. But Britain, he emphasized, is not content to rest alone on the United States' supply and everything possible will be done to provide Britain with her own passenger and commercial planes.

"We must admit," he said, "that the United States has a long lead over us in air transport, but we have excellent designs for new types."

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10.—The White Sox this afternoon celebrated the opening of Jim Dykes' 11th fiscal year as Sox manager, and their own first 1944 invasion of the east, by appearing virtually helpless. As a result of the Sox ineptitude and a show of skill by the Athletics, there was a Philadelphia victory over Chicago, 9 to 0.

Thus ended the Sox's four game winning streak and the team's short visit in the American league's first division. The lads sagged back to fifth place.

Grove Proves No Puzzle.

Orval Grove, who sometimes is rated the Sox pitching ace, had little on the ball today. He disappeared after six innings of struggling in which the A's made five runs and 11 hits. Don Hanski pitched the seventh and eighth innings, and yielded four runs and five hits.

Luke Hamlin, the 39 year old hot potato familiar to the National league, held the Sox to five hits, no two of which were socked in the same inning. Three double plays enabled the A's to nip the Sox when it appeared they might score a run.

The trouncing was a shock to veteran Sox, who lost only four out of 22 to the Athletics last season. Facing a cast which included many players whom the Sox never had seen before, the Chicagos hardly figured to put on such a pathetic show. Hamlin, who spent last year in Toronto, previously hadn't been able to beat an American league team.

Turner's Error Costly.

The most ruthless torturer of the hopeful Sox was Dick Siebert, so badly spavined he probably shouldn't have played. Dick knocked two singles, a double and a triple, the triple off Hanski with two on base in the eighth. Dick walked once.

Siebert drove home the first run, the winner in the fourth. Frank Hayes doubled and got home on Siebert's double. Irv Hall singled, scoring Siebert.

Three singles and a walk gave the A's only one run in the fifth but they made two in the sixth. That inning, Grove's last, there was a single by George Kell, a pass to Rullo, a sacrifice by Hamlin, a hit batsman and Tom Turner's two base throwing error with the bases loaded.

Hanski held the A's to a wasted single in the seventh but in the eighth he pitched three singles and a triple, walked one and balked once, for a net of four runs.

The teams will resume tomorrow with Ed Lopat going against Jess Flores, once a Cub. The series will conclude with a night game Friday, in which Buck Ross will oppose Don Black.

CATHERINE, DUKE 'WAKE' WINNERS

Six Others Gain Mention in Contest.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Meet the Wake of the News contributors' contest champions! They're Catherine T. Farrell and Guy Walker, known to readers of THE TRIBUNE's sports column as the Duke of Paducah. The Duke won in the quip competition and Catherine in the poem division.

These winners, and six runners-up, were announced yesterday, with war stamp awards going to those taking first, second, and third places. First place in each section was worth $20, second $15, and third $10. A total of 498 competed in the contest. The results:

QUIPS—Guy Walker, winner; Art Kreitzer, second; Arnold Glasow, third; Evelyn Fahse [Eve], honorable mention.

POEMS — Catherine T. Farrell, winner; Eleanor Lee White, second; Catherine French Fedigan, third; Adah Stuart, Lansing, Ill., honorable mention.

Walker's victorious quip, which was along the lines of the Wake's famous Dumbell Pomes, follows:

The shades of night were falling fast
When thru the stratosphere there passed
An aeroplane—completely gassed.
You guessed it—Eleanor!

We either walk or use the El,
Our ration card is A—but hell,
She rubs a nose and all is well.
Brother, such is war!

And here is Catherine Farrell's winning poem, titled "Prayer for a Warrior":

Because I cannot do for him the things
I long to do,
I place him in Your loving care, I give him Lord to You.
O! God, if he in battle falls, or wounded lies today,
O! make the hands which tend him be as kind as mine, I pray.
Or if he feels the deep despair and utter hopelessness
Of wondering what he's fighting for,
one soldier more or less,
Come to his aid, Almighty One, and make him realize
No victory is easily won when freedom is the prize.
Strengthen his will with thoughts of how he wants this world to be,
Remind him he is guardian now of all the brave and free—
The laughing child, the mother old, the maiden young and fair,
And O, God, bring him safely home;
this is my earnest prayer.

A nationally famous poet judged the poems and a famous humorist presided over the quips. Each asked that his name not be revealed.

PIRATES RALLY IN 8TH; DEFEAT BRAVES, 4 TO 2

23,011 Fans Attend Night Game.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10 (AP).—Jim Russell's two base hit in the last of the eighth scored Johnny Barrett and Frank Zak to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4 to 2 victory over the Boston Braves tonight before 23,011.

The Braves, trailing, 1 to 0, until the eighth, took a one run lead on a walk, a pinch double by Clarence Etchison, and a long fly by Max Macon. Nich Strincevich, who yielded to a pinch hitter in the eighth, yielded only five hits, one of them Etchison's. The Braves' Al Javery fanned 12 Pirates in the seven innings he worked. Score:

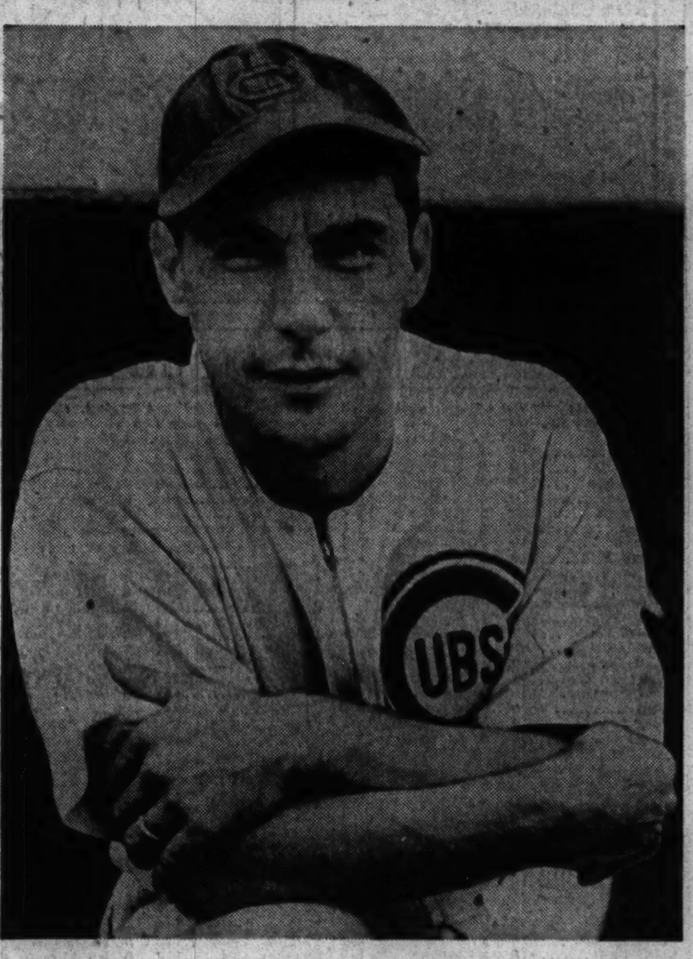
CUBS' FIELD CAPTAIN



Phil Cavarretta, Cub veteran, yesterday was named field captain by Manager Charley Grimm. Oldest Cub in point of service, but still one of the youngest on the team, Cavarretta is the only current Cub who played during the previous managerial regime of Grimm. Cavarretta succeeds Stan Hack, former third baseman, who failed to report to the Cubs this year. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Senators Get 4 in 6th; Beat Browns, 5 to 1

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—The Washington Senators blasted out 10 hits to beat the league leading St. Louis Browns, 5 to 1, tonight behind Johnny Niggeling's five hit hurling.

MARTIN WINS 4 AT SPORTSMAN'S

12,312 Bet $648,992; Handle Nears 6 Million.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

While Sportsman's Park patrons continued to add to the record smashing mutuel play, pouring in excess of ½ million dollars thru the machines for the ninth time in the first 10 days of the Cicero plant's spring meeting, an apprentice jockey stole the show yesterday afternoon by riding the winner in both of the featured events and winding up with four victories in the eight race program.

Jack Wesley Martin, the Michigan lad who was running neck and neck with Marcos Pena, the present leader, until a broken toe put him on the shelf last Friday, scored first in the second race aboard Bezique and then started going to town.

Meeting's Third Largest Crowd.

In the fifth race, the Chicago Heights, for a purse of $1,500, Martin played a winning tune on J. A. Kroch's Juke Box. He came right back in the next offering, the $1,500 Chicago Heights, scoring on the Happy Hour farm's Martian. Both were well liked in the betting, Juke Box rewarding his backers with $6.20, and Martian paying $7.80. Martin put over his fourth winner, Black Time, in the last race.

A crowd of 12,321, the third largest of the meeting, laid down $648,992 on its judgment of the thorobreds and raised the total for the 10 days to $5,905,420.

Jockey Pena still holds a comfortable lead over Eddie Franklin, in second place, and the third place Martin in the jockeys' war bond race. Pena has 114 points, Franklin 90, and Martin 78.

Double Returns $102.

The daily double was worth $102 when Franklin scored with Mrs. E. Oros' To A Tee in the first race and Martin piloted Mrs. A. C. Klein's Bezique to its first victory of the year in the second event. To A Tee refunded $12 and Bezique $13.80. Willie Lowe, who had the leg up on Greenock's Coin in the second race, was suspended for the remainder of the meeting for crowding.

Anonymous, owned by H. A. Deep and ridden by Bob Haber, romped in with the third race and rewarded his backers with $20.20 for a $2 win ticket. Then Charlie Beasy put over A. Trout's Sobriquet in the fourth. Sobriquet was the favorite and beat Wildebeest by two lengths.

Today's card is headed by two $1,400 events, the Rock Island, fifth on the program, and the sixth race, a seven furlong event for 4 year olds and up.

NORTHWESTERN WINS, 8-0, OVER FORT SHERIDAN

Northwestern university's baseball team scored an 8 to 0 victory over Fort Sheridan in Evanston yesterday. Johnny Hopp, Wildcat hurler, yielded only three hits. Jim Homco, with two doubles and a single, led Northwestern's attack. Score:

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, who dropped nine staight decisions to cost Jim Wilson his job and who dropped one for Pro Tem Boss Roy Johnson, now have chalked up three successive setbacks for Charles Grimm, the new field marshal. The chain of grief went to 13 trimmings in a row yesterday, the latest addition being the work of the indigent Phillies who are sometimes referred to as Blue Jays. The Phillies did the job, 7 to 1, before 3,256 cash patrons who at times groaned as if they weren't exactly happy.

For a while on this occasion the forlorn Cubs had more than the possible extension of their losing streak to worry about. Unexpected complications appeared in the shape of Al Gerheauser, the lefty, who set off at such a speedy pace that the Chicagoans remained in a hitless state thru the first four innings. Thereafter they improved but their pecking at his offerings was so gentle that Herr Grimm, in desperation, may draw today's lineup out of a hat.

Cubs Use Four Pitchers.

Bill Fleming started but, unfortunately, the services of various other fellows were necessary to complete the customary nine innings. Fleming was bruised for two runs in the third and was promptly withdrawn for a pinch batter. Paul Erickson was introduced and the Phillies were so pleased to meet him that they slapped him around for four runs in the fifth, a happening that caused him to be removed soon thereafter. The rest of the pitching was shared by Dale Alderson and Johnny Burrows, the latter experiencing a flurry that netted the Phillies a run in the ninth.

Three hits, which the Phils delivered with none out in the third, were enough to fasten the trimming on Fleming. Ford Mullen started it with a single to right. Elvin Adams beat out a bunt to Eddie Stanky, who, instead of making a useless throw to first, aimed the ball to second. The idea was all right and should have produced results because Mullen overran the bag, but Merullo wasn't anticipating the throw, so the ball sailed into center and the runners grabbed an extra base each. Jim Wasdell singled to score one of them and the other glided home on a wild pitch.

Gerheauser's Single Scores Two.

Erickson's contributions to the Phillies' happiness began with a pass to Adams at the start of the

LINCOLN FIELDS TO USE STABLES AT OWN TRACK

Hawthorne Cannot Hold All Entries.

Because so many stables are eager to participate in the Lincoln Fields race meeting at Hawthorne from Tuesday, May 16, to Saturday, June 17, it will be necessary to take care of some of the horses at the Lincoln Fields track at Crete, Ill. The Hawthorne and nearby Sportsman's Park stable areas can accommodate 1,000 thorobreds and the Lincoln Fields officials will open their own plant for the overflow.

Tom Young, Lincoln Fields track superintendent, said yesterday that by the time the meeting gets under way next Tuesday the equine colony at Crete will number more than 250.

Young, who arrived Monday from Churchill Downs, is making a survey of the horse quarters at Hawthorne and Sportsman's Park and during the next few days will assist trainers in shifting their stables for the Lincoln Fields meeting.

Several hundred thorobreds now in Louisville are to leave for the local scene during the next few days. John Marsch's horses, numbering 20, will be among the early arrivals at the Hawthorne track. In Marsch's contingent are four handicap and stake race eligibles, Occupation, Occupy, Jezrahel, and Valdina Foe, as well as 12 well bred 2 year olds.

SCHURZ SENIORS, JUNIORS WIN IN 3 SCHOOL MEET

Schurz High won both the junior and senior divisions of a triangular track meet with Senn and Lake View yesterday in Winnemac park. In the junior division Schurz had 47 points, Senn 44, and Lake View 4, while in the senior competition Schurz compiled 95 points to 22 for Senn and 13 for Lake View.

GIBSON MATCHED WITH GENE WARD FOR BOUT MAY 22

Pvt. Terry Gibson, Fort Sheridan welterweight, has been matched to meet Gene Ward of the west side in an eight round bout in Marigold Gardens May 22, Jack Begun, copromoter with Irving Schoenwald of shows in Marigold and the Chicago Stadium, said last night.

Tommy James, former city Golden Gloves welterweight champion, injured his shoulder in a workout yesterday and will be unable to meet Robert Simmons of Indianapolis in a scheduled 12 round headliner in the Marigold arena Monday. A new opponent for Simmons is being sought.

Jack Kearns, Coliseum matchmaker, yesterday announced plans to have Comdr. Jack Dempsey referee a preliminary bout on his card headed by Willie Pep and Frankie Rubino in the Wabash av. arena May 19.

Ray Lonergan and Jackie Boyd, bantamweight rivals from the Madison Athletic club, will meet in a five round featured bout in an amateur boxing show in the Madison A. C. tomorrow. It will be their third meeting, Boyd winning the first and Lonergan the second.

PREP CHAMPIONS GET TROPHIES FROM MAYOR

Chicago's prep champions in football and basketball were all represented yesterday as Mayor Kelly made the presentation of the various awards in the council chamber. Pictured at the ceremonies were (left to right) Jim Nolan and Marty Wendell, co-captains of St. George's city-wide championship football team; Jim Williamson, representing Earl Banks, captain of Wendell Phillips' City league football titlists, who has been inducted into the army; Mayor Kelly; George Benigni, captain of Mount Carmel's football team which tied with St. George for the championship of the Catholic league; Jules Pandera, captain of Weber's junior basketball team; Ed Rose, captain of the Mount Carmel senior basketball team; Paul Schnackenberg, captain of the South Shore basketball team which finished third in the state tournament; Irv Hartman and Ora Shane, co-captains of Marshall's basketball team. AMUNDSEN TOPS ROOSEVELT, 13-0, IN NO-HIT GAME

Bob Kuhlman of Amundsen added his name to the list of prep no hit hurlers when he blanked Roosevelt yesterday for a 13 to 0 victory in a north section City league game in California park. It was the sixth triumph of the season for Kuhlman, and the 10th straight section triumph for Amundsen.

In the south section Fenger took undisputed possession of first place with six victories and one loss by trimming Hirsch, 20 to 6, in Grand Crossing park. Calumet suffered its second loss in seven games when Hyde Park scored a run in the eighth inning to win, 6 to 5, in Jackson park. The winning run was made when Kendell Wherry went to second on an error, and was driven in with a single by Dick Dellefield.

A single in the seventh inning by Second Baseman Frank Krest of Waller spoiled a no hit game for Harry Rotblatt of Von Steuben as his team triumphed, 2 to 0, in River park. Rotblatt struck out 16 men, yielded no walks. Only 22 men faced him in seven innings.

In the Surburban league, Morton chalked up a 5 to 3 victory over Proviso for its seventh victory in eight games. Bloom won its fourth straight game in the South Suburban league by routing Argo, 19 to 2, on the latter's home grounds. The losers made 11 errors.

University High Beats Parker in Track Meet

University High school won both divisions of a dual track meet from Francis Parker on the winner's track yesterday. The juniors triumphed by a 56 to 39 score, and the seniors scored an 81⅔ to 31⅓ victory.

Vagaries of Weather Are No Deterrent for Golf School

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The twelfth annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE, which will be resumed tomorrow night on the four courses of the Chicago park district, is ideally adapted to meeting such problems as that presented by the weather which struck last Monday's opening class. The simplicity of the curriculum, as arranged by the members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, makes the fundamentals of golf easily assimilable by fairway and tee beginners.

Thus when class is called at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow evening the faculty members will be able to incorporate tips on the grip and stance, intended for the first two lessons, along with the instructions on the address and the introduction to next week's two lessons on the swing. In this way prospective pupils who were unable to attend Monday's inaugural session will be able to catch up on the lesson they missed.

Fundamentals Form Keystone.

The kindergarten program of any American school does not include calculus or Greek. It is confined to the A B Cs, and, for that reason, THE TRIBUNE school, since its beginning in 1933, has the teaching of the rudiments of the game as its keystone. Because of this elementary system it will be quite simple for the Illinois P. G. A. teachers to include instruction on the grip and stance in tomorrow's classes at the four courses.

Matriculation in the school is the simplest feature of the whole plan. Merely bring a golf club to that park district course most convenient to your work or home, and be on hand, if possible, 15 minutes before the 7:15 o'clock bell. The locations of the four courses are: Jackson—just east of 63d street and Stony Island av.; Columbus—Jackson blvd. and Central av.; Marquette—Kedzie av. and Marquette rd., and Diversey—in Lincoln park at Lake Michigan and the foot of Diversey blvd. All are easily reached by rapid transit, surface lines, and motor coaches.

Hold Third Lesson Monday.

The third lesson will be held on the same four courses at the same hour next Monday night, and the fourth and last of the regular series on Friday night, May 19. A special party for service men stationed or visiting in Chicago will be given by THE TRIBUNE and the Illinois P. G. A. on Saturday night, May 20, at the United Service Organizations center, 131 S. Wabash av.

Name Cavarretta as Field Captain of North Siders

Phil Cavarretta, only member of the present Cubs team who played during Manager Charley Grimm's former tenure, yesterday was named field captain of the north siders. The post was held last year by Stan Hack, who failed to report this season.

Ed Hanyzewski, the Hoosier speed baller, will make his fifth start and also his fifth bid for his maiden 1944 victory today in the second game of the Phillies-Cubs series in Wrigley field. Kewpie Barrett is expected to oppose Hanyzewski.

Wheaton Nine Defeats De Kalb for 5th in Row

Wheaton college scored its third victory of the season over De Kalb, 16 to 10, on the loser's diamond yesterday. It was Wheaton's fifth consecutive victory in six games. Score:

De Kalb ....200 404 000—10 11 7
Batteries—Younge, Ward and Austin, Anderson; Hadel, Bogan, and Van Nest.

ILLINOIS TECH IS 6 TO 3 LOSER TO CONCORDIA NINE

Concordia of River Forest dealt Illinois Tech its first defeat of the season, 11 to 6, in Ogden field yesterday while scoring its second victory.

Concordia ....004 200 131—11 13 3
Illinois Tech......110 220 000— 6 10 9
Batteries: Stohs and Bauer; Steward and Bicicchi.

PHILS DEAL 13TH STRAIGHT LOSS TO CUBS, 7 TO 1

fifth. Wasdell singled for the third time and Northey scratched a hit to Johnson to score Adams. Wasdell went to third when Johnson threw wild to Cavarretta. After Wasdell had been cut down on Lupien's tap to Cavarretta, an intentional pass was awarded Bob Finley, the gift filling the bases. Strikes took care of Al Cieslak, but Ray Hamrick beat out a hit to Stanky to score Northey, and the two others registered on an honest single by Gerheauser.

Bill Nicholson, the so-called cleanup batter, was responsible for getting the Cubs out of the shutout class, but they were six runs in arrears at the time. The noted Lou Novikoff batted for Alderson to open the eighth and fanned. After Stanky had been retired Cavarretta singled and Ed Sauer walked. This was where Nicholson cleaned up by singling Cavarretta home.

Then the Phillies responded with doubles by Adams and Finley in the ninth against Burrows to harvest their seventh run.

W-G-N ENGAGES TOP MUSICIANS FOR SYMPHONY

Players from Chicago Orchestra in Group.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Already recognized as one of the nation's outstanding radio orchestras, the W-G-N Symphony has engaged nine additional symphony musicians of the highest professional standing with the ultimate objective of making it the finest. Eight of the new men come to W-G-N from the Chicago Symphony orchestra and are permanent additions to the W-G-N orchestra. The ninth, Philip Farkas, first horn player for the Cleveland Symphony orchestra, has been added for the summer season.

In announcing the addition of the new personnel—one of the most significant actions in Chicago's recent music history—Henry Weber, director of music for W-G-N, disclosed that seven of the men already have joined the orchestra's ranks. Two will take up their new duties later this month.

Four Violinists in Group.

The nine new musicians are:

Samuel Jordan, bassoonist, a member of the Chicago Symphony since 1935. Jordan started his professional career with the Chicago Civic orchestra in 1924; joined the Kansas City Philharmonic in 1933.

J. S. Sciacchitano, cellist, with the Chicago Symphony since 1943. From 1937 to 1943 he served with the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra and prior to that played with the Chicago Civic orchestra. He studied with Emanuel Feuermann.

Carl Racine, violinist, member of the Chicago Symphony from 1935 to the present. He was concertmaster of the Chicago Civic orchestra from 1932 to 1934.

Edwin Schultz, violinist, member of the Kansas City Philharmonic since 1938. Prior to 1938 Schultz was music director and conductor of theater orchestras in Chicago and Kansas City.

Harold Sher, violinist, member of the Chicago Symphony since 1930. Sher started with the Chicago Civic orchestra in 1925. From 1928 to 1930 he was a member of the St. Louis Symphony.

Ernest Liegl, flutist, member of the Chicago Symphony since 1928. From 1919 to 1927 he was with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. At one time he was a member of John Philip Sousa's band. Liegl will join W-G-N on May 29.

Robert Dolesji, a member of the NBC orchestra before joining W-G-N. An outstanding authority on the viola, he has edited several books on this instrument. He will assume his new duties next Monday.

George Palermo, violinist, member of the Chicago Symphony since 1943. He played with the Chicago Civic orchestra from 1934 to 1937, and with the Indianapolis Symphony from 1937 to 1939. Palermo doubles on the woodwinds.

Mr. Farkas will return to the Cleveland Symphony next fall.

Heard on Mutual.

The W-G-N orchestra is heard regularly under the baton of Mr. Weber on the Chicago Theater of the Air Symphony hour, the Chicago Theater of the Air opera and operetta series, and the Human Adventure, all heard transcontinently on the Mutual Broadcasting system. Concertmaster of the orchestra is Robert Quick, formerly assistant concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, who joined the W-G-N staff last summer.

BOSTON BOUT POSTPONED.

Boston, Mass., May 10 [AP].—The Henry Armstrong and Ralph Zanelli 10 round boxing match scheduled for the Boston garden Friday night has been postponed until Tuesday night, May 16.

OIL MAD THRONG AWAITS STRIKE IN BIG NEW WELL

$5,000 Acre Refused for Mississippi Lease.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Heidelberg, Miss., May 10.—As thousands of oil-mad persons wait hourly for Gulf Refining company's Roger Lacey well to "come in" almost in the center of this village of 700 persons, more reports are current of high prices being paid and offered in the rush to tie up leases in the new southeastern Mississippi oil field.

The new field has been termed by some the "biggest discovery in 15 years" and has been compared with the East Texas field which produced almost 2 billion barrels in 16 years. Veteran oil men, however, are reluctant to confirm predictions of "fabulous fortunes" from the field, pointing to the striking of three "dry holes" within a mile of the heaviest producing well in the area.

One offer of at least $5,000 an acre was made and refused for royalty rights on a 40 acre tract near the heavily producing P. W. Morrison well at the edge of Heidelberg, D. U. Maddox, president of the Commercial National Bank Trust company of Laurel, Miss., said. Laurel is 18 miles south of here.

Bank Deposits Jump.

"Deposits in my bank are a good indication of the money being spent in developments on the Heidelberg and nearby Eucutta fields," said Maddox. "They jumped from $6,400,000 in July, 1943, to $8,660,000 in May of this year."

Maddox said at least three million dollars already has been spent on oil developments in the three county area.

"Royalty rights have brought $1,500 an acre within a mile and a half of the P. C. Morrison," Maddox asserted, "and I know of 2,200 acres seven miles from the well which were leased for $72,000."

In addition to the original price paid, land owners retain one-eighth royalty rights on their property, giving them one of every eight barrels of oil brought to the surface.

Chicago Negro Gets $17,500.

It is said that Mack Lindsey, 50, Negro rail worker, 5138 S. Wabash av., Chicago, has received a royalty check for $17,500 plus lease money on 87 acres near Heidelberg. Miss Judy McDonald, a niece, said Lindsey comes here once a year but goes back to Chicago "because he likes it better there."

The Roger Lacey well, which is expected to be a heavy producer, is on a 40 acre unit owned by the Baptist church, the Methodist church, and 16 individuals. All oil units are 40 acres each, under the law, with one well on each unit.

This property was leased for about $175 an acre, plus an added one-eighth royalty, said W. H. Clayton, a local oil man. The extra royalty, he said, is in addition to the regular one-eighth granted to all lessors.

Clayton said he had leased all but 200 acres of 1,030 acres he owned near the wells.

"I got $1.25 an acre for the first 650 acres four years ago when Gulf Refining company first explored here," explained Clayton.

J. V. Howell, Fort Worth, Tex., producer, said preparations are being made to ship 18,000 barrels daily from this section. Others predicted a pipe line would be built to the Gulf of Mexico, whence the oil would be shipped by tankers to Atlantic coast refineries.

H. M. Morse, state oil and gas supervisor at Jackson, said production for the Heidelberg and Eucutta fields had increased from 11,467 barrels for all of March to a daily output of 2,075 barrels by May 10.

OPEN SLAYING TRIAL OF FORMER EVANSTON COP

William H. Perdew, 33, former Evanston policeman, went on trial yesterday before Judge Daniel P. Trude and a jury of 11 women and one man in Criminal court on a charge of manslaughter.

He is accused of fatally shooting Nick Ublasi, 43, a bartender, after a brawl last Jan. 26 in front of a tavern at 1047 Wilson av. Assistant State's Atty. Julius Sherwin, in his opening statement, said the state would show that Perdew was drunk, and that the fatal shot was fired without "rhyme nor reason."

Perdew's attorney, Frank McDonnell, countered with the assertion that the defense would prove Perdew shot Ublasi in self-defense.

Deputies Seize Half Clad Hospital Patient on Road

Calls from residents in the vicinity of Skokie highway and Grand av. in Lake county that a man clad only in underwear was running about the neighborhood started two sheriff's squads and a state highway police squad on a two hour chase last night. Deputy Sheriffs Clayton Tiffany and Frank Valenta captured the man on Blanchard rd. near Green Bay rd., northwest of Waukegan. He was identified as William Yank, 28, a patient in the veterans' hospital near North Chicago. He was returned to the hospital.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline [non-acid] powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" [denture breath]. Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

INDICT HUSBAND FOR MURDER IN TRUNK SLAYING

An indictment charging murder was returned by the grand jury yesterday against Soylo Villegas, 26 year old Mexican war worker under arrest in Crystal City, Tex., who confessed beating his bride to death during a drunken brawl and shipping her body in a trunk to Los Angeles on April 29.

The grand jury heard Lt. Phil Breitzke, head of the homicide bureau, and witnesses who unwittingly assisted Villegas in transporting the trunk containing the corpse to a railroad station for shipment to the west coast. One of the witnesses, Frank Macias, 16, of 412 S. Sagamon st., said Villegas had called for him and took him to his hotel to assist him in removing the trunk which he understood contained radio parts. He knew nothing of the slaying, he said.

The bill was immediately presented before Judge Harold G. Ward by Assistant State's Attorney Edward J. Spiro and proceedings were begun to have Villegas returned for trial.

Dr. Samuel A. Levinson, coroner's pathologist, will leave today for Los Angeles to take charge of the investigation of the nature of the woman's death, Coroner Brodie said. He is expected to return with the body next Wednesday.

$330.50 CANNOT REPLACE 'COKE,' GIRL, 15, WAILS

There was certainly nothing wrong with the price—$16.50 a hundred pounds for a 2,030 pound Hereford steer. But the sale of Coke at the stock yards yesterday brought tears to Edith Bohnsack, 15, of Sunbury, Ia., who has had complete care of the oddly marked steer since her father, F. O. Bohnsack, a cattle feeder, bought him in a herd of 80 nearly two years ago. Her check for $330.50 was no consolation.

Edith, pretty enough to be a model, looked anything but happy despite the gay red jockey cap perched atop her blonde curls as she hugged the enormous 4 year old steer in farewell.

"Coke was wild when we got him," Bohnsack said, "but Edith tamed him. When she went out to talk to him he tossed his head to indicate where he wanted to be scratched next. He came when she called, no matter what he was doing, and he wouldn't let any one feed him but Edith."

ASPHYXIATED WHILE ASLEEP.

Earl J. McCue, 37, of 206 Mill st., Elgin, an employe of the Western United Gas and Electric company there for 15 years, died of asphyxiation yesterday when he went to sleep with a gas heater burning in his room, police said.

WANTS ALIMONY NOT CAFE, WIFE INFORMS COURT

Mrs. Evelyn Shook.

Mrs. Evelyn Shook, 31, of 932 E. 79th st., told Judge Robert J. Dunne in Circuit court yesterday that she would rather have alimony than the restaurant which her estranged husband, Thomas, purchased for her a year ago. She said the business is a "headache" because of the help shortage and other problems, and she cannot operate it profitably. Her attorney, Norman Becker, said Shook earns more than $8,000 a year as a personnel manager. Shook's attorney, Mayer Goldberg, said that figure was an exaggeration. Judge Dunne said he will rule on the alimony petition May 18. Mr. and Mrs. Shook were married in October, 1931, and separated in January, 1944. She has filed a suit for separate maintenance.

W. H. THOMPSON LEFT 2 MILLION, COURT ADVISED

William Hale Thompson, former mayor, left an estate worth 2 million dollars, consisting principally of cash which he secretly hoarded in safety deposit boxes, James W. Breen, attorney for the estate, estimated yesterday when he filed an inventory report.

Breen submitted the report to Thaddeus V. Adesko, assistant to Probate Judge Joseph F. O'Connell, who approved a $100,000 widow's award to Thompson's widow, Mary. The award was asked by Breen as the amount she would need for her support while the estate is being probated.

Cash and securities were left by Thompson in five deposit boxes. Breen reported that $1,427,300 cash, constituting the bulk of the estate, was found in boxes at the American National Safe Deposit company, and an additional $22,000 was found in a box at the National Boulevard Bank of Chicago.

Thompson also had $8,780.47 deposited in checking accounts.

CIRCUS CROWD SEES WALLENDA FALL; HE'S SAVED

New York, May 10 (AP).—A member of the famous high wire Wallenda troupe of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus lost his balance during a performance at Madison Square Garden today and for several minutes dangled 45 feet above thousands of startled spectators. Another performer on the ground swung a suspended rope over to the aerialist, Herman Wallenda, and he descended hand over hand. After a brief rest he climbed to his high perch and continued the act.

The mishap occurred as Wallenda was attempting a double somersault backwards for the first time publicly. He had completed one turn when he suddenly sprawled on the wire and dropped his balance pole. He grasped the wire with one hand as he started to fall.

Dr. Robert P. Harris said the performer received a bruised left elbow and burst a blood vessel as a result of the strain.

SCHWERTFEGER, VASSER SLAYING POLICEMAN, DIES

Policeman Charles Schwertfeger, 46, who figured in the fatal shooting of Elmo Vasser a year ago, died yesterday in his home, 10316 Peoria st. Physicians attributed his death to a head injury suffered in a motorcycle accident 12 years ago while he was on traffic duty.

Vasser, 16, a Negro, was shot last May 13 when he threw stones at Schwertfeger and his partner, Patrick Rynne. Rynne fired the fatal shot. Both policemen were cleared.

Policeman Schwertfeger's star number was 1313. He was assigned to the 13th district, and was in his 13th year there. He leaves his widow, Annie; a daughter, Marcella, and two sons, Sgt. Thomas and Pvt. Charles Jr., both soldiers in Italy. Services will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Margaret's church.

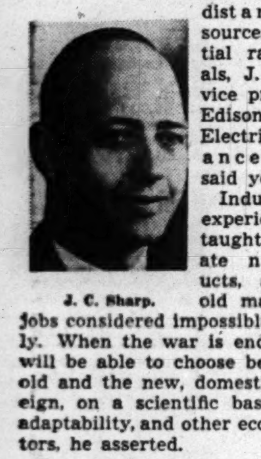
WIDER CHOICE OF MATERIALS TO AID OUTPUT

War Research Held Industry Boon.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

American industry never will revert to its pre-war dependence on distant foreign sources of essential raw materials, J. C. Sharp, vice president of Edison General Electric Appliance company, said yesterday.



J. C. Sharp.

Industry's war experience has taught it to create new products, and make old materials do jobs considered impossible previously. When the war is ended it thus will be able to choose between the old and the new, domestic and foreign, on a scientific basis of cost, adaptability, and other economic factors, he asserted.

Sharp minimized the public acceptance of the ultra-modern in product and design of the "post-war dreamers," and drew a sharp distinction between post-war planning and "post-war thinking."

Newness Alone No Criterion.

"The alert product designer will make a serious mistake if he uses plastics and other new materials just because they are new," Sharp said in an interview. "The new must be weighed against the old, and the most suitable material used.

"Aluminum, for example, is produced in 50 times its pre-war volume, and it has a broad post-war field, but the steel manufacturers have not been asleep to this new competition. Industry and the buying public will benefit from the improvement in materials resulting from this kind of competition."

The company, wholly owned subsidiary of the General Electric company, would be in position to resume its normal production of electric ranges and other devices within eight to 12 weeks after war restrictions on materials are lifted, Sharp said. Full production could be attained in four to six months.

Makes Guns for Training.

War production at the company's big west side plant includes the manufacture of ingenious machine gun trainers that shoot plastic pellets and save valuable live ammunition in the training of troops in this country and abroad, and galleys for submarines. Heavy duty kitchen units are the only current products resembling normal manufacturing lines.

Here is how Sharp, after extensive research, measures the post-war prospects of the household kitchen and laundry equipment field:

"The first electric irons had to be given away because housewives were skeptical. For a time the iron carried the electric range along in the industry, providing a source of funds for development, then they both carried the electric water heater. Later the electric dishwasher was supported financially by the other devices.

"All of these appliances were gaining wider popularity before the war and we are prepared for a resumption of this demand when we are permitted to resume manufacturing. There will be refinements and improvements, of course, but no radical changes in design.

Doubts "Ultra-Modern" Vogue.

"The demand will be accentuated by the undoubtedly big building program that will develop after the war. Our interest in housing is concentrated in kitchen and laundry, but we don't expect the ultra-modern in housing to gain wide public favor for some time. People still prefer the things they are accustomed to."

Sharp said the much discussed electronic range has several hurdles to overcome, including safety, cost, radio interference and other mechanical problems. "The most formidable obstacles to be overcome are those of the senses—taste, sight, odor, and even hearing and feeling," he said. "Most of the foods would not appeal to the palates of people who have grown up liking foods somewhat different according to their senses."

Refrigerated delivery service probably will limit the demand for frozen food lockers in future years, he said, altho he acknowledged a large demand would develop in the immediate post-war years.

Stocks Extend Gain; Motors, and Rails Lead

New York, May 10 (AP).—The stock market extended its advance today in an upturn that benefited steels, rails, motors, and industrial specialties. Gains ranged from fractions to more than a point and several issues set new peaks for 1944.

Dealings, fast at the start, slowed at midday but picked up again toward the close with rapid turnover in Continental Motors, Canadian Pacific, and Consolidated Laundries, all of which advanced fractions. Volume of 646,560 shares, compared with 620,040 yesterday. The Associated Press 60 stock average rose 0.1.

DuPont, aided by increased earnings, gained 1⅛. Great Western Sugar, on the announcement a dividend cut is in prospect, lost 1⅝. Pacific Mills touched a new high and finished up 1¾. Montgomery Ward rose ⅝.

RAIL BONDS CLIMB.

New York, May 10 (AP).—Rail bonds extended their recovery today, but other groups were uneven. Many carrier loans gained fractions to a point or more and a few higher priced industrial specialties attracted investment attention. Florida East Coast 5s, persistently backward recently, lost another 3⅝ points at 49¼ on light sales. A long list of South American loans moved higher.

CHICAGO LIST ADVANCES.

Prices were higher yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange, with 21,000 issues traded. Montgomery Ward advanced ⅞. Automatic Washer, one of the most heavily traded issues, was one of seven to reach new 1944 highs, closing at 2, up ⅛. Midland United common, Chicago corporation, and Standard Dredging also were volume leaders.

LONDON STOCKS HIGH

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—Confidence the allies will succeed in the expected invasion of Europe is reflected in the London stock market's climb to the highest levels since 1937 in a steady uptrend that has persisted since the "Dunkerque lows" of 1940. By bidding for shares in British enterprises investors also show confidence in Britain's financial position.

Altho Britain is in her fifth year of war, she is paying 52 per cent of current expenditures out of income, investors recall in arguing Britain's financial structure is sound.

Actually the market's rise has not been spectacular. New highs created scarcely a ripple because most lines of business have improved. Described as "healthy" by financial quarters, the long trend has carried the Financial News' stock index to 108.3, more than double the war time low of 50.3.

CONT. MOTORS' PROFITS, SALES HIGHER IN YEAR

Detroit, Mich., May 10 (AP).—Continental Motors corporation and wholly-owned subsidiaries today reported net profit for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1943, was $7,493,820, or $2.50 a share.

Earnings in the preceding fiscal year were $5,472,884, or $1.82 a share, when the tax reserve was $18,000,000.

The statement listed sales at $196,498,812, compared with the preceding year's $126,389,881.

BRITAIN WILL REMAIN OFF GOLD STANDARD, COMMONS IS ASSURED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—Britain has no intention of returning to the gold standard, John Anderson, chancellor of the exchequer, told the house of commons today in a debate on proposals for an international monetary fund. If such a return is suggested, the government will give it "most vehement opposition," he added.

Altho the monetary plan should not be "clamped down" with gold, that metal should be an "adjustable link" between world currencies, Anderson said. He suggested such a guaranteed scheme must be the foundation of any international economic policy.

Col. Lambert Ward, Conservative, said if Britain wants the United States to play her part in any plan of international finance, coöperation with a certain amount of attachment to gold is "almost inevitable." Unless the United States is prepared to play her part in any scheme of this kind, it "would be just as futile as was the league of nations when America refused to take a hand in the game," he added.

OLRICH TO BAN ALL SECRECY IN SURPLUS SALES

Regular Channels of Trade to Be Used.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—A policy of full publicity and no secrecy was announced by Ernest L. Olrich today at his first press conference since his appointment a week ago as head of the treasury department's new division handling the sale of surplus army property. His office and records will be open to scrutiny for the benefit of prospective buyers and for the protection of public interests, he said.

Olrich, former executive of Marshall Field & Co. and now on leave as president of Munsingwear, Inc., is an assistant to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, working under the supervision of William L. Clayton, surplus war property administrator. He will dispose of consumer goods while other agencies dispose of surplus foods, ships, and capital goods.

578 New Cars Sold.

The first of his sales was also announced by Olrich. The property consists of 578 new passenger automobiles, released by the army, and 5 million square feet of tanned natural sheep shearlings, worth between 1½ and 2 million dollars, released by the army air forces.

"We'll cater to regular trade channels," said Olrich. "The automobiles will reach the public thru franchised dealers. The sheep shearlings will go to manufacturers.

"Our customers are bound by OPA and WPB regulations as to prices, ration quotas, and allocations. In the case of the automobiles the ODT was consulted and the cars are to be released in areas where most needed."

Springfield, Ill., is one of the locations for the car sales. The regional procurement office for that area is at 222 North Bank dr., Chicago. The automobiles include two and four door sedans, Fords, Chevrolets, and Plymouths.

Sales Volume Still Unknown.

"I don't have any estimate of the volume of goods we'll have to sell," said Olrich. "At present, we have 35 to 40 million dollars worth, but this is only a drop in the bucket in comparison with what we'll have when the war in Europe is ended."

Olrich said Clayton, his superior, is working with army and navy officials trying to get them to release goods from their overloaded warehouses as quickly as possible.

In response to questions Olrich said he has not been in office long enough to establish a detailed policy.

Olrich said he was authorized to sell by negotiation, by taking bids, or by auction, and that all of these methods probably will be used. He said he was seeking to organize a staff of top flight merchandisers in each class of goods. He said they will become treasury employes, dollar a year men, or advisers without compensation. He said he was also going to use established trade organizations as advisers. In addition, there is to be a sales manager in each of the 11 regional procurement offices, each with his advisory committee.

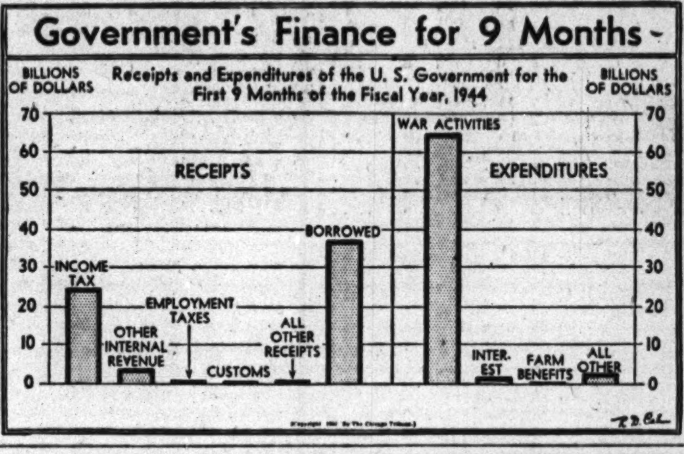
ASSAIL PAPER FIRM BOARD FOR DIVIDEND LACK

New York, May 10 (AP).—Directors of International Paper company were criticized at the annual meeting today for failure to declare dividends on common stock. One stockholder said the management was writing off larger than necessary amounts for obsolescence, paying high salaries, providing for large retirement allowances for executives and making unnecessary reserves for bad debts.

Board Chairman R. J. Cullen said in reply the company would have an opportunity to do a large volume of profitable post-war business.

Cullen said net profit for the first quarter amounted to $2,116,706 against $2,023,118 last year.

Government's Finance for 9 Months—



Asks if Unions Are to Rule All 'Bargaining'

Detroit, Mich., May 10 (AP).—The automotive council for war production, claiming to represent 20 per cent of the nation's war output, urged congress today to clarify the laws "to make it clear that it does not intend to permit labor leaders to take over the management of our war production plants."

In a statement issued thru Alvan Macauley, council president, the group said a strike of more than 3,300 foremen in Detroit area plants had affected war production and said the organized drive to unionize foremen was "a long step toward putting industrial management in the hands of union labor."

Follows Ford Signing.

"What kind of collective bargaining is it when union leaders sit on both sides of the table?" the council asked.

The statement was issued just a day after the Ford Motor company signed a one year sole bargaining contract with the Foreman's Association of America, an independent organization. Henry Ford II., executive vice president of the Ford company, is a council director.

Shortly before the striking foremen were to vote in membership meetings on back-to-work proposals resulting from a war labor board decision to take jurisdiction of their disputes, Robert H. Keys, FAA president, directed them to continue their strikes until managements in each plant agreed to set the time and place for conferences with their association.

FORD STRIKE ENDED.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 10 (AP).—Striking employes of the Ford Motor company of Canada, voted at a massmeeting tonight to return to work tomorrow morning, ending their second strike since April 20.

The vote to end the current strike, which began May 2, was taken after the reading of a national war time labor relations board statement refusing to deal with points at issue "as long as the strike continues contrary to the war time labor relations regulations."

SUGAR COMPANY HEAD TO URGE CUT IN DIVIDEND

Flemington, N. J., May 10 (AP).—Frank A. Kemp, president, Great Western Sugar company, told stockholders at their annual meeting today he would recommend a reduction to 40 cents a share in the common stock dividend to be declared in May and payable in July. The company has been paying 50 cents a common share quarterly and has already made two such payments this year.

Kemp said total dividend payments at the reduced rate would approximately equal net earnings of last year. He said that because 1944 planted acreage is only 80 per cent of the 10 year average and production and sales volume have dropped altho manufacturing costs have risen, the rate of earnings cannot be maintained this year under present price ceilings.

Rails Lose 60,000, Hire 74,000 Men in March

Class 1 railroads lost more than 60,000 employes during March, while hiring 74,000 new employes, the office of defense transportation reported yesterday. Recent monthly turnover rates show that separations for all causes range from 2.4 per cent to 18 per cent, representing a wasteful movement of thousands of people in and out of the industry, the ODT said.

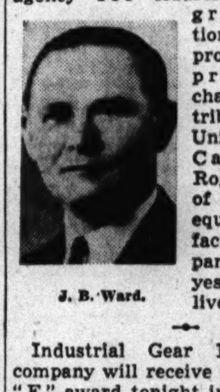
People and Events

Richard A. Hohfeler has been elected vice president of the Hub, Henry C. Lytton & Sons, it was announced yesterday. Hohfeler, a member of the board of directors, will continue in charge of store operations and act as controler.

R. A. Hohfeler.

Hohfeler formerly was an executive in the operation and control division of J. C. Penney company. He also has been appointed a member of the finance committee of the State Street council.

J. B. Ward, head of the Chicago agency for Addressograph-Multigraph corporation, has been promoted to vice president in charge of distribution in the United States and Canada, J. B. Rogers, president of the office equipment manufacturing company, announced yesterday. Ward lives in Evanston.



J. B. Ward.

Industrial Gear Manufacturing company will receive the army-navy "E" award tonight in the Paradise ballroom. Comdr. William C. Butler Jr., bureau of ordnance, Washington, D. C., will present the "E" pennant. Lt. Col. Royal H. Place, executive officer of district 3, 6th service command, will present pins to employes.

SEC TO REOPEN MIDDLE WEST'S DISPOSAL ORDER

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today granted petitions by the Middle West corporation and subsidiaries to reopen the records for additional evidence on the retainability of many of its southwestern properties to be disposed of under a Jan. 24 SEC order issued under geographic integration provisions of the holding company act. A hearing will be held May 24.

A compromise reorganization plan for the Midland system was assailed by a security holders' group today as "scarcely more than a reprehensible attempt to whitewash the Insull manipulations." Known as the Hilbert group, the stockholders asserted in a brief that the plan's purpose was "to avoid the light of an adjudication establishing the wrongful manipulation of the Insull management at the expense of public security holders."

Briefs of two other security holder groups also opposed the plan filed by trustees of Midland Utilities company and its parent, Midland United. Arguments will be heard May 15.

OPA to Consider Appeals for Furniture Price Rises

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—The OPA announced today that it will consider appeals for price relief from manufacturers of household furniture who have been told by the war labor board to grant wage increases and whose over-all operations are unprofitable.

HOG ARRIVALS CROWD YARDS; 13,000 UNSOLD

Embargo in Effect at Cleveland.

Selling of all classes of meat animals continued heavy thruout the country yesterday as many districts reported the corn shortage was rapidly becoming more threatening. In the first three days of this week almost 1 million cattle, hogs, and sheep were unloaded at 20 major markets, compared with a three day total of 791,000 last week and 730,000 a year ago.

At Cleveland an embargo on hogs, the first in 20 years, was in effect. A. Z. Baker, president, Cleveland Union Stockyards company, explained the action was necessary to give processors time to butcher 5,000 hogs on hand.

Hog Congestion Grows.

The congestion in the Chicago market became heavier when packers were able to butcher approximately 60 per cent of the supply. nearly 13,000 hogs remained unsold, most of them government weights which sellers were unable to dispose of at the $13.75 a hundred pounds floor price and which packers dared not buy for less because they believed such action may lead to the loss of federal subsidy payments.

Altho both top and average prices remained unchanged, at $13.75 and $13.00, the various classes showed more unevenness than usual. Buyers paid strong to 25 cents higher prices for stock under 200 pounds.

Prices of butchers weighing more than 270 pounds were 10 cents lower to 10 cents higher. Sows sold slowly at weak to 10 cents lower prices. Most 275 to 350 pound butchers brought $11.75 to $12.35.

150,000 Hogs Received.

The 20 big markets received 150,000 hogs despite embargoes at some centers and pleas by hog marketing committees for farmers to withhold shipments. This volume was 47,000 more than a week ago, and 55,000 more than a year ago.

Other classes of live stock met improved demand at steady prices. The $16.90 steer top was paid for 1,379 to 1,453 pound cattle, altho most sales were at $13.75 to $16.25. Other classes of cattle were steady.

The lamb supply sold readily at prices steady with the best time of the preceding session. The $16.15 top was paid for Colorado stock.

'1945 GOAL WON'T BE MET'

Des Moines, Ia., May 10 [Special].—A warning that the nation's swine producers will be unable to meet pork requirements for 1945 because "of confused government orders" was contained in a five-page protest letter sent today to government officials by the Iowa Swine Producers' association.

The letter stated that the present corn freeze order has interfered seriously with the feeding and marketing of live stock.

"This program is forcing an unnecessary and abnormal liquidation of hogs—both unfinished pigs and breeding stock," the letter stated. "If this forced liquidation is continued for long, the curtailment of hog production may seriously impair the industry's ability to furnish the pork requirements of this country in 1945.

"Continuing to add to the dilemma, the floor on live hogs is to be lowered to $12.50 by Oct. 1, 1944. It still takes a 13 to 1 differential for the average swine grower to break even and a $1.03½ corn and $12.50 hogs will not show much over a 12 to 1 ratio, which means a loss to the grower and feeder."

The letter was signed by Harry D. Linn, Iowa state secretary of agriculture, and William Youngclass, president of the Swine Producers' association, who sent it to Stabilization Director Vinson, OPA Director Bowles, and War Food Administrator Jones.

April Showers Boost Wheat Crop Estimate

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—The department of agriculture estimated today that April weather brought a 60 million bushel increase in the winter wheat crop, but said this was largely offset later by delays in planting of spring crops caused by one of the wettest and coldest spring seasons in years.

The winter wheat crop was forecast at 662,275,000 bushels, based on May 1 conditions, which would be one-fourth more than last year's crop and 16 per cent above the 10 year [1933-42] average.

Field Work Far Behind.

The department took an apprehensive view of spring farm conditions. Because of excessive rains, farmers in the country as a whole appear to have finished less of their spring work by May 1 than in any season in many years, the report said. The weather bureau brought the report up to date with an account of more rain and unseasonable cold in a large section of the country last week.

This delay, coupled with the fact that there are fewer workers on farms to make up for the loss of time, will not permit full acreage of all crops, the department said. Production goals set by the war food administration called for the largest acreage in history.

Rye Estimate Reduced.

The department said the planting battle facing agriculture in the next few weeks "seems likely to be the toughest the farmers of this country have ever fought."

The only other crop for which production estimates were given was rye, the amount being 29,711,000 bushels, compared with 30,781,000 last year and with 40,446,000 for the 10 year average.

The department said rains had improved prospects for pastures and hay. Fruit crops were reported still in danger from late frosts in northern states but prospects for the country as a whole were described as substantially better than average for this time of year.

RYE CLOSES HIGHER

Scattered selling of May rye contracts at the opening yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade dropped the price ⅝ cent to a new low for two months, but the market received fair support later and advanced 1⅜ cents to close with a gain of ⅝ cent. Brokers said the trading represented scattered liquidation and changing of hedges on cash grain into deferred deliveries.

The late upturn was in the face of weakness in Winnipeg, where rye futures dropped 1¼ to 1½ cents. Deferred deliveries in Chicago were ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower.

Price changes in other grains were small. Wheat finished ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. Oats lost ⅛ to ⅝ cent, and barley was ⅝ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

CARPET MAKER SAYS LATE 1944 OUTLOOK IS DIM

John A. Sweetser, president of Bigelow-Sanford Carpet company, yesterday said current operations are satisfactory, but the outlook for the second half of the year is uncertain. Production of carpets and rugs is restricted by small supplies of carpet wools, cotton, jute, and jute substitutes, he said, and because of shortage of man power.

Sweetser reported net sales for the first quarter increased 11 per cent over the same period of 1943 to $9,632,989, with war materials accounting for $6,506,557. Unfilled war orders as of April 1 amounted to 8 million dollars, of which 75 per cent is for delivery prior to Aug. 1.

For the three months ended April 1 the company reported a profit of $252,268, compared with a net loss of $65,337 a year earlier.

Budd Wheel Meeting Held Over for Renegotiation

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10 (AP).—The annual stockholders' meeting of the Budd Wheel company, held today, was adjourned to Aug. 9 in order that the company's report of earnings for 1943 may reflect application of the renegotiation act.

ORDER BIDDING FOR MOST NEW RAILROAD LIENS

ICC Makes Ruling Effective July 1.

Washington, D. C., May 10 [Special].—The interstate commerce commission, with two members dissenting, held today that railroad securities with seven exceptions should be sold thru competitive bidding, or its equivalent, in order to obtain ICC approval of the sales. It is said that for the present no formal rule or regulation should be promulgated, but added that "railroads applying after June 30, 1944, for authority to issue securities [under the ICC act] will be expected to observe these findings."

The majority opinion stated that the probability is that railroads are paying too high a price for "the alleged benefits of private negotiation."

Raps Exclusive Dealings.

"We know of no good reason why a railroad should deal with a single investment house or why it should not consult more than one investment firm as to any piece of financing," it said.

"While the charges and intimations of monopoly, banker domination, and the lack of arms' length bargaining have not been sustained, the fact is that many railroads continued to give most of their business to one or the other of two leading investment banking firms, and have failed or refused to investigate the possibilities of other avenues of financing."

Commissioners Claude R. Porter and Carroll Miller filed dissenting opinions and William E. Lee was absent and did not participate. Porter asserted that the majority argued "it is necessary to break the alleged monopoly of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Morgan Stanley & Co. in railroad financing."

Sought by Halsey and Otis.

Prominent in seeking the competitive bidding rule have been Halsey Stuart & Co., Chicago, and Otis & Co., Cleveland, O. The Association of American Railroads, the American Short Line Railroad association, a number of individual roads, the Investment Bankers association, the National Association of Securities Dealers, and some others have been in opposition.

The exceptions to the competitive bidding order cover: Common and preferred stocks; securities sold or issued pro rata to existing holders of securities of the issuing company; any security maturing in not more than three years; securities issues not exceeding 1 million dollars; securities issued in exchange for securities or properties of any other railroad company acquired under ICC authority; securities sold or issued to a railroad company by any of its subsidiary companies where the securities are to be held subject to further order of the ICC, and securities which the ICC shall find after a hearing should not be subject to sale under bidding.

Invitation for Bids

For $10,000,000 Serial Collateral Trust Notes

CHICAGO, BURLINGTON & QUINCY RAILROAD COMPANY hereby invites bids for the entire issue of $10,000,000 principal amount of Serial Collateral Trust Notes of 1944, to be issued by said Company December 1, 1944, to mature $500,000 each third month thereafter, beginning March 1, 1945, and ending December 1, 1949, to bear interest at the rate of 1½% per annum, payable quarterly on the same dates, and to be secured by a Collateral Trust Indenture to The First National Bank of Chicago, as Trustee, to be dated December 1, 1944, under which Indenture said Company will pledge as security for said Notes, $15,000,000 principal amount of its First and Refunding Mortgage 4½% Bonds, Series of 1970, dated August 1, 1944, to be issued for that purpose.

As purchaser may elect, said Notes will be issued in the denomination of $1,000 in coupon form, payable to bearer (registerable as to principal), or in registered form without coupons in any denominations specified in said Indenture.

Proceeds of sale of said Notes will be used in retirement of the outstanding $56,773,000 principal amount of Illinois Division Mortgage Bonds of said Company, which will be redeemed January 1, 1945. Certain insurance companies have agreed to purchase at par $30,000,000 principal amount of 25-year Collateral Trust 3½% Bonds, December 1, 1944. The balance of approximately $20,664,332 required for such redemption, including call premium and accrued interest, will be provided from treasury cash of the Railroad Company.

Issuance and sale of said Notes, issuance and sale of said Collateral Trust Bonds, issuance and pledge of the collateral for said Notes and Bonds, and various other steps in connection therewith, require authorization of the Interstate Commerce Commission, for which application has been made by said Company. Acceptance of the most favorable bid pursuant to this invitation will be subject to and contingent upon obtaining all such Commission authority.

Bids are to be made in duplicate on forms furnished by said Company, and delivered to the Treasurer of said Company by mail or messenger at Room 205, Burlington Building, 547 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago 6, Illinois, in plain, sealed envelopes bearing no indication of the name of the bidder or the amount of the bid, marked "Bid under Proposed Contract No. 2 of 1944," on or before 12:00 noon, Central War Time, on the 15th day of May, 1944. At that time and place, bids so received will be opened and persons interested may be present if they so desire.

Each bid must state the name and address of the bidder and, if a corporation, the names and addresses of its officers, directors, general manager, and purchasing or selling officer or agent in the transaction, and if a firm, partnership, or association, the names and addresses of each member, and of the manager, and the purchasing or selling officer or agent in the transaction.

Either a cashier's check or a certified check for $200,000, payable to Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company, must be furnished with each bid, such checks to be returned promptly except to the accepted bidder, in which case the check will be held by said Company as security for performance of the contract of purchase and applied on the purchase price. No interest will be allowed on the amount of said check, but an equal principal amount of U. S. Government bonds may be substituted as such security, to be returned upon performance of the contract of purchase.

Said Company reserves the right, in its discretion, to accept or reject any or all bids. Bids for less than the total $10,000,000 issue will not be considered.

Notices of acceptance and of rejection of bids will be delivered or mailed not later than May 16, 1944, to the bidders at the addresses designated in their respective bids.

Persons desiring to bid may obtain forms of bid, copies of proposed Notes and Collateral Trust Indenture securing same, and may examine said application to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and accompanying exhibits, at the office of the Treasurer of said Company, Room 205, Burlington Building, 547 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago 6, Illinois, or at the office of its Fiscal Agent, Room 1602, 2 Wall Street, New York 5, N. Y.

CHANGE IN OPA'S MARKUP SOUGHT BY DEHYDRATORS

Every One Admits Error; No One Corrects It.

Ten months ago the office of price administration was faced with the problem of devising a price structure for dehydrated vegetables. The new food products had come onto the market only recently, and there was no "historical markup" the OPA could use in fixing price ceilings.

Over the protests of the dehydrating industry, the OPA decided to place the dried vegetables—which include spinach, carrots, beets, and potatoes—in the same classification as navy beans, dried peas, and blackeye peas. Subsequently, OPA officials in Washington, D. C., indicated they realized perhaps the dehydrators were right when they complained there was no price relationship between the staple dried beans and peas and dehydrated vegetables from the standpoint of marketing.

Industry Fights System.

Up to yesterday, however, nothing had been done to change the classification, altho the industry has not let up in its attempts to correct what it considers a harmful situation. P. D. Ridenour, a dehydrated foods manufacturer at 222 North Bank dr. and a member of the National Dehydrators' association, said he has been writing and talking to OPA officials for more than seven months.

Ridenour recounted that last Oct. 1 he wrote to Jean F. Carroll, director of the OPA's food price division in Washington, that the industry members who were attempting to develop a civilian market for dehydrated vegetables were "still marking time" regarding the reclassification. On Dec. 14, Ridenour continued, he and other members of the dehydrators' association went to Washington for a conference with OPA officials, but nothing developed, altho they did learn their products had been misclassified.

Wait for Orientation.

"On or about Jan. 20 of this year I was assured by Max Christopher, price executive of the OPA distribution price branch, who was in Chicago, that every one agreed a mistake had been made and the matter would be corrected immediately," said Ridenour. "Unfortunately, Mr. Christopher was succeeded by Edward F. Phelps, so we were then informed on Feb. 28 that we must wait until Mr. Phelps 'oriented' himself to his new job."

Ridenour said that three weeks ago the wholesale grocers advisory committee joined the dehydrators in recommending reclassification. He explained that as a new specialty product, dehydrated vegetables cannot compete with frozen, canned, and fresh vegetables in the wholesale and retail markets unless profit margins are increased.

On May 1 Ridenour again wrote to Carroll, reminding the OPA that the industry is still "marking time." So far, there has been no reply.

ENDOWMENT POLICY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I had a 20 year endowment insurance policy that paid up this year. Instead of cashing the dividends each year I left them in toward additional insurance. When the policy was paid up I received $2,644. The premiums paid amounted to $2,075, and the dividends reinvested totaled $400. On what sum must I pay income tax? K. B.

Answer: The difference between the $2,075 paid in and the $2,644 received when the contract matured constitutes ordinary taxable income. The so-called dividends actually represent a return of premiums rather than income. If the dividends had not been reinvested they would have reduced the premium cost of the policy.

LATE DECLARATION.

I have been in the hospital and unable to file the income tax estimate due April 15. What shall I do about this when I am released from the hospital? A. R.

Answer: File a declaration along with an affidavit that you were ill at the time the return should have been made. Certain circumstances, such as severe illness, are recognized as legitimate causes for failure to file an income tax return on time, and no penalty is assessed by the collector.

CHICAGO OFFICE OF WFA TO TAKE OVER EGG BUYING

The Chicago office of distribution of the war food administration, rather than the Washington office, will purchase all eggs in carload lots tendered from 11 states under the WFA's three purchase programs to support egg prices to producers, E. O. Pollock, midwest regional director of distribution, announced yesterday.

Amendment of the program to permit purchase by the Chicago office was made to expedite handling and shipment, and thereby strengthen the market for the large egg production held in country warehousing facilities, Pollock said.

The WFA is buying current receipts at 29 cents a dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange; graded eggs, under an announcement effective yesterday, at prices ranging from 31.2 cents in North Dakota to 33.3 cents in Michigan for wholesale grades, in cases weighing at least 45 pounds, and thru special agents buying under contract with the WFA at 27 cents for current receipts to farm producers.

SCHISM WIDENS IN DEMOCRATIC POLL TAX FEUD

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Democratic supporters of the poll tax renewed their campaign in the senate today to hang the labels of communism and the CIO and those who advocate abolition of the tax that disfranchises Negroes in eight southern states.

This campaign, however, only widened the breach between the squabbling Democratic factions, for Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.], floor leader of the repeal bill, brought out into the open the fact that previosly had been hushed up during the two days of debate—that President Roosevelt is a foe of the poll tax.

Moreover, Mead told the senate, the poll tax is opposed by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and by Gov. Dewey of New York, a leading Republican Presidential possibility.

Challenge Issued on Test.

Emphasizing Mr. Roosevelt's position, Mead challenged Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.] to allow the repeal bill to pass, that the President's stand on permitting all Americans to vote might be tested.

McKellar took refuge in party politics, asserting this is an unfortunate time to bring up a bill "that is likely to injure the Democratic party in a Presidential election year."

The Republicans, who favor abolishing the poll tax, took no part in the discussion, but read their papers or chuckled at the Democratic split.

Mead told the senate the people, particularly those of the southern states, want the poll tax abolished. He was attacked by the poll tax supporters headed by McKellar and Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.], who took turns ridiculing some of the various organizations that have lent support to the bill.

George Charges "Communism."

Sen. George [D., Ga.] charged that the bill is sponsored by men of "alien philosophy," who are "un-American." He said federal abolition of the poll tax, is "a strange doctrine, that comes right out of the Communist creed."

Sen. Bailey [D., N. C.] led the attack on the CIO, charging that its political action committee is directing the fight against the poll tax while forcing workers to pay membership dues or lose their chance of earning a living. It is "shameless hypocrisy," he said, for an organization engaging in such practices to "raise a great racket" about the poll tax.

Mead was the first to speak at length in behalf of the bill, as the debate has been confined principally to long speeches by poll tax supporters.

Altho the Republicans have been protesting what they call the highhandedness of the Roosevelt regime for years on the ground that the administration ignores the Constitution, now it is the southern Democrats who are calling for constitutional protection against federal action to permit citizens to vote.

Southern Democrats have made no secret of their plans to "talk the bill to death" in a filibuster, if necessary.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

May 10, 1944.

EXCITEMENT and drama marked the birth of the first calf in the Aberdeen-Angus herd at the farm, with the result that the farmhouses now have been converted to arsenals and the manager carries a double barreled shotgun wherever he goes.

It began late one afternoon when the flockmaster walked down into the duck park with the evening feed. Beyond the little lot the Angus heifers grazed up and down a lane. Suddenly the flockmaster heard the heifers mooing excitedly. Peering under the low branches of the trees in the lot, he saw 16 of the black animals milling about with their heads down.

Dog Takes a Beating.

As he approached, he thought they were butting and kicking a black calf. He called to his wife to get the herdsman over immediately, and then ran toward the heifers. As he got to the animals, he realized that what he had taken for a new calf was really a large black dog.

The heifers had formed a circle, and with heads lowered were fighting off charge after charge by the dog. Each time the dog sprang, the Angus hooked him or let fly with their heels. The dog was suffering a severe mauling and the approach of the flockmaster was the final straw. With a last snarl, the dog turned and fled limping across the woodlot.

Form Circle for Defense.

Inside the circle formed by the angry heifers lay the new born calf. Beside it stood its frightened dam. When the dog appeared in the meadow the animals had instinctively formed a circle, as their wild ancestors did, about the calf and fought furiously to protect it.

The dog has been partially identified as the one that raided the flock of Karakul sheep last week and made off with a three day old lamb. The men found the lamb a quarter of a mile away from its pasture, dead and badly torn. The dog apparently separated it from its mother and chased it before making the kill.

Now all the men have shotguns in their kitchens waiting for a sight of the black dog. The manager is carrying his gun with him in the car hoping to espy the marauder. The men vow that if the dog ever gets within gun range it will have made its last raid.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have large plots, and want to produce a great many tomatoes can practice direct seeding in the garden rows rather than planting greenhouse seedlings. This method is not practical, however, unless the gardener wishes to keep more than 100 plants in production.

Seedlings started in greenhouses in March will produce much earlier crops than those planted from seed in the garden; thus, the only advantage in planting seeds is the saving in cost.

Gardeners who want to make direct seedings can plant around May 15 to 20, or 10 to 15 days before the greenhouse plants are placed in the rows. The seeds should be sown an inch deep, and their seedlings must be severely thinned after germination. If the plants are to be staked, one strong seedling can be left to each 30 inches in the row. If they are to be left on the ground, allot a plant to each 40 inches. Rows should be three feet apart.

FINE GUERNSEYS ON BLOCK TODAY AT ELMHURST

More than 40 of the best Guernsey breeding cattle from leading middle western farms will be auctioned during the ninth annual invitational sale to be held today at Sunny Brook farm, Roosevelt and Butterfield roads, Elmhurst. The sales will start at 1 p. m.

The animals to be sold were selected as typical Guernsey specimens by a committee of leading breeders and judges. The committee included L. V. Wilson, Excelsior, Minn.; George M. Newlin, Farmington, Mich.; Joseph Golinvaux, Waterloo, Ia.; Chauncey McCormick, Naperville; W. C. Farner, Bismarck, Mo.; A. W. Telfer, Lafayette, Ind.; Clarence Sheridan, Fond du Lac, Wis.; Kent Hayes, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Richard Ulken, Goshen, Ind., and Otto Klein, Thiensville, Wis.

UNIVERSITY MEDICAL LEADERS WOULD VOID DOG DETENTION LAW

Nine university medical leaders said yesterday they would ask the city council to rescind an ordinance enacted April 12 requiring that stray dogs be held at the pound for five days before disposition. Previously dogs could be disposed of after being held 24 hours.

Dr. George E. Wakerlin, professor of physiology at the University of Illinois college of medicine, said the new ordinance had increased the number of stray dogs because capacity of the pound has been cut 40 per cent. Among those supporting his plea to rescind are Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, head of the physiology department at Northwestern university, and Dr. Anton J. Carlson, professor emeritus at the University of Chicago.

In a statement to Ald. O'Hallaren [18th], author of the ordinance, they said animals taken from the pound were used to instruct 2,031 medical students and 937 dental students, and for medical research in war problems.

NAVY OUTLINES 3 PROGRAMS FOR POST-WAR FLEET

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Vice Adm. F. J. Horne, vice chief of naval operations, disclosed today that the navy has blueprinted three optional plans for the complexion of our post-war navy, including proposals as to its size, disposition, bases, and partial demobilization.

The admiral made the disclosure before the special house committee on post-war military policy, where he expressed doubt as to the wisdom of consolidating the army and navy into a single department, as advocated recently by War Secretary Stimson and top army generals.

Based on 3 Assumptions.

While Adm. Horne declined to outline proposals for a peace time navy in specific terms, he said the plans differ on the basis of three alternative assumptions:

1. That there will be no agreement among the allied nations to coöperate in maintaining world peace.

2. That the United States will take responsibility for keeping peace in the western Atlantic and the Pacific oceans.

3. That the allied nations agree on some system for collective security.

Fleet Size Prescribed.

Basic demobilization plans called for by the first and second assumptions have been drawn in preliminary form, Adm. Horne continued. Such plans, he said, include four fields—personnel, ships in excess of post-war requirements, the naval shore establishment, and private industrial establishments in which the navy has a financial interest.

"These basic plans," he added, "prescribe the size of the post-war fleet, including the necessary aircraft and marine corps personnel, and the location of strategic bases necessary to support the fleet."

In addition, the admiral said, a study has been made of what naval reductions can be made after Germany has been defeated but before victory over Japan.

Merger Opposed.

Both Adm. Horne and Vice Adm. Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, another witness, opposed consolidation of the war and navy departments before the war is won and showed little enthusiasm for it even then. The suggestion is being seriously studied within the navy, however, they added. Stimson recently told the committee the merger might be undertaken right after Germany is beaten. Navy Undersecretary Forrestal has opposed this.

Adm. Horne said that because of the vastly different makeup and problems of the two services, consolidation "is open to serious question, pending further intensive study."

Adm. Jacobs contended the army and navy have widely divergent personnel training problems and said there is little room for eliminating "duplication," which he added will be necessary under any system.

Both officers said present army-navy coördination under the joint chiefs of staff is highly satisfactory.

"We will be on firmer ground for the post-war years," said Jacobs, "if we hold to effective interservice working relationships and keep alive freedom for the display of initiative and esprit de corps on the part of both services."
